World Bill Of Rights Adopted

Declaration Is Approved Over Red Opposition

Vishinsky Charges West Paved Way For Second World War

PARIS, Dec. 10 (AP)—The United Nations tonight adopted over Russian objection the first world bill of rights proclaiming freedom and equality for everyone.

The vote was 48 to 0 with eight abstentions and two delegations absent.

When the ballots were counted the delegates stood to applaud Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who championed the declaration since its beginning two and a half years ago. Russia and her satellites sat in silence.

During the crackling Assembly debate, Chief Soviet Spokesman Andrei Y. Vishinsky accused the United States, Britain and France of paving the way for World War II. The fiery Deputy Foreign Minister seized the occasion to launch one of the bitterest attacks yet against the West.

The adopted document, entitled "Universal Declaration of Human Rights," has only moral authority until the next regular assembly in September 1949. Before that meeting opens, a human rights convenant is to be drafted. The convenant would obligate signatory countries to respect individual rights or face penalties.

Evatt Praises Mrs. Roosevelt

Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, of Australia, president of the current Assembly, said the declaration "gradually will terminate political difference" in the world. He praised Mrs. Roosevelt as a "leader whose name is now lifted in an even greater manner."

Evatt called the moment of adoption "historic" in the United Nation's fight for world peace. He added that he thought it effectively answered critics who claim the world organization does nothing.

Western delegates described the document as a "potent ideological weapon" against Communism. Russia and her allies in the Slav bloc charged it would foster fascism everywhere, and tried to defeat it with a filibuster they began last night.

Eight nations abstained from voting. They were South Africa, Saudi Arabia, and Russia and her five allies — Poland, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, White Russia and the Soviet Ukraine. Honduras and Yemen were recorded as absent.

Vishinsky, making his second speech in the human rights debate, charged it was the leaders of the West—not Hitler—who share the chief blame for the Second World War. He said "Britain, supported by the United States, did everything in order to open the door to Hitler's attack against Russia."

"The cause of the Second World War," the Russian delegate said,

British Recognition Of Jewish State Is Urged By Churchill

Says Present Policy Unrealistic; Would Admit Spain To U.N.

BACK TO JAPAN—Jacob Deshazer (above), a bombardier who took part in the Doolittle raid on Tokyo, is on his way back to Japan, this time as a Methodist missionary. Deshazer, 35, his wife and their year-old son will sail soon from San Francisco. Deshazer says he found his future in a Japanese prison camp where he spent 40 months.

LONDON, Dec. 10 (AP)—Winston Churchill today urged the British government to abandon its "sulky boycott" of Israel and give prompt recognition to the new Jewish state.

He asked the Labor government to face the fact that the Jews "have a victorious army at their disposal" in Palestine. A continuation of Britain's present unrealistic policy in the Middle East, Churchill said, could produce a falling out with the United States.

The Conservative Party leader also told the House of Commons that Britain should restore full diplomatic relations with Generalissimo Francisco Franco's Spain "as soon as we can obtain the sanction of the United Nations," and that Spain should be admitted to United Nations.

The Labor government gave Britain's wartime prime minister a prompt reply on both points. C. P. Mayhew, Undersecretary for Foreign Affairs, said the Cabinet was not prepared "at this time" to recognize Israel.

"Psychological Blunder"

It would be a "psychological blunder," Mayhew added, for Britain now to support Spain's entry into the United Nations.

Churchill expressed concern over the spread of Communism in China. Britain, he said, should make it clear she will use her naval, air and military forces to defend the British crown colony of Hong Kong "from any assault that may be made upon it."

He supported the government's policy in the East-West split over Germany but urged that attempts be made to reach a settlement with the Soviet Union before the Russians "have the atomic bomb."

Churchill heatedly denied assertions by Communists that he is seeking to promote an East-West war. He disclosed that in 1945, 10 days before the European war ended, he sent a personal message to Prime Minister of Russia, warning that any East-West quarrel would "tear the world to pieces." He told the house the letter marked "the highest point in my relations with Stalin."

In his lengthy review of foreign problems, Churchill also:

War Crimes Trials—Deplored

1. Deplored the war crimes and denazification trials in Germany, describing them as a "hateful process" which should be stopped. He said: "Vengeance is the most costly of luxuries."

2. Advocated a slow-down policy in the demolition of German industries "except those directly or exclusively concerned with war making powers."

3. Chided the Labor government for "petty personal jealousies" in "refusing to name Conservatives and Liberals to a committee to study western unity." The committee of representatives from the five Brussels treaty powers is discussing proposals for a consultative parliament or council of the Western democratic nations of Europe.

4. Described as a "tremendous event" the projected North Atlantic defense pact which would link the United States and Canada with Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. Such a treaty might have averted the last war, he said.

Food Processor Sees Continued Drop In Prices

Committee Told Peak Apparently Reached

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP) — There's a good chance the nation's grocery bill is going to be less from now on, one of the country's biggest food processors said today.

This word of optimism came from Clarence Francis, chairman of the board of the General Foods Corporation, whose firm does about two per cent of the country's food processing.

Francis told a Senate-House Economic Committee the price indices show the peak has been reached and the trend of food prices is on the down slope.

Trend Seen Continuing

This trend is likely to continue, he said, "unless something is thrown into the picture which we cannot forsee."

He pointed to lower wheat, corn and potato prices as an indicator of the general market.

In his view, industry is emerging from the seller's "market" which began with America's entry into World War Two. He added "soft spots are occurring and more will come."

But he said this country cannot expect to avoid high prices and profits entirely until there's world peace.

"We perhaps have been a little slow," he said, "to accept the inevitable fact that the interest of the American consumer, investor, worker and the American government itself are all inter-related with the problem of world peace."

Warns Committee

Discussing the possibility of higher taxes on business to meet increasing government costs, Francis warned the committee:

"If you make industry profitless, it will reduce the government's revenue. And somebady will have to determine what that would mean. x x x If you destroy something that made this country grow, the consequences would be serious."

He said it is estimated if the national economy shows a drop of 15 per cent, then government income would drop by 25 per cent.

Tire Tread Signs Six-Year-Old's Letter To Santa

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Dec. 10 (AP) — A dirty tire tread signed little Emilio Landeros' letter to Santa.

On a bus en route home from school, Emilio laborously began writing to Santa Claus. "Dear Santa," he wrote. "I have been good. I want a . . . "

He decided to try again. "Dear S . . . "

Just then the bus reached his corner. He jumped off, the letter clutched in his hand. He scurried around the front of the bus. A heavy truck hit him.

When help arrived, the Santa letter was beside the six-year-old. Across it were tread marks. Emilio died en route to a hospital.

Chiang Extends Martial Law To Southern China

Step Taken As Reds Try To Cut Behind Hwai River Line

NANKING, Dec. 10 (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek proclaimed martial law tonight for all nationalist China except the island of Formosa, Tibet and three semi-independent far western provinces.

The Communist-threatened cities of Nanking, Shanghai and Peiping already have been under martial law for a month.

There was no explanation for tonight's action extending the military rule to huge South China areas thus far untouched by combat.

It came, however, as the Communists were attempting to cut behind the Hwai River line which is Nanking's last barrier north of the Yangtze River, and as government troops struggled to smash two Communist-laid traps farther north.

Reds Sever Railway

A spokesman for the Communications Ministry disclosed that Communists had temporarily severed the railway between the Hwai River line anchor of Pengu and Pukow, Nanking's railway terminal on the north bank of the Yangtze.

The spokesman said the railway had been cut in four places about 80 miles northwest of Nanking, but that repairs had been made within 24 hours.

The official Central News Agency attributed the destruction to "small Communist marauding bands."

The railway is vital for support of the Sixth and Eighth Army Groups fighting the Communists just north and northwest of Pengpu.

Other government sources said the Communists evidently were trying to cross the Hwai at a river bend a score of miles east of Pengpu and 90 miles northwest of Nanking.

Reds' Usual Tactics

(The Communists appeared to be following their time-tried tactics of cutting government supply lines and making wide end runs through weak spots to the rear.)

The government still was trying to extricate four of its army groups caught in two Communist encirclements northwest of Pengpu and southwest of Suchow.

Writing from the front northwest of Pengpu, Associated Press Correspondent Harold K. Milks reported the Sixth Army Group had reached within 25 miles southeast of the encircled 12th Army Group.

Milks said the Sixth Group's three armies were advancing northwest on a 25-mile-wide front 20 miles from Pengpu.

Two Are Indicted In Negro's Slaying

LYONS, Ga., Dec. 10 (AP) — Two white men were indicted on murder charges today in the ambush slaying of Robert Mallard, Toombs County negro.

A special grand jury returned true bills after hearing a hysterical account of the slaying by Mallard's widow.

It named William L. Howell, 32, a farmer, and Roderick Clifton, 26.

Judge Robert H. Humphrey announced the two would be tried at a special session of Superior Court already called for January 11.

No charges were brought against James Spivey, 24, a third man who had been held in jail. Sheriff R. E. Gray said Spivey would be released immediately.

Howell, Clifton, Spivey and two other white men surrendered earlier when reports circulated the widow would name robed, but unmasked, men she claimed slew her husband.

Mrs. Mallard had signed a warrant charging Howell with murder. Clifton and Spivey were held along with him pending the grand jury's action. The other two were released.

Chesapeake Bay Ship Blast Injures Three

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 10 (AP) — Three Baltimore men were burned, none seriously, in an explosion today aboard a wartime vessel making a trial run in Chesapeake Bay before returning to passenger and freight service.

Admitted to Emergency Hospital with burns were Robert C. Bassett, 27, and Peter R. Mayer, 31. Harry O'Berry also was burned slightly but was not admitted.

The men reported an explosion "at the base of an engine" on the Anna Salen. They were working in the engine room.

Biggest Meteor Show Of 1948 Is Under Way

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. (AP)—The biggest meteor show of 1948 will flash across the skies this weekend, government scientists announced today.

The National Bureau of Standards said the Geminid meteor display—named from the Constellation Gemini—will last from tonight through Dec. 13.

"The meteors will be visible in nearly all parts of the sky although the full moon will diminish their brilliance," the bureau said in a statement.

Police HQ Robbed

PARIS, Dec. 10 (AP) — A thief stole 5,000,000 francs ($16,600) today from national police headquarters.

NEW JOB FOR SANTA-- This representative of the Retail Clerks Union (AFL) is busy picketing the Denver, Colo., Drygoods Company store seven hours a day. The store's employes are not on strike but the union seeks a contract and the right to represent the clerks as bargaining agent. "The kids keep asking me what I'm doing with this sign," Santa said.

Truman "Listens Sympathetically" To Mme. Chiang

Discuss China Crisis After 5 O'Clock Tea

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. — (AP) — President Truman "listened sympathetically" late today to a plea by Madame Chiang Kai-Shek for new American aid to China's hard-pressed Nationalist government.

They talked over the China crisis for about a half hour at Blair House after a 5 o'clock tea which Mrs. Truman attended.

Madame Chiang "stated her case and the President listened sympathetically," Eben Ayres, a press secretary, told newsmen.

Mme. Chiang, wife of Generalissimo Chiang, herself told reporters that "the President is the one" to report on the conference.

It was her first meeting with Mr. Truman since she arrived 10 days ago on a hurried, unofficial mission for the anti-Communist Nanking regime.

Returns To Marshall Home

Ayres said in response to a question he did not know whether Mr. Truman would see Mme. Chiang again. She left after the meeting with Mrs. George C. Marshall, wife of the Secretary of State, to return to the Marshall home at nearby Leesburg, Va., where she has been a guest since her arrival.

Diplomatic officials were frankly skeptical that the result of the conference would be anything approaching all-out aid to China.

These officials said in advance of the meeting, that there was little hope Mr. Truman could offer Madame Chiang on her plea for emergency United States aid, except a promise to give the whole Chinese a serious continuing study. It is not a question of wavering American sympathy for China, they emphasized, but rather a maze of complex difficulties.

Expected Basis Of Plea

In broad outline, Madame Chiang was expected to base her plea on these points:

1. Traditional Chinese - American friendship.

2. The view that Chinese Nationalist troops are fighting a war on behalf of all anti-Communist countries.

3. A contention that it is still not too late to save China from the advancing Communist armies.

Guards Head Off Attempted Prison Break Via Tunnel

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Dec. 10 (AP)—Guards tonight captured two convicts trying to tunnel out of the Washington State Prison. Prison officials describ it as one of the most desperate attempts in many years.

P. A. Kelly, assistant prison superintendent, said "undoubtedly others were involved" but only two men were caught working in the tunnel at the time.

He said all other convicts in the prison, which has a population of 1,560, have been accounted for.

Guards recaptured the men by driving a hole down into the tunnel.

The two convicts had been trapped in the tunnel earlier when guards discovered the opening and barricaded it. The two men kept on digging, however, for some hours in a frantic effort to escape.

State Dept. Denies Gallegos Charge

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. (AP)—The State Department today formally denied that the American military attache in Venezuela acted as "co-operator or counselor" for the revolutionists who overthrew the Venezuelan government November 24.

The statement of denial was issued, it said, because of accusations attributed to former Venezuelan President Romulo Gallegos in an interview in Havan, Cuba, where he is in exile.

(The interview referred to was one reported by the United Press. An Associated Press dispatch quoted Gallegos as saying the attache, Col. Edward F. Adams, was in the Caracas army barracks during the military uprising, and as adding: "So far I have been unable to explain what his presence meant there in such circumstances and I still don't know.")

The State Department acknowledged that the military attache, Col. Edward F. Adams, visited the Ministry of National Defense and the presidential palace on November 24. But, the statement added:

"The purpose of this visit was to inquire if there was any news from our air attache (Lt. Col. Frank P. Bender) at Caracas who a few days earlier had left for a sparsely populated region of Venezuela known as the Gran Sabana to search for a lost United States military plane. No word had been received from him, giving rise to serious concern."

Restrictive Covenants Against Negroes Void

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 10. (AP)—The Maryland Court of Appeals ruled in effect today that restrictive covenants against negroes are invalid.

It interpreted a recent Supreme Court decision to mean that the Fourteenth Amendment "inhibits judicial enforcement by state courts of restrictive covenants based on race or color."

Chief Judge Ogle Marbury, writing the state court's opinion, ruled in favor of two negro families who had moved into a white waterfront development near Annapolis.

Original deeds to the property contained a clause banning re-sale to anyone "of negro, Chinese or Japanese descent."

Bomber Flies 9,400 Miles Non-Stop With Aid Of Three "Flying Tankers"

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. (AP)—Flying service stations will enable bombers to make non-stop flights around the world, the Air Force said today in announcing a 9,400-mile round trip test hop from Texas to Hawaii.

The flight was made December 7-8 by a four engine B-50 bomber. "Tanker" planes refueled it three times on the 40-hour trip that started and ended in Fort Worth, Tex.

It was the first major demonstration of a new refueling technique to stretch the range of strategic bombers.

At the same time the B-50, something like the war-rested B-29 but with longer range, bomb load and speed, was making the hop a huge six-engine B-36 was making a non-stop flight over virtually the same route without refueling.

Air Secretary Symington revealed the B-50 flight in an address before the executive Club in Chicago.

He said it would be possible to fly a modern bomber around the world non-stop "by relatively simple process of refueling in the air."

The B-50 left Carswell base, Fort Worth, and made a circuitous flight to the Hawaiian Islands and return. The Air Force said sizeable useful bomb loads were dropped at about the half way point.

Three refueling contacts were made with B-29 type planes converted into flying tankers.

Chambers Quits As Senior Editor Of Time Magazine

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP)—Whittaker Chambers, central figure in the probe of alleged Communist spying, today quit his job as a senior editor of Time magazine.

His resignation was announced suddenly by his attorneys as Chambers waited at the federal building to testify before a Federal Grand Jury whose investigation he reinvigorated this week.

Chambers said in a prepared statement his offer to quit and the acceptance of the offer "became imperative when I recently began to make revelations about Communist espionage."

In a companion statement, Time said it was not "prejudging his recent disclosures."

Western Europe Renews Alliance Talks With U. S.

Agreement In Three Months Held Likely

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—The key nations of Western Europe today reopened negotiations with the United States and Canada for an unprecedented North Atlantic military alliance. In the European view the pact should last for the next 50 years.

The United States may object to making a commitment for such a long period. Top officials here appear fully confident, however, that a pact will be finally worked out in about three months to coordinate the military might of North America and Western Europe for many years to come.

Two Primary Considerations

Behind the American government's interest in the project are two primary considerations: (1) A desire to curb possible Russian aggression in Europe and (2) a determination to strengthen the European recovery program by giving the non-Communist nations a greater sense of security for the future.

The negotiations which were suspended last September were resumed today when ambassadors or ministers of Britain, France, the Netherlands, Belgium, Luxembourg and Canada met with Undersecretary of State Robert Lovett and informed him they had instructions from their governments on how to proceed.

Persons familiar with today's meeting said that the pact itself was not substantially discussed and no formal proposals as to scope and duration were put forward. It was agreed that serious work would begin on Monday when another meeting is scheduled and the Europeans are expected to put forth a tentative draft of their own at that time.

"Continuation of Talks"

This tentative draft was worked out by their governments in meetings in Paris and London and provides among other things that the defensive arrangement should last for 50 years.

A State Department report on today's meeting said it was a "continuation of the talks, begun in July, on security problems of common interest in relation to the Senate resolution of July 11, 1948." It added:

"The conversations had been recessed in September to give the governments an opportunity to consider the tentative views which had been developed. The resumed conversations are expected to continue for some time and no information concerning their substance will be made public until such time as decisions may be reached."

Royall's Estimate

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP)—Secretary of the Army Royall said tonight the best estimates are that Russia has 13,000,000 persons "confined in death dealing concentration camps."

12 Documents Will Be Made Public Sunday

Allegedly Stolen From Government Files By Red Spies

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—A dozen of the secret State Department documents allegedly taken from official files by a Red spy ring a decade ago will be released to the public Sunday.

The House Committee on Un-American Activities voted the release tonight, timing it for Sunday morning newspaper publication. It said the State Department approves.

These 12 have been "cleared by the State Department as to present national security," the committee said. More than 200 documents in all have come under committee scrutiny in connection with the "pumpkin papers" case. The "top secret" label remains for some even after the passage of 10 years.

Rep. Mundt (R-SD), acting chairman of the House committee, said the 12 and all the others were secret when Whittaker Chambers got them in the course of his work as a Red courier in 1938. A copy of one of the papers came to light last week when Chambers while under committee subpoena, pulled some microfilms of secret documents from a pumpkin on his Maryland farm. The other 11 papers were produced by Chambers in a libel suit proceeding in Baltimore.

Herbert Opposes Release

Rep. Herbert (D-La) was the only committee member opposing release of the 12. He said: "Pressure of the press has forced release of the documents at this time, and I do not think it is wise."

Mundt said tonight that some committee investigators are being sent on "out of town missions" which the committee hopes will produce developments next week. One of the things they will be hunting is a typewriter believed to have been used in copying some documents.

Rep. Nixon (R-Calif) said also that he is going to insist that the State Department agree to publishing one document which he said shows that "a major consideration in the development of the foreign policy in this country in 1937-38 was the effect foreign policy would have on the presidential election of 1940."

Mundt said there would be no meetings of the committee on Saturday. He said two important scheduled witnesses, Alger and Donald Hiss, will be before a Federal Grand Jury in New York than instead.

The House committee thus agreed to step aside temporarily in favor of the grand jury, although it still was critical of the Justice Department's handling of the spy case.

Willing To Take Turn

Mundt said the committee is willing to take its turn at witnesses. He added:

"If the grand jury is acting in good faith in holding this highly unusual and almost unprecedented Saturday session, certainly the committee will not in any way try to interfere with what would then seem to be a highly encouraging indication that they are about to bring to justice the people guilty of stealing these documents from the State Department."

Mundt and fellow committee members nevertheless were still

Snatches Kiss From His Wife, Nullifies Pact

CHICAGO, Dec. 10 (AP)—One kiss, and Mrs. Beatrice Borla's agreement — to return to her husband as his housekeeper but not as his wife — was off.

Mrs. Borla, 35, in asking for a divorce today, said her husband Charles, 38, a bartender, violated an agreement the couple made in Circuit Court November 18.

At that time Mrs. Borla dropped her divorce suit and consented to go on keeping house for her husband provided he did not try to make love to her.

Today, her lawyer, Charles C Cooley, told Judge Julius H. Miner Borla snatched a kiss from his wife Tuesday evening.

Check For Million Waved Aside By Edgar Bergen

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 10 (AP)—As easily as he'd turn down Charlie's plea for a dime boost in his allowance, Edgar Bergen waved aside a check for a million dollars today.

He said his retirement from radio December 26 will last at least eight months.

"I've had offers," the vacationing ventriloquist said in a telephone interview from Palm Springs. "One involved more than a million dollars. But I'm going to get off in the distance a bit and look at radio for awhile.

"Any comedian needs fresh technique, fresh ideas, every so often. I do. I'm going to get it from personal appearances, from television. McCarthy, Mortimer and I won't be back on the radio before September."

The balding Bergen said he had been mulling a deal under which he might take advantage of a capital gains tax of 25 per cent on his earnings instead of the much higher income tax he now pays, but that it had fallen through. The same sort of deal reportedly influenced Jack Benny to switch from the National Broadcasting Company, to the Columbia Broadcasting System, effective January 2.

Bergen's decision struck another blow at NBC's proud two-hour lineup of Sunday evening comedy shows. Benny already has gone to CBS, Allen has announced he'll retire for at least a year after this season.

And today there was confirmation that Phil Harris—who's on the Benny show and has his own half-hour, with wife Alice Faye in a family program Sundays, is negotiating with CBS to follow Benny there. A decision is promised next Monday.

Ex-GI Chooses After Two Frauleins Claim His Love

BERLIN, Dec. 10 (AP)—Two German girls staked a claim today to the affections of a wartime American paratrooper who made his way through Russia's iron curtain for love.

Each said Edward J. Lada, 28, Newark, N. J., hitch-hiked from Paris to Berlin two weeks ago for her. The trip lauded Lada in the United States Army stokade. He has been arrested on a charge of being in American-occupied Germany without a military permit.

From his cell the former GI announced his choice. He said he made the journey for Ruth Riecki, 23, the mother of his two-year-old daughter, Nancy. Explaining that they aren't married yet, he said his only aim is "to be with my family." He blamed his troubles on United States immigration laws.

A girl named Ursula Schmidt, of Zehlendorf, said in an interview she was Lada's girl friend here several years ago and it was she he wanted to see.

"I knew Ursula," Lada said, "but Ruth is the girl I came for, and my baby. Ursula i just an old friend."

By permission of the Army, Miss Riecki and Nancy visited him this morning in the stockade.

Lada said he tried to bring the mother and daughter to the United States in 1947 and added: "Ruth had incipient tuberculosis. We applied for a visa in Berlin but the consulate said she was unable to pass the examinations."

He said he thought this time he could get Miss Riecki and Nancy out through the underground and perhaps reach Canada or some other country.

This trend is likely to continue, he said, "unless something is thrown into the picture which we cannot forsee."

He pointed to lower wheat, corn and potato prices as an indicator of the general market.

In his view, industry is emerging from the seller's "market" which began with America's entry into World War Two. He added "soft spots are occurring and more will come."

But he said this country cannot expect to avoid high prices and profits entirely until there's world peace.

"We perhaps have been a little slow," he said, "to accept the inevitable fact that the interest of the American consumer, investor, worker and the American government itself are all inter-related with the problem of world peace."

Warns Committee

Discussing the possibility of higher taxes on business to meet increasing government costs, Francis warned the committee:

"If you make industry profitless, it will reduce the government's revenue. And somebody will have to determine what that would mean. x x x If you destroy something that made this country grow, the consequences would be serious."

He said it is estimated if the national economy shows a drop of 15 per cent, then government income would drop by 25 per cent.

Tire Tread Signs Six-Year-Old's Letter To Santa

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Dec. 10 (AP) — A dirty tire tread signed little Emilio Landeros' letter to Santa.

On a bus en route home from school, Emilio laborously began writing to Santa Claus. "Dear Santa," he wrote. "I have been good. I want a . . . "

He decided to try again. "Dear S . . . "

Just then the bus reached his corner. He jumped off, the letter clutched in his hand. He scurried around the front of the bus. A heavy truck hit him.

When help arrived, the Santa letter was beside the six-year-old. Across it were tread marks. Smilio died en route to a hospital.

Chiang Extends Martial Law To Southern China

Step Taken As Reds Try To Cut Behind Hwai River Line

NANKING, Dec. 10 (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek proclaimed martial law tonight for all nationalist China except the island of Formosa, Tibet and three semi-independent far western provinces.

The Communist-threatened cities of Nanking, Shanghai and Peiping already have been under martial law for a month.

There was no explanation for tonight's action extending the military rule to huge South China areas thus far untouched by combat.

It came, however, as the Communists were attempting to cut behind the Hwai River line which is Nanking's last barrier north of the Yangtze River, and as government troops struggled to smash two Communist-laid traps farther north.

Reds Sever Railway

A spokesman for the Communications Ministry disclosed that Communists had temporarily severed the railway between the Hwai River line anchor of Pengu and Pukow, Nanking's railway terminal on the north bank of the Yangtze.

The spokesman said the railway had been cut in four places about 80 miles northwest of Nanking, but that repairs had been made within 24 hours.

The official Central News Agency attributed the destruction to "small Communist marauding bands."

The railway is vital for support of the Sixth and Eighth Army Groups fighting the Communists just north and northwest of Pengpu.

Other government sources said the Communists evidently were trying to cross the Hwai at a river bend a score of miles east of Pengpu and 90 miles northwest of Nanking.

Reds' Usual Tactics

(The Communists appeared to be following their time-tried tactics of cutting government supply lines and making wide end runs through weak spots to the rear.)

The government still was trying to extricate four of its army groups caught in two Communist encirclements northwest of Pengpu and southwest of Suchow.

Writing from the front northwest of Pengpu, Associated Press Correspondent Harold K. Milks reported the Sixth Army Group had reached within 25 miles southeast of the encircled 12th Army Group.

Milks said the Sixth Group's three armies were advancing northwest on a 25-mile-wide fro[nt] 20 miles from Pengpu.

Two Are Indicted In Negro's Slaying

LYONS, Ga., Dec. 10 (AP) — Two white men were indicted on murder charges today in the ambush slaying of Robert Mallard, Toombs County negro.

A special grand jury returned true bills after hearing a hysterical account of the slaying by Mallard's widow.

It named William L. Howell, 32, a farmer, and Roderick Clifton, 26.

Judge Robert H. Humphrey announced the two would be tried at a special session of Superior Court already called for January 11.

No charges were brought against James Spivey, 24, a third man who had been held in jail. Sheriff R. E. Gray said Spivey would be released immediately.

Howell, Clifton, Spivey and two other white men surrendered earlier when reports circulated the widow would name robed, but unmasked, men she claimed slew her husband.

Mrs. Mallard had signed a warrant charging Howell with murder. Clifton and Spivey were held along with him pending the grand jury's action. The other two were released.

Chesapeake Bay Ship Blast Injures Three

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 10 (AP) — Three Baltimore men were burned, none seriously, in an explosion today aboard a wartime vessel making a trial run in Chesapeake Bay before returning to passenger and freight service.

Admitted to Emergency Hospital with burns were Robert C. Bassett, 27, and Peter R. Mayer, 31. Harry O'Berry also was burned slightly but was not admitted.

The men reported an explosion "at the base of an engine" on the Anna Salen. They were working in the engine room.

Biggest Meteor Show Of 1948 Is Under Way

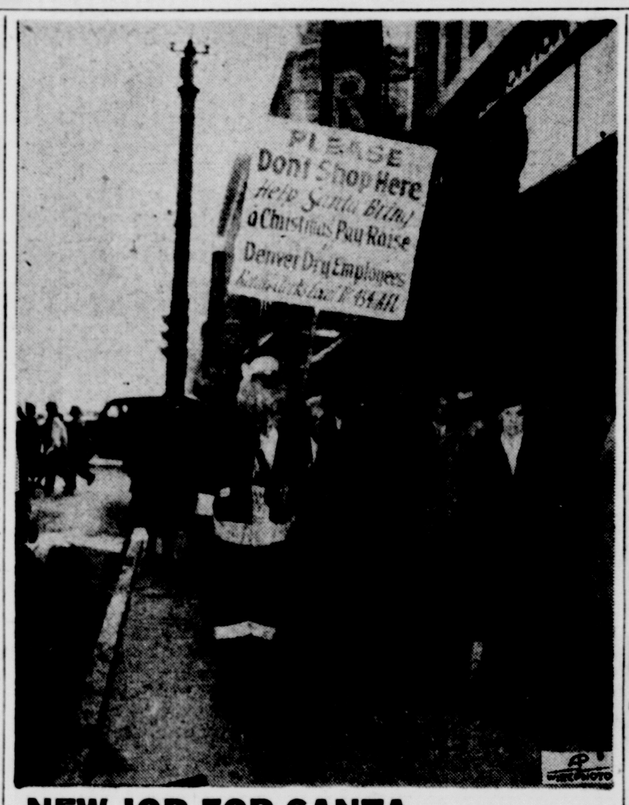

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. (AP)—The biggest meteor show of 1948 will flash across the skies this weekend, government scientists announced today.

The National Bureau of Standards said the Geminid meteor display—named from the Constellation Gemini—will last from tonight through Dec. 13.

"The meteors will be visible in nearly all parts of the sky although the full moon will diminish their brilliance," the bureau said in a statement.

Police HQ Robbed

PARIS, Dec. 10 (AP) — A thief stole 5,000,000 francs ($16,600) today from national police headquarters.

NEW JOB FOR SANTA-- This representative of the Retail Clerks Union (AFL) is busy picketing the Denver, Colo., Drygoods Company store seven hours a day. The store's employes are not on strike but the union seeks a contract and the right to represent the clerks as bargaining agent. "The kids keep asking me what I'm doing with this sign," Santa said.

Truman "Listens Sympathetically" To Mme. Chiang

Discuss China Crisis After 5 O'Clock Tea

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. — (AP) — President Truman "listened sympathetically" late today to a plea by Madame Chiang Kai-Shek for new American aid to China's hard-pressed Nationalist government.

They talked over the China crisis for about a half hour at Blair House after a 5 o'clock tea which Mrs. Truman attended.

Madame Chiang "stated her case and the President listened sympathetically," Eben Ayres, a press secretary, told newsmen.

Mme. Chiang, wife of Generalissimo Chiang, herself told reporters that "the President is the one" to report on the conference.

It was her first meeting with Mr. Truman since she arrived 10 days ago on a hurried, unofficial mission for the anti-Communist Nanking regime.

Returns To Marshall Home

Ayres said in response to a question he did not know whether Mr. Truman would see Mme. Chiang again. She left after the meeting with Mrs. George C. Marshall, wife of the Secretary of State, to return to the Marshall home at nearby Leesburg, Va., where she has been a guest since her arrival.

Diplomatic officials were frankly skeptical that the result of the conference would be anything approaching all-out aid to China.

These officials said in advance of the meeting, that there was little hope Mr. Truman could offer Madame Chiang on her plea for emergency United States aid, except a promise to give the whole Chinese a serious continuing study. It is not a question of wavering American sympathy for China, they emphasized, but rather a maze of complex difficulties.

Expected Basis Of Plea

In broad outline, Madame Chiang was expected to base her plea on these points:

1. Traditional Chinese - American friendship.

2. The view that Chinese Nationalist troops are fighting a war on behalf of all anti-Communist countries.

3. A contention that it is still not too late to save China from the advancing Communist armies.

Guards Head Off Attempted Prison Break Via Tunnel

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Dec. 10 (AP)—Guards tonight captured two convicts trying to tunnel out of the Washington State Prison. Prison officials describ it as one of the most desperate attempts in many years.

P. A. Kelly, assistant prison superintendent, said "undoubtedly others were involved" but only two men were caught working in the tunnel at the time.

He said all other convicts in the prison, which has a population of 1,560, have been accounted for.

Guards recaptured the men by driving a hole down into the tunnel.

The two convicts had been trapped in the tunnel earlier when guards discovered the opening and barricaded it. The two men kept on digging, however, for some hours in a frantic effort to escape.

State Dept. Denies Gallegos Charge

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. (AP)—The State Department today formally denied that the American military attache in Venezuela acted as "cooperator or counselor" for the revolutionists who overthrew the Venezuelan government November 24.

The statement of denial was issued, it said, because of accusations attributed to former Venezuelan President Romulo Gallegos in an interview in Havan, Cuba, where he is in exile.

(The interview referred to was one reported by the United Press. An Associated Press dispatch quoted Gallegos as saying the attache, Col. Edward F. Adams, was in the Caracas army barracks during the military uprising, and as adding: "So far I have been unable to explain what his presence meant there in such circumstances and I still don't know.")

The State Department acknowledged that the military attache, Col. Edward F. Adams, visited the Ministry of National Defense and the presidential palace on November 24. But, the statement added:

"The purpose of this visit was to inquire if there was any news from our air attache (Lt. Col. Frank P. Bender) at Caracas who a few days earlier had left for a sparsely populated region of Venezuela known as the Gran Sabana to search for a lost United States military plane. No word had been received from him, giving rise to serious concern."

Bomber Flies 9,400 Miles Non-Stop With Aid Of Three "Flying Tankers"

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. (AP)—Flying service stations will enable bombers to make non-stop flights around the world, the Air Force said today in announcing a 9,400-mile round trip test hop from Texas to Hawaii.

The flight was made December 7-8 by a four engine B-50 bomber. "Tanker" planes refueled it three times on the 40-hour trip that started and ended in Fort Worth, Tex.

It was the first major demonstration of a new refueling technique to stretch the range of strategic bombers.

At the same time the B-50, something like the war-rested B-29 but with longer range, bomb load and speed, was making the hop a huge six-engine B-36 was making a non-stop flight over virtually the same route without refueling.

Air Secretary Symington revealed the B-50 flight in an address before the executive Club in Chicago.

He said it would be possible to fly a modern bomber around the world non-stop "by relatively simple process of refueling in the air."

The B-50 left Carswell base, Fort Worth, and made a circuitous flight to the Hawaiian Islands and return. The Air Force said sizeable useful bomb loads were dropped at about the half way point.

Three refueling contacts were made with B-29 type planes converted into flying tankers.

Restrictive Covenants Against Negroes Void

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 10. (AP)—The Maryland Court of Appeals ruled in effect today that restrictive covenants against negroes are invalid.

It interpreted a recent Supreme Court decision to mean that the Fourteenth Amendment "inhibits judicial enforcement by state courts of restrictive covenants based on race or color."

Chief Judge Ogle Marbury, writing the state court's opinion, ruled in favor of two negro families who had moved into a white waterfront development near Annapolis.

Original deeds to the property contained a clause banning re-sale to anyone "of negro, Chinese or Japanese descent."

Chambers Quits As Senior Editor Of Time Magazine

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP)—Whittaker Chambers, central figure in the probe of alleged Communist spying, today quit his job as a senior editor of Time magazine.

His resignation was announced suddenly by his attorneys as Chambers waited at the federal building to testify before a Federal Grand Jury whose investigation he reinvigorated this week.

Chambers said in a prepared statement his offer to quit and the acceptance of the offer "became imperative when I recently began to make revelations about Communist espionage."

In a companion statement, Time said it was not "prejudging his recent disclosures."

Western Europe Renews Alliance Talks With U. S.

Agreement In Three Months Held Likely

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—The key nations of Western Europe today reopened negotiations with the United States and Canada for an unprecedented North Atlantic military alliance. In the European view the pact should last for the next 50 years.

The United States may object to making a commitment for such a long period. Top officials here appear fully confident, however, that a pact will be finally worked out in about three months to coordinate the military might of North America and Western Europe for many years to come.

Two Primary Considerations

Behind the American government's interest in the project are two primary considerations: (1) A desire to curb possible Russian aggression in Europe and (2) a determination to strengthen the European recovery program by giving the non-Communist nations a greater sense of security for the future.

The negotiations which were suspended last September were resumed today when ambassadors or ministers of Britain, France, the Netherlands, Belgium, Luxembourg and Canada met with Undersecretary of State Robert Lovett and informed him they had instructions from their governments on how to proceed.

Persons familiar with today's meeting said that the pact itself was not substantially discussed and no formal proposals as to scope and duration were put forward. It was agreed that serious work would begin on Monday when another meeting is scheduled and the Europeans are expected to put forth a tentative draft of their own at that time.

"Continuation of Talks"

This tentative draft was worked out by their governments in meetings in Paris and London and provides among other things that the defensive arrangement should last for 50 years.

A State Department report on today's meeting said it was a "continuation of the talks, begun in July, on security problems of common interest in relation to the Senate resolution of July 11, 1948." It added:

"The conversations had been recessed in September to give the governments an opportunity to consider the tentative views which had been developed. The resumed conversations are expected to continue for some time and no information concerning their substance will be made public until such time as decisions may be reached."

Royall's Estimate

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP)—Secretary of the Army Royall said tonight the best estimates are that Russia has 13,000,000 persons "confined in death dealing concentration camps."

12 Documents Will Be Made Public Sunday

Allegedly Stolen From Government Files By Red Spies

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—A dozen of the secret State Department documents allegedly taken from official files by a Red spy ring a decade ago will be released to the public Sunday.

The House Committee on Un-American Activities voted the release tonight, timing it for Sunday morning newspaper publication. It said the State Department approves.

These 12 have been "cleared by the State Department as to present national security," the committee said. More than 200 documents in all have come under committee scrutiny in connection with the "pumpkin papers" case. The "top secret" label remains for some even after the passage of 10 years.

Rep. Mundt (R-SD), acting chairman of the House committee, said the 12 and all the others were secret when Whittaker Chambers got them in the course of his work as a Red courier in 1938. A copy of one of the papers came to light last week when Chambers while under committee subpoena, pulled some microfilms of secret documents from a pumpkin on his Maryland farm. The other 11 papers were produced by Chambers in a libel suit proceeding in Baltimore.

Herbert Opposes Release

Rep. Herbert (D-La) was the only committee member opposing release of the 12. He said: "Pressure of the press has forced release of the documents at this time, and I do not think it is wise."

Mundt said tonight that some committee investigators are being sent on "out of town missions" which the committee hopes will produce developments next week. One of the things they will be hunting is a typewriter believed to have been used in copying some documents.

Rep. Nixon (R-Calif) said also that he is going to insist that the State Department agree to publishing one document which he said shows that "a major consideration in the development of the foreign policy in this country in 1937-38 was the effect foreign policy would have on the presidential election of 1940."

Mundt said there would be no meetings of the committee on Saturday. He said two important scheduled witnesses, Alger and Donald Hiss, will be before a Federal Grand Jury in New York than Instead.

The House committee thus agreed to step aside temporarily in favor of the grand jury, although it still was critical of the Justice Department's handling of the spy case.

Willing To Take Turn

Mundt said the committee is willing to take its turn at witnesses. He added:

"If the grand jury is acting in good faith in holding this highly unusual and almost unprecedented Saturday session, certainly the committee will not in any way try to interfere with what would then seem to be a highly encouraging indication that they are about to bring to justice the people guilty of stealing these documents from the State Department."

Mundt and fellow committee members nevertheless were still

Snatches Kiss From His Wife, Nullifies Pact

CHICAGO, Dec. 10 (AP)—One kiss, and Mrs. Beatrice Borla's agreement — to return to her husband as his housekeeper but not as his wife — was off.

Mrs. Borla, 35, in asking for a divorce today, said her husband Charles, 38, a bartender, violated an agreement the couple made in Circuit Court November 18.

At that time Mrs. Borla dropped her divorce suit and consented to go on keeping house for her husband provided he did not try to make love to her.

Today, her lawyer, Charles C. Cooley, told Judge Julius H. Miner Borla snatched a kiss from his wife Tuesday evening.

Check For Million Waved Aside By Edgar Bergen

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 10 (AP)—As easily as he'd turn down Charlie's plea for a dime boost in his allowance, Edgar Bergen waved aside a check for a million dollars today.

He said his retirement from radio December 26 will last at least eight months.

"I've had offers," the vacationing ventriloquist said in a telephone interview from Palm Springs. "One involved more than a million dollars. But I'm going to get off in the distance a bit and look at radio for awhile.

"Any comedian needs fresh technique, fresh ideas, every so often. I do. I'm going to get it from personal appearances, from television. McCarthy, Mortimer and I won't be back on the radio before September."

The balding Bergen said he had been mulling a deal under which he might take advantage of a capital gains tax of 25 per cent on his earnings instead of the much higher income tax he now pays, but that it had fallen through. The same sort of deal reportedly influenced Jack Benny to switch from the National Broadcasting Company, to the Columbia Broadcasting System, effective January 2.

Bergen's decision struck another blow at NBC's proud two-hour lineup of Sunday evening comedy shows. Benny already has gone to CBS, Allen has announced he'll retire for at least a year after this season.

And today there was confirmation that Phil Harris—who's on the Benny show and has his own half-hour, with wife Alice Faye in a family program Sundays, is negotiating with CBS to follow Benny there. A decision is promised next Monday.

Ex-GI Chooses After Two Frauleins Claim His Love

BERLIN, Dec. 10 (AP)—Two German girls staked a claim today to the affections of a wartime American paratrooper who made his way through Russia's iron curtain for love.

Each said Edward J. Lada, 28, Newark, N. J., hitch-hiked from Paris to Berlin two weeks ago for her. The trip landed Lada in the United States Army stokade. He has been arrested on a charge of being in American-occupied Germany without a military permit.

From his cell the former GI announced his choice. He said he made the journey for Ruth Riecki, 23, the mother of his two-year-old daughter, Nancy. Explaining that they aren't married yet, he said his only aim is "to be with my family." He blamed his troubles on United States immigration laws.

A girl named Ursula Schmidt, of Zehlendorf, said in an interview she was Lada's girl friend here several years ago and it was she he wanted to see.

"I knew Ursula," Lada said, "but Ruth is the girl I came for, and my baby. Ursula i just an old friend."

By permission of the Army, Miss Riecki and Nancy visited him this morning in the stockade.

Lada said he tried to bring the mother and daughter to the United States in 1947 and added: "Ruth had incipient tuberculosis. We applied for a visa in Berlin but the consulate said she was unable to pass the examinations."

He said he thought this time he could get Miss Riecki and Nancy out through the underground and perhaps reach Canada or some other country.

Truman Studies War Powers Plan

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—President Truman today studied the tentative draft of a 20-point emergency war powers act which would provide for an excess profits tax, plant seizure powers and price and wage stabilization in event of another war.

The plan, drafted by the staff of the National Security Resources Board, would also include powers to apply manpower controls, priorities and allocations, and censorship.

Officials emphasized, however, that the plan still has to be cleared by both the board and by the President before being sumitted to Congress.

Besides Mr. Truman, several Cabinet officers attended a late afternoon conference at which the board staff's proposals on "emergency legislation planning" were discussed.

Also present were John R. Steelman, who had been named by Mr. Truman earlier in the day as the new acting chairman of the board, and Arthur M. Hill, the retiring chairman.

The President's appointment of Steelman to head the resources board becomes effective December 15. The board was set up to advise the President on the coordination of military, industrial and civilian mobilization.

Missing Transport Plane Located In Greenland

HALIFAX, Dec. 10 (AP) — A United States C-47 transport plane missing in Greenland since yesterday has been located and supplies dropped to survivors.

The RCAF was told the plane was located in the "southern portion of Greenland" in a desolate section of the island. It was presumed a United States military plane had made the find.

Number of passengers aboard the plane and the number of survivors was not known here.

Rice To Play Navy

HOUSTON, Tex., Dec. 10 (AP) — Athletic Director Jess Neely of Rice Institute today confirmed reports from Washington that Rice and Navy have signed a home-and-home football agreement.

The first game will be played in Baltimore, September 29, 1951, and the second in Houston, October 11, 1952.

12 Documents

angered at suggestions from President Truman and the Justice Department that the committee's handling of its hearings might harm the nation's security, and that it should defer to the grand jury.

In this connection, when Mundt first announced plans for quizzing the Hisses Saturday, he said:

"This committee is not going to permit any agency to squelch our efforts x x x We have given and we wil continue to give full cooperation to all government agencies by making available to them all evidence coming into our possession. We regret that that attitude apparently is not going to be a two-way street."

"Who Stole Documents?"

The big question, Mundt summed up, is this:

"Who stole the documents from the State Department which we know were delivered to Whittaker Chambers at the time he admits he was a paid Communist agent?"

Chambers, who announced today his resignation as a senior editor on Time magazine, has testified he was a Red courier prior to 1938. He has named Alger Hiss, former State Department official, as one of his prime sources of documents and has said that Alger's brother Donald was also helpful. Both have denied his charges in toto.

The Hiss brothers and Mrs. Alger Hiss have been testifying before the government's grand jury in New York. The Justice Department suggested last night that the House investigators not question the grand jury witnesses.

"It is utterly silly," said Mundt today, "for two branches of the government to get into a running fight over who is going to talk to a witness."

Truman "Listens

But presidential advisers indicated they have virtually lost confidence in the ability of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, whose armies have been almost continuously on the march for 22 years, to swing back the tide of Red troops now pressing on his capital.

Vet Who Strangled Girl Given 10-Year Sentence

BALTIMORE, Dec. 10 (AP)—Duncan Livingstone, 25, who strangled his girl friend to death and then attempted suicide, was sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary today.

The state accepted the young war veteran's plea of innocent to murder and let him plead guilty to a manslaughter count instead. He got the maximum sentence under that type of conviction.

Livingstone, the state said got mad when 18-year-old Shirley Will slapped his face while they were parked in his automobile, and strangled her.

But the state acknowledged it did not have enough evidence to press for a first degree murder conviction.

State's Righters Will Maintain Md. Setup

BALTIMORE, Dec. 10. (AP)—Another splinter party whose bid for the White House was smothered by the Democratic election victory has decided to keep itself alive on the Maryland political stage.

Maryland's States' Right Democrats arrived at this decision yesterday and at the same time resolved to "educate" Free State citizens on the meaning of the party.

The States' Righters, restricted by election laws to write-in votes, polled 2,927 ballots in Maryland.

Declaration Is

"is not so much Hitler, but the leaders of France and Britain, supported by the U.S.A." He mentioned Edouard Deladier, of France and the late Neville Chamberlain, of Britain, by name and shouted that these men "speeded up the military might of Hitler and prepared German aggression toward the east." The Munich agreement, he added, opened the way for the war.

Soviet Delaying Move Fails

Vishinsky demanded approval of a Russian amendment to pigeonhole the declaration until the 1949 Assembly. It was rejected by a vote of 45 to six, with three abstentions.

The preamble of the declaration says: "The recognition of the inherent dignity and of the equal and inalianable rights of the human family is the foundation of justice and peace in the world."

Some of its provisions call for, without regard to race, color or sex: Freedom of thought, conscience and religion, of opinion, expression and assembly. Prohibition of slavery. Freedom of movement within a country and the right to travel abroad. Right to hold property. Privacy of the home. Right to work and to have a free choice of work. Protection against unemployment. Right to free education. Right to leisure.

Also adopted was a resolution asking all nations to publish news of the declaration as widely as possible, particularly in the schools. It will be translated by the United Nations into many languages.

Another separate resolution approved directed the Human Rights Commission headed by Mrs. Roosevelt to give priority to drafting the convenant and measures for its enforcement.

Still another resolution adopted requests that a study be made of minority problems.

Russia's last-ditch effort to defeat the declaration revolved around a number of amendments, all of which were rejected by the 58-nation Assembly by heavy votes.

Truman Studies War Powers Plan

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—President Truman today studied the tentative draft of a 20-point emergency war powers act which would provide for an excess profits tax, plant seizure powers and price and wage stabilization in event of another war.

The plan, drafted by the staff of the National Security Resources Board, would also include powers to apply manpower controls, priorities and allocations, and censorship.

Officials emphasized, however, that the plan still has to be cleared by both the board and by the President before being sumitted to Congress.

Besides Mr. Truman, several Cabinet officers attended a late afternoon conference at which the board staff's proposals on "emergency legislation planning" were discussed.

Also present were John R. Steelman, who had been named by Mr. Truman earlier in the day as the new acting chairman of the board, and Arthur M. Hill, the retiring chairman.

The President's appointment of Steelman to head the resources board becomes effective December 15. The board was set up to advise the President on the coordination of military, industrial and civilian mobilization.

Missing Transport Plane Located In Greenland

HALIFAX, Dec. 10 (AP) — A United States C-47 transport plane missing in Greenland since yesterday has been located and supplies dropped to survivors.

The RCAF was told the plane was located in the "southern portion of Greenland" in a desolate section of the island. It was presumed a United States military plane had made the find.

Number of passengers aboard the plane and the number of survivors was not known here.

Rice To Play Navy

HOUSTON, Tex., Dec. 10 (AP) — Athletic Director Jess Neely of Rice Institute today confirmed reports from Washington that Rice and Navy have signed a home-and-home football agreement.

The first game will be played in Baltimore, September 29, 1951, and the second in Houston, October 11, 1952.

angered at suggestions from President Truman and the Justice Department that the committee's handling of its hearings might harm the nation's security, and that it should defer to the grand jury.

In this connection, when Mundt first announced plans for quizzing the Hisses Saturday, he said:

"This committee is not going to permit any agency to squelch our efforts x x x We have given and we wil continue to give full cooperation to all government agencies by making available to them all evidence coming into our possession. We regret that that attitude apparently is not going to be a two-way street."

"Who Stole Documents?"

The big question, Mundt summed up, is this:

"Who stole the documents from the State Department which we know were delivered to Whittaker Chambers at the time he admits he was a paid Communist agent?"

Chambers, who announced today his resignation as a senior editor on Time magazine, has testified he was a Red courier prior to 1938. He has named Alger Hiss, former State Department official, as one of his prime sources of documents and has said that Alger's brother Donald was also helpful. Both have denied his charges in toto.

The Hiss brothers and Mrs. Alger Hiss have been testifying before the government's grand jury in New York. The Justice Department suggested last night that the House investigators not question the grand jury witnesses.

"It is utterly silly," said Mundt today, "for two branches of the government to get into a running fight over who is going to talk to a witness."

But presidential advisers indicated they have virtually lost confidence in the ability of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, whose armies have been almost continuously on the march for 22 years, to swing back the tide of Red troops now pressing on his capital.

Vet Who Strangled Girl Given 10-Year Sentence

BALTIMORE, Dec. 10 (AP)—Duncan Livingstone, 25, who strangled his girl friend to death and then attempted suicide, was sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary today.

The state accepted the young war veteran's plea of innocent to murder and let him plead guilty to a manslaughter count instead. He got the maximum sentence under that type of conviction.

Livingstone, the state said got mad when 18-year-old Shirley Will slapped his face while they were parked in his automobile, and strangled her.

But the state acknowledged it did not have enough evidence to press for a first degree murder conviction.

State's Righters Will Maintain Md. Setup

BALTIMORE, Dec. 10. (AP)—Another splinter party whose bid for the White House was smothered by the Democratic election victory has decided to keep itself alive on the Maryland political stage.

Maryland's States' Right Democrats arrived at this decision yesterday and at the same time resolved to "educate" Free State citizens on the meaning of the party.

The States' Righters, restricted by election laws to write-in votes, polled 2,927 ballots in Maryland.

Declaration Is

"is not so much Hitler, but the leaders of France and Britain, supported by the U.S.A." He mentioned Edouard Deladier, of France and the late Neville Chamberlain, of Britain, by name and shouted that these men "speeded up the military might of Hitler and prepared German aggression toward the east." The Munich agreement, he added, opened the way for the war.

Soviet Delaying Move Fails

Vishinsky demanded approval of a Russian amendment to pigeonhole the declaration until the 1949 Assembly. It was rejected by a vote of 45 to six, with three abstentions.

The preamble of the declaration says: "The recognition of the inherent dignity and of the equal and inalianable rights of the human family is the foundation of justice and peace in the world."

Some of its provisions call for, without regard to race, color or sex:

Freedom of thought, conscience and religion, of opinion, expression and assembly. Prohibition of slavery. Freedom of movement within a country and the right to travel abroad. Right to hold property. Privacy of the home. Right to work and to have a free choice of work. Protection against unemployment. Right to free education. Right to leisure.

Also adopted was a resolution asking all nations to publish news of the declaration as widely as possible, particularly in the schools. It will be translated by the United Nations into many languages.

Another separate resolution approved directed the Human Rights Commission headed by Mrs. Roosevelt to give priority to drafting the convenant and measures for its enforcement.

Still another resolution adopted requests that a study be made of minority problems.

Russia's last-ditch effort to defeat the declaration revolved around a number of amendments, all of which were rejected by the 58-nation Assembly by heavy votes.

Our Policy In China Is In State Of Bankrupt

In their periodic statements about the China crisis—which have been growing more apologetic of late—Administration spokesmen try to give the American people the impression that the United States has sent a tremendous amount of aid, including military, to China, but that the aid has been thrown away by Chiang Kai-shek's government.

Well, as a famous American used to say, "let's look at the record."

Since the end of the war, the United States has aided China, chiefly in the form of food and other civilian supplies, to the extent of about $2,000,000,000. Most of that aid was given before Secretary Marshall went out to China to promote a coalition of the Nanking government and the Chinese Communists. Marshall failed, inevitably. He deserved to fail in a venture that could have ended only by placing all of China under Moscow control. After Marshall's return, and after his celebrated "Plague on both houses" statement in early 1947, the United States sent no aid to independent China for a year. During that crucial year the Chinese Communists made hay with the ten years' supply of arms which Russia had turned over to them out of captured Japanese stores.

Alarmed by the Communist gains, Congress voted last April—against opposition of the State Department—a $400,000,000 aid program for China. Of this sum, $125,000,000 represented military aid. That was April, 1948.

Now in December, 1948, responsible Government sources inform the Associated Press that exactly $63,000,000 in U. S. military aid has been sent to Chiang's desperate armies. That $63,000,000, according to the same sources, represent all the American aid that has been delivered to China in the past 18 months.

During the same period, the United States has spent $230,000,000 for military help to Greece and Turkey. In other words, to keep communism out of Greece and Turkey the United States has spent more than three times as much as we have spent to keep communism out of the most populous country on earth.

Those are figures. How explain them? The State Department argues that Chiang's regime has been inefficient and corrupt. It is. But so is the government of Greece, as our military and diplomatic officials constantly report. The State Department "liberals," who are so keen for the "awakening of the East," say that Chiang is a "reactionary." Would they call the Turkish government liberal?

The truth about our China policy is that it has been formed by "liberals" and fellow-travelers in the Far Eastern division of the State Department, who have tried for years to oust Chiang Kai-shek and whose advice has been taken by George Marshall for reasons beyond our comprehension. As late as March 10, 1948, Secretary Marshall was quoted, (in the New York Times), as insisting upon a "broadening of the base of the Chinese government to include the Communists."

For political reasons—not military and not economic reasons—our policy in China is bankrupt. That policy now threatens to end in a communist sweep over Asia.

Winter Continues Just Around The Corner

Cumberland has already moved 11 days into December and it hasn't yet had anything that could really be called winter weather. But then, the season is still that of Fall. While Winter will not officially arrive until December 22, the weatherman does not stand on ceremony when he gets ready to dish out low temperatures, snow and sleet, nor does Jack Frost give much notice when he gets ready to blow his icy breath down the back of your neck. It has been an Autumn of moderate, sometimes mild temperatures. The mercury has risen rapidly even when it has dipped into the low twenties, as has been the case on six out of the first ten days of this month.

November, when winter-like weather is looked for, or it is expected to give a sample, was a mild month. Its average temperature was normal or slightly above. The month was unusual in another sense. It was rainy as all get out with 3.1 inches of precipitation as compared to a normal rainfall of 2.14 inches. Little more than half of the month's rain came in three twenty-four hour periods with .41 inch on November 22, .54 inch on the 18th and .53 inch on the 3rd. November had almost the average number of clear, partly cloudy and cloudy days.

December, however, has not maintained the November standard. The temperature has been down to as low as 10 degrees below freezing and we have had one freezing rain and, on one occasion, snow enough to whiten rooftops and lawns.

Of course, most citizens aren't complaining that winter is still around the corner. They're quite pleased with the situation. And, except for the kids and the lovers of winter sports, the longer winter holds off the better. But don't forget that the real cold months are still ahead and anything can happen. It probably will, too, quite suddenly and viciously, as it has a habit of doing all too often in the Cumberland area. Meanwhile, most of us are dreaming of a white Christmas.

Shopping Days

These are days when a bit of extra courtesy on everybody's part will make Christmas shopping more pleasant. Streets are crowded during business hours, often to the point of congestion. Traffic is heavier. Stores are thronged with eager shoppers, all intent on getting holiday buying out of the way early. All this could make for flareups of temper unless an air of detached objectiveness is maintained despite all provocations.

Salespeople are carrying heavier burdens during the pre-Christmas days. Usually they are patient and obliging in spite of the occasional irascible customer. Don't be critical if you are not waited upon immediately.

When you go shopping or drive your motor car through city streets, do not forget your obligation to others. It pays to be courteous.

The dock strikes are over, but both the strikers and the country were docked considerably by them.

The Farmers' Almanac says the winter will be long and icy, and there's nothing more uncertain than the grip of rubber on ice.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Vocational Guidance For The Tuberculosis

The social aspects of tuberculosis are on a par with the medical as the victim suffers not only physically but emotionally. Moreover, during the period of treatment the effect on his family and community is almost as disrupting. This is not difficult to understand when it is realized that the illness is prolonged and is most likely to attack individuals during their most productive decades.

Dr. Van Dellen

If the patient is the breadwinner, his source of income usually ceases and the family must rely upon support from the community or unemployment insurance. When the mother is afflicted, the household is disorganized and the children neglected. The thought of such setbacks is far from pleasant and frequently is more disturbing to the sufferer than all the symptoms of the malady combined. This accounts for a major part of the dread which the average man or woman bears for tuberculosis but is rarely considered until actually confronted with the problem.

After the initial shock, many a victim finds it hard to adjust himself to life in a sanitorium. He is separated from his wife and children, taken away from a job, and asked to conform to a new routine which is rigid and strict. He cannot help but wonder who will pay the bills, how his dependents will manage, and what will happen later. This phase of treatment requires expert help from physician and social service advisers because a feeling of insecurity retards convalescence.

Time usually solves this part of the problem but after the disease is arrested, the same situation presents itself except in reverse. In the past, many victims returned home and resumed their old jobs. They had not worked for a long time and many were in poor condition. Others did not realize that they were handicapped and, after a year or two, developed a recurrence.

Medical science is now trying to amend this state of affairs. Prolonged bed rest is avoided by performing pneumothorax and utilizing streptomycin. While still in the hospital, the future of the individual is discussed and plans are made for the type of occupation that will be most suitable on leaving the institution. Trained workers help in the decision by going into the educational, emotional, and physical background of the patient. More than one leader in a factory, for example, learned enough arithmetic while ill to become a checker for the firm on his return. The new job was easier and more appropriate for one who has had tuberculosis. Others finished school while convalescing or learned a skilled trade to pursue for the rest of their lives. Those who do heavy work are less inclined to cooperate in this way because they cannot be persuaded to take an easier job that probably pays less.

It is now well established that rehabilitating the tuberculosis individual is a sound economic procedure. The initial outlay is an additional burden to the taxpayer but is more than balanced if recurrences are thus reduced. After all, the second and third hospital admissions are just as costly as the first.

Congenital Tumor

Mrs. M. writes: What is a Wilms' tumor?

REPLY

This is a malignacy found in children, due to a defect acquired prior to birth. Surgery followed by X-ray is a common method of treatment.

Draining Ear

Mrs. I. writes: My 4 year old daughter was operated on for a mastoid infection. How long will the ear discharge which accompanied the condition continue?

REPLY

So long as infection in the ear persists. The fact that mastoid surgery was needed means that the organisms had spread to that raea. It does not indicate that the original source of infection has necessarily cleared.

Hopeful Outlook

A. D. K. writes: Is there any possible cure for a child of 12 who has a rare disease, Boeck's sarcoid?

REPLY

Recovery is the rule in this malady and in many instances it occurs spontaneously whether or not treatment is given.

MODERN DRUGS

V. M. S. writes: What are penicillin and sulfa derived from and can they be used at the same time?

Reply

Penicillin is obtained from the secretions of the mold, Penicillium notatum. The sulfa preparations are chemicals derived from one of the aniline dyes. Both may be used simultaneously.

OVER-SCRUPULOUS

A. writes: What causes a person who is absolutely innocent of any wrong doing to draw suspicion to himself? For example, a man may have a perfect horror of being accused of certain things and unconsciously is always trying to show that he is above doing that particular thing, yet draws suspicion to himself.

Reply

This phenomenon may occur if an individual has a strong desire to do a wrong deed and is afraid that he might. As a result, it enters his mind whenever the opportunity presents itself and a guilt complex becomes established.

UNRELATED

L. M. writes: Whenever I develop anginal pain I vomit. Could you explain this?

Reply

No an, as a result, I question whether your pains are originating in the heart.

AND A FEW OTHER INCIDENTALS

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Truman Favors Teeth In Children But Not In Dixiecrats; Clay Anticipates No Shooting War; Ambassador Warms Up Good-Neighbor Policy In Cuba

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—Sodium fluorine, the magic chemical that helps prevent tooth decay in children, now is in general use throughout the country, President Truman was informed this week by officials of the American Dental Association. Virtually all dentists are using it to various extents, chiefly on school children.

"I'm mighty glad to hear that progress is being made," the President told a delegation led by Dr. Clyde M. Minges of Rocky Mount, N. C., president of the American Dental Association. "I've been very interested in sodium fluorine since the Public Health Service first revealed its amazing qualities."

Then the President added with a smile:

"It would be a wonderful thing if we could shed our teeth when they start bothering us and grow a brand new set."

Truman promised to give "serious thought" to a proposal by Dr. Minges and his colleagues that he proclaim a National Children's Dental Health Day next February to stimulate greater interest in the care of teeth by school children and their parents.

Note—The Washington Merry-Go-Round on March 5 first reported the amazing progress of the Public Health Service in using sodium fluorine to preserve children's teeth, and gave credit to Congressman Frank Keefe, Wisconsin Republican, for helping the Public Health Service. It was reported that sodium fluorine would save about 50 per cent of children's teeth from decay.

At that time, the American Dental Association's Journal was critical both of this column and the Public Health Service for publishing this claim, but ADA officials now admit that painting children's teeth with sodium fluorine at proper intervals when under the age of 13 will preserve them in about 40 per cent of the cases.

"No War"—Clay

Powder-keg-sitting Gen. Lucius Clay expects the Russians to intensify the cold war, but to stop short of a shooting war.

Talking privately to visiting Congressmen from the House Armed Services Committee, Clay predicted that the Russians would haunt Europe with the spectre of war, but would not fight their cause on the open battlefield. Their game is to stir up chaos and fear, as a breeding ground for Communism.

The General admitted, however, that a misfire in this delicate battle of nerves could easily precipitate a war.

Greatest factor holding Russia back is American air power, Clay said, despite the fact that he is a ground soldier.

"The Russians have more respect for our air power than some of us at home have," he declared.

The constant droning of the Berlin airlift in Russian ears has only increased that respect, he added, and, at the same time, impressed the rest of Europe. It is Clay's belief that Russia wants to test whether the airlift can survive the winter before backing down from the Berlin blockade.

Clay told the Congressmen that the Communists are going from door to door in Berlin as systematically as magazine-subscription statesmen, trying to scare individuals into the Communist camp. At night their threats are backed up with kidnappings and acts of terror, hundreds of individuals having disappeared forever behind the Iron Curtain.

Bouncing Bob Butler

For years controversy has raged inside the State Department regarding the relative merits of the career and the political diplomat. Career diplomats resent the intrusion of ambassadors apponited because they have ponied up during a political campaign—and this resentment is sometimes justified. So also, political appointments resent the lack of imagination, the routine viewpoint of many career diplomats.

One political ambassador who got cuffed around at first is bouncing Bob Butler, the former St. Paul shipbuilder, who became U. S. Ambassador to Australia.

Today, however, Butler is Ambassador and doing an A-1 job. Not only does he have the warmth and human quality which some career diplomats lack—and which Latin Americans love—but he has imagination. It was Butler who conceived the important idea of bringing President Prio of Cuba up to the United States on a good-will visit.

Good will between the United States and our Latin neighbors is something which needs a lot of working at. Since statesman Sumner Welles got out of the State Department it has been woefully neglected. But today, likeable Bob Butler is doing a great job of warming up our good-neighbor policy—which is a lot more important than deciding who should sit where at dinner.

Note—Real fact is that career diplomats and political ambassadors frequently supplement each other, filling in the qualities the other lacks.

Forgive the Dixiecrats? ?

Chatting with Rep. Albert Thomas of Texas the other day, President Truman hinted that he might be willing to let bygones be bygones as far as the Dixiecrats and certain Democratic campaign prodigals are concerned.

Without mentioning the Dixiecrats or anyone by name, Truman told the tall Texas Congressman: "There's been a lot of newspaper talk and speculation about how I'm going to get even with individual Democrats and groups who were against me before the election.

"Well, it's not true," he added. "I'm not mad at anyone and I don't want to punish any individuals or groups within the party. And I'm not mad at any states that went against me.

"I just want to weld the Democratic Party back together again into the solid organization it used to be in the old days. I'm going to keep right on working toward that end."

Note—Says Ernest Cuneo re Truman's cheek-turning toward the Dixiecrats. "He's like a man whom you tell, 'I've just shot your brothers in the back,' and he says, 'That's fine, let's all be friends.

North Atlantic Alliance Is Result Of Russia's Attitude

By MARK SULLIVAN

In Washington there is now being prepared the final draft of a pact for military collaboration which has come to be called, after some evolution, the North Atlantic Alliance. The countries whose representatives are conferring are the United States, Canada, Britain, France, The Netherlands and Belgium. Other countries of Western Europe are in varying stages of readiness to join. Ultimately the North Atlantic Alliance is expected to embrace, with us and Canada, practically all the countries of Western Europe. After the work of drafting the pact has been completed it will be submitted to the Senate, early in the coming session of Congress, for the ratification required for treaties.

In the evolution of the North Atlantic Alliance, as respects our part in it, there have already been some definite official steps. The beginning and basis was recognition that the nations of Western Europe could hardly resist, separately, the aggression to which they were being subjected by Communist Russia. Out of this recognition grew an early pact for military cooperation by four Western European nations—Britain, France, The Netherlands, and Belgium. It was about this pact that President Truman, last March 17th, made a formal declaration of policy. We had already committed ourselves to helping the nations of Western Europe to achieve economic strength, by Marshall plan. In the policy announced by President Truman, we undertook to give military aid:

"This development deserves our full support. I am confident that the United States will, by appropriate means, extend to the free nations the support which the situation requires. I am sure that the determination of the free countries of Europe to protect themselves will be matched by an equal determination on our part to help them do so."

This declaration of policy was carried forward, on June 17, 1948 by a Senate resolution introduced by Republican Senator Vandenberg of Michigan who, as Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was cooperating with the Truman Administration on foreign policy. The Senate resolution declared that "based on continuous effective self-help and mutual aid" by the countries of Western Europe, we would give them military support.

The North Atlantic Alliance, while parallel to the Marshall plan for giving economic aid to Western Europe, goes much father. For the Alliance is a formal pact, to be ratified by the Senate, for details and continuous military cooperation, in effect military unity; while the Marshall plan is an emergency economic aid which contemplates coming to an end when the economic emergency is over. The objective of the Alliance is expressed in two sentences from a formal statement by a Canadian official, Secretary of State St. Laurent:

". . . an overwhelming predonderance of moral, economic and military force and the necessary unity for its effective use . . . an overwhelming preponderance of force over any adversary or possible combination of adversaries."

Russia Brings About The Unity

The North Atlantic Alliance arises directly and sponsaneously out of the condition of our time. The early post-war aspiration was world unity, "one world". This aspiration Russia thwarted. Her actions made it plain that she would not cooperate in a world unity based on the assumption that Russian Communism and Western democracy could live together, that her purpose was domination of the world by Communism.

By this attitude Russia has brought about a unity of democratic nations such as otherwise would hardly have arisen or even been attempted. The North Atlantic Alliance will be, if it comes to fruit, the strongest union of nations retaining their full sovereignty that has ever existed. It differs from the United Nations in the degree of its solidity and especially in the fact that it is based on ideal and traditions, about government and otherwise, held in common by the nations composing it. The United Nations is an over-all attempt to take in nations having every kind of ideal and tradition, some of them contradictory. The North Atlantic Alliance is the formalizing of an already existing and long-recognized community of ideals and interests. As one illustration, some approximation of unity between Canada and the United States has long been an aspiration. In the North Atlantic Alliance they are formally brought closer together than ever before.

Truman Permits Self To Be Cornered On "Red Herring"

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—President Truman allowed himself to be cornered on the "red herring" question at his press conference. He had fenced with the correspondents on their queries about the latest developments in the "spy" case and had answered satisfactorily all the points raised until someone taunted him with the inquiry as to whether he still felt that the whole thing was a "red herring."

Mr. Truman, with characteristic tenacity, said, of course, that the members of the House un-American Activities Committee were just seeking headlines and that he still felt as he did during the campaign about the "red herring." He then went on to refer to the House Un-American Activities Committee as a dead committee and implied that the New Congress should abolish it.

Unfortunate impression may be derived from these off-the-cuff answers to the queries from the press. They might be construed by some people here and abroad to mean that the President condones a loose system which permits so many documents from the State Department files to come into the possession of unauthorized persons. It might also appear as if Mr. Truman is quite casual about the sensational disclosures and is attempting to minimize their significance.

Truman Appears Cornered

There is no political campaign on now—nor any presidential election for four years. Just why the House un-American Activities Committee would be endeavoring to drag a "red herring" across the trail of current events to divert attention from anything is a little difficult to understand. Mr. Truman is right when he says that members of Congress are headline hunters but he must be charitable in that respect, for when he was at the head of the Truman investigating committee he didn't object to the headlines he got. And, incidentally, the President made quite a number of headlines this week when he reiterated his "red herring" charge.

The clash between the Department of Justice and the House un-American Activities Committee is perhaps a natural one. The department looks at violations of the law from a technical angle. It cannot ask for indictments except for specific violations and can do nothing about events which are barred from prosecution because the criminal statutes require that cases must be filed within a certain number of years after crimes are committed.

The House un-American Activities Committee, on the other hand, looks at the public interest from a broad policy standpoint. Thus it investigates to learn whether any new legislation is needed or whether administrative officers are performing their duties efficiently and faithfully. It does not have to follow the complicated procedures of the courts.

This check which the founding fathers provided, whereby congressional committees may look into the facts of executive agencies, has been of immense value to the cause of honest government. It is something which executive agencies feel is a sort of nuisance—they frankly don't like it. But always the judges of whether the inquiries are justified are the American people.

Mr. Truman apparently wants the House un-American Activities Committee to be discontinued. But this is not a special committee—it is a standing committee now of the House of Representatives. It has received a substantial majority each year on every issue that has arisen concerning its continuance. It has been in existence more years under Democratic than Republican control of Congress. Nearly all the southern Democrats will vote with the Republicans to continue the crusade against communism. Mr. Truman is not likely to get his wish—if he really wants the committee abolished.

Could Stand Improvement

The committee could stand a good deal of improvement as to methods and techniques of presenting evidence to the public. Undoubtedly innocent persons have been hurt by the loose procedures. Public opinion has manifested itself on this point, and the corrective influence is already at work.

Mr. Truman, on the other hand, cannot afford to make an isue of the work of the House un-American Activities Committee and try to squelch such a legislative inquiry. It may seriously be doubted whether his chance remark was meant to be taken seriously.

For Mr. Truman cannot afford to lose the approval of the people. Nothing would contribute so rapidly to the deterioration of the next Truman Administration as his loss of control of Congress or a loss of the confidence of a majority. Once Congress gets the idea that public support has left Mr. Truman, it will be hard sledding for his measures. It is regrettable, therefore, that the President became enmeshed in the "red herring" question once more and that he didn't turn it aside and merely declare that he, like all other citizens, would await the disclosures by congressional committees and the courts before passing judgement on what is obviously a rather entangled spy story.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE total steel output for 1948 is expected to be about 88,000,000 tons, by more than 3,100,000 tons larger than 1947. It is estimated that this output is greater by 40 percent than the steel production of 1939.

The United States has added more than 14,000,000 tons of raw steel capacity and has increased its blast furnace capacity by about 19 percent in 1948 over 1938. Altogether the increase of capacity has been phenomenal. Since the end of the war, programs for the improvement and expansion of this industry amount to $1,700,000,000, many of which have already been completed. These include the development of steel capacity in such states as California, Oregon, Utah and Washington, where, during the past ten years, the figures are almost beyond belief; capacity increase, 272 percent during the past 10 years. Their combined blast furnace capacity has increased 815 percent.

Steel is also being produced in Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Maryland, Tennessee and Virginia where capacity has increased by 36 percent. In Texas, the increase is nearly 100 percent.

We usually think of steel being made in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois. These figures indicate a wide decentralization, with plants spreading to many parts of the country. Some of these plants are, of course, products of war acceleration. But what needs to be pointed out is that the industry itself has expended $1,700,000,000 on its expansion and improvement program, which is moving forward. Much, if not most, of this money has come out of so-called profits.

I say, "so-called profits," because the question arises whether replacement, repair, expansion and improvement are not ordinary business costs, a capital investment, which should be withdrawn from any calculation of profits and on which taxes should not be paid. Treasury rulings on this subject have generally been detrimental to the development of enterprise.

The Treasury is out to raise as much money as it can and perhaps needs; it is not always guided by the soundest economic procedures.

For instance, the railroads were penalized during the war by being required to expend within the year reserves they set up for the rebuilding, rehabilitation and repair of their services. During the profitable years, they were unable to expend such reserves because the materials were not obtainable. When the materials became more readily obtainable, the funds has been taxed away and the earnings were poorer.

In some instances, the earnings were away down. It is this confusion over the definition of the term "profits" that makes for a retardation of industrial growth.

At any rate, American industry has, as is evidenced by these steel facts, been able and willing to pour profits back into its growth and development.

The President makes the point that industry is unjustified in its current fears. Those fears are a direct product of his campaign speeches, which while they got him votes on Election Day, also encouraged the assumption that he will load on to the backs of industry a tax burden which is bound to arrest this program of improvement and expansion. If the available money is to go into taxes, it will not go into building, development, growth, expansion. Either part of the so-called profits goes into these beneficial activities or it goes into taxes. There is not enough to go into both places should the tax rates be severely increased.

The socialists do not care anything about this argument. They would, in fact, prefer to increase taxes and thereby force industry into a profitless existence, so that it becomes dependent upon government.

Their hope is that industry will eventually be nationalized altogether, if not directly, then by indebtedness to government lending agencies. Industry naturally fears, and the private investor expresses that fear, that the load of additional taxes, indicated in the President's campaign speeches, gives more comfort to the socialist than encouragement to private industry.

It is interesting that in 1947 the world production of steel was estimated at 150,000,000 tons of which the United States provided about 55 percent. In that year, it was estimated that Soviet Russia produced 22,600,000 tons. For 1948, England ought to produce more than 13,000,000 tons. We are still far ahead of the world because of the efforts of private industry and private investment.

Our Policy In China Is In State Of Bankrupt

In their periodic statements about the China crisis—which have been growing more apologetic of late—Administration spokesmen try to give the American people the impression that the United States has sent a tremendous amount of aid, including military, to China, but that the aid has been thrown away by Chiang Kai-shek's government.

Well, as a famous American used to say, "let's look at the record."

Since the end of the war, the United States has aided China, chiefly in the form of food and other civilian supplies, to the extent of about $2,000,000,000. Most of that aid was given before Secretary Marshall went out to China to promote a coalition of the Nanking government and the Chinese Communists. Marshall failed, inevitably. He deserved to fail in a venture that could have ended only by placing all of China under Moscow control. After Marshall's return, and after his celebrated "Plague on both houses" statement in early 1947, the United States sent no aid to independent China for a year. During that crucial year the Chinese Communists made hay with the ten years' supply of arms which Russia had turned over to them out of captured Japanese stores.

Alarmed by the Communist gains, Congress voted last April—against opposition of the State Department—a $400,000,000 aid program for China. Of this sum, $125,000,000 represented military aid. That was April, 1948.

Now in December, 1948, responsible Government sources inform the Associated Press that exactly $63,000,000 in U. S. military aid has been sent to Chiang's desperate armies. That $63,000,000, according to the same sources, represent all the American aid that has been delivered to China in the past 18 months.

During the same period, the United States has spent $230,000,000 for military help to Greece and Turkey. In other words, to keep communism out of Greece and Turkey the United States has spent more than three times as much as we have spent to keep communism out of the most populous country on earth.

Those are figures. How explain them? The State Department argues that Chiang's regime has been inefficient and corrupt. It is. But so is the government of Greece, as our military and diplomatic officials constantly report. The State Department "liberals," who are so keen for the "awakening of the East," say that Chiang is a "reactionary." Would they call the Turkish government liberal?

The truth about our China policy is that it has been formed by "liberals" and fellow-travelers in the Far Eastern division of the State Department, who have tried for years to oust Chiang Kai-shek and whose advice has been taken by George Marshall for reasons beyond our comprehension. As late as March 10, 1948, Secretary Marshall was quoted, (in the New York Times), as insisting upon a "broadening of the base of the Chinese government to include the Communists."

For political reasons—not military and not economic reasons—our policy in China is bankrupt. That policy now threatens to end in a communist sweep over Asia.

Winter Continues Just Around The Corner

Cumberland has already moved 11 days into December and it hasn't yet had anything that could really be called winter weather. But then, the season is still that of Fall. While Winter will not officially arrive until December 22, the weatherman does not stand on ceremony when he gets ready to dish out low temperatures, snow and sleet, nor does Jack Frost give much notice when he gets ready to blow his icy breath down the back of your neck. It has been an Autumn of moderate, sometimes mild temperatures. The mercury has risen rapidly even when it has dipped into the low twenties, as has been the case on six out of the first ten days of this month.

November, when winter-like weather is looked for, or it is expected to give a sample, was a mild month. Its average temperature was normal or slightly above. The month was unusual in another sense. It was rainy as all get out with 3.1 inches of precipitation as compared to a normal rainfall of 2.14 inches. Little more than half of the month's rain came in three twenty-four hour periods with .41 inch on November 22, .54 inch on the 18th and .53 inch on the 3rd. November had almost the average number of clear, partly cloudy and cloudy days.

December, however, has not maintained the November standard. The temperature has been down to as low as 10 degrees below freezing and we have had one freezing rain and, on one occasion, snow enough to whiten rooftops and lawns.

Of course, most citizens aren't complaining that winter is still around the corner. They're quite pleased with the situation. And, except for the kids and the lovers of winter sports, the longer winter holds off the better. But don't forget that the real cold months are still ahead and anything can happen. It probably will, too, quite suddenly and viciously, as it has a habit of doing all too often in the Cumberland area. Meanwhile, most of us are dreaming of a white Christmas.

Shopping Days

These are days when a bit of extra courtesy on everybody's part will make Christmas shopping more pleasant. Streets are crowded during business hours, often to the point of congestion. Traffic is heavier. Stores are thronged with eager shoppers, all intent on getting holiday buying out of the way early. All this could make for flareups of temper unless an air of detached objectiveness is maintained despite all provocations.

Salespeople are carrying heavier burdens during the pre-Christmas days. Usually they are patient and obliging in spite of the occasional irascible customer. Don't be critical if you are not waited upon immediately.

When you go shopping or drive your motor car through city streets, do not forget your obligation to others. It pays to be courteous.

The dock strikes are over, but both the strikers and the country were docked considerably by them.

The Farmers' Almanac says the winter will be long and icy, and there's nothing more uncertain than the grip of rubber on ice.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Vocational Guidance For The Tuberculosis

Van Dellen

The social aspects of tuberculosis are on a par with the medical as the victim suffers not only physically but emotionally. Moreover, during the period of treatment the effect on his family and community is almost as disrupting. This is not difficult to understand when it is realized that the illness is prolonged and is most likely to attack individuals during their most productive decades.

If the patient is the breadwinner, his source of income usually ceases and the family must rely upon support from the community or unemployment insurance. When the mother is afflicted, the household is disorganized and the children neglected. The thought of such setbacks is far from pleasant and frequently is more disturbing to the sufferer than all the symptoms of the malady combined. This accounts for a major part of the dread which the average man or woman bears for tuberculosis but is rarely considered until actually confronted with the problem.

After the initial shock, many a victim finds it hard to adjust himself to life in a sanitorium. He is separated from his wife and children, taken away from a job, and asked to conform to a new routine which is rigid and strict. He cannot help but wonder who will pay the bills, how his dependents will manage, and what will happen later. This phase of treatment requires expert help from physician and social service advisers because a feeling of insecurity retards convalescence.

Time usually solves this part of the problem but after the disease is arrested, the same situation presents itself except in reverse. In the past, many victims returned home and resumed their old jobs. They had not worked for a long time and many were in poor condition. Others did not realize that they were handicapped and, after a year or two, developed a recurrence.

Medical science is now trying to amend this state of affairs. Prolonged bed rest is avoided by performing pneumothorax and utilizing streptomycin. While still in the hospital, the future of the individual is discussed and plans are made for the type of occupation that will be most suitable on leaving the institution. Trained workers help in the decision by going into the educational, emotional, and physical background of the patient. More than one leader in a factory, for example, learned enough arithmetic while ill to become a checker for the firm on his return. The new job was easier and more appropriate for one who has had tuberculosis. Others finished school while convalescing or learned a skilled trade to pursue for the rest of their lives. Those who do heavy work are less inclined to cooperate in this way because they cannot be persuaded to take an easier job that probably pays less.

It is now well established that rehabilitating the tuberculosis individual is a sound economic procedure. The initial outlay is an additional burden to the taxpayer but is more than balanced if recurrences are thus reduced. After all, the second and third hospital admissions are just as costly as the first.

Congenital Tumor

This is a malignacy found in children, due to a defect acquired prior to birth. Surgery followed by X-ray is a common method of treatment.

Draining Ear

Mrs. I. writes: My 4 year old daughter was operated on for a mastoid infection. How long will the ear discharge which accompanied the condition continue?

REPLY

So long as infection in the ear persists. The fact that mastoid surgery was needed means that the organisms had spread to that raea. It does not indicate that the original source of infection has necessarily cleared.

Truman Favors Teeth In Children But Not In Dixiecrats; Clay Anticipates No Shooting War; Ambassador Warms Up Good-Neighbor Policy In Cuba

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—Sodium fluorine, the magic chemical that helps prevent tooth decay in children, now is in general use throughout the country, President Truman was informed this week by officials of the American Dental Association. Virtually all dentists are using it to various extents, chiefly on school children.

"I'm mighty glad to hear that progress is being made," the President told a delegation led by Dr. Clyde M. Minges of Rocky Mount, N. C., president of the American Dental Association. "I've been very interested in sodium fluorine since the Public Health Service first revealed its amazing qualities."

Then the President added with a smile:

"It would be a wonderful thing if we could shed our teeth when they start bothering us and grow a brand new set."

Truman promised to give "serious thought" to a proposal by Dr. Minges and his colleagues that he proclaim a National Children's Dental Health Day next February to stimulate greater interest in the care of teeth by school children and their parents.

Note—The Washington Merry-Go-Round on March 5 first reported the amazing progress of the Public Health Service in using sodium fluorine to preserve children's teeth, and gave credit to Congressman Frank Keefe, Wisconsin Republican, for helping the Public Health Service. It was reported that sodium fluorine would save about 50 per cent of children's teeth from decay.

At that time, the American Dental Association's Journal was critical both of this column and the Public Health Service for publishing this claim, but ADA officials now admit that painting children's teeth with sodium fluorine at proper intervals when under the age of 13 will preserve them in about 40 per cent of the cases.

"No War"—Clay

Powder-keg-sitting Gen. Lucius Clay expects the Russians to intensify the cold war, but to stop short of a shooting war.

Talking privately to visiting Congressmen from the House Armed Services Committee, Clay predicted that the Russians would haunt Europe with the spectre of war, but would not fight their cause on the open battlefield. Their game is to stir up chaos and fear, as a breeding ground for Communism.

The General admitted, however, that a misfire in this delicate battle of nerves could easily precipitate a war.

Greatest factor holding Russia back is American air power, Clay said, despite the fact that he is a ground soldier.

"The Russians have more respect for our air power than some of us at home have," he declared.

The constant droning of the Berlin airlift in Russian ears has only increased that respect, he added, and, at the same time, impressed the rest of Europe. It is Clay's belief that Russia wants to test whether the airlift can survive the winter before backing down from the Berlin blockade.

Clay told the Congressmen that the Communists are going from door to door in Berlin as systematically as magazine-subscription statesmen, trying to scare individuals into the Communist camp. At night their threats are backed up with kidnappings and acts of terror, hundreds of individuals having disappeared forever behind the Iron Curtain.

Bouncing Bob Butler

For years controversy has raged inside the State Department regarding the relative merits of the career and the political diplomat. Career diplomats resent the intrusion of ambassadors appointed because they have ponied up during a political campaign—and this resentment is sometimes justified. So also, political appointments resent the lack of imagination, the routine viewpoint of many career diplomats.

One political ambassador who got cuffed around at first is bouncing Bob Butler, the former St. Paul shipbuilder, who became U. S. Ambassador to Australia.

Today, however, Butler is Ambassador and doing an A-1 job. Not only does he have the warmth and human quality which some career diplomats lack—and which Latin Americans love—but he has imagination. It was Butler who conceived the important idea of bringing President Prio of Cuba up to the United States on a good-will visit.

Good will between the United States and our Latin neighbors is something which needs a lot of working at. Since statesman Sumner Welles got out of the State Department it has been woefully neglected. But today, likeable Bob Butler is doing a great job of warming up our good-neighbor policy—which is a lot more important than deciding who should sit where at dinner.

Note—Real fact is that career diplomats and political ambassadors frequently supplement each other, filling in the qualities the other lacks.

Forgive the Dixiecrats? ?

Chatting with Rep. Albert Thomas of Texas the other day, President Truman hinted that he might be willing to let bygones be bygones as far as the Dixiecrats and certain Democratic campaign prodigals are concerned.

Without mentioning the Dixiecrats or anyone by name, Truman told the tall Texas Congressman: "There's been a lot of newspaper talk and speculation about how I'm going to get even with individual Democrats and groups who were against me before the election.

"Well, it's not true," he added. "I'm not mad at anyone and I don't want to punish any individuals or groups within the party. And I'm not mad at any states that went against me.

"I just want to weld the Democratic Party back together again into the solid organization it used to be in the old days. I'm going to keep right on working toward that end."

Note—Says Ernest Cuneo re Truman's cheek-turning toward the Dixiecrats. "He's like a man whom you tell, 'I've just shot your brothers in the back,' and he says, 'That's fine, let's all be friends.

North Atlantic Alliance Is Result Of Russia's Attitude

By MARK SULLIVAN

In Washington there is now being prepared the final draft of a pact for military collaboration which has come to be called, after some evolution, the North Atlantic Alliance. The countries whose representatives are conferring are the United States, Canada, Britain, France, The Netherlands and Belgium. Other countries of Western Europe are in varying stages of readiness to join. Ultimately the North Atlantic Alliance is expected to embrace, with us and Canada, practically all the countries of Western Europe. After the work of drafting the pact has been completed it will be submitted to the Senate, early in the coming session of Congress, for the ratification required for treaties.

In the evolution of the North Atlantic Alliance, as respects our part in it, there have already been some definite official steps. The beginning and basis was recognition that the nations of Western Europe could hardly resist, separately, the aggression to which they were being subjected by Communist Russia. Out of this recognition grew an early pact for military cooperation by four Western European nations—Britain, France, The Netherlands, and Belgium. It was about this pact that President Truman, last March 17th, made a formal declaration of policy. We had already committed ourselves to helping the nations of Western Europe to achieve economic strength, by Marshall plan. In the policy announced by President Truman, we undertook to give military aid:

"This development deserves our full support. I am confident that the United States will, by appropriate means, extend to the free nations the support which the situation requires. I am sure that the determination of the free countries of Europe to protect themselves will be matched by an equal determination on our part to help them do so."

This declaration of policy was carried forward, on June 17, 1948 by a Senate resolution introduced by Republican Senator Vandenberg of Michigan who, as Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was cooperating with the Truman Administration on foreign policy. The Senate resolution declared that "based on continuous effective self-help and mutual aid" by the countries of Western Europe, we would give them military support.

The North Atlantic Alliance, while parallel to the Marshall plan for giving economic aid to Western Europe, goes much father. For the Alliance is a formal pact, to be ratified by the Senate, for details and continuous military cooperation, in effect military unity; while the Marshall plan is an emergency economic aid which contemplates coming to an end when the economic emergency is over. The objective of the Alliance is expressed in two sentences from a formal statement by a Canadian official, Secretary of State St. Laurent:

". . . an overwhelming predonderance of moral, economic and military force and the necessary unity for its effective use . . . an overwhelming preponderance of force over any adversary or possible combination of adversaries."

Russia Brings About The Unity

The North Atlantic Alliance arises directly and sponsaneously out of the condition of our time. The early post-war aspiration was world unity, "one world". This aspiration Russia thwarted. Her actions made it plain that she would not cooperate in a world unity based on the assumption that Russian Communism and Western democracy could live together, that her purpose was domination of the world by Communism.

By this attitude Russia has brought about a unity of democratic nations such as otherwise would hardly have arisen or even been attempted. The North Atlantic Alliance will be, if it comes to fruit, the strongest union of nations retaining their full sovereignty that has ever existed. It differs from the United Nations in the degree of its solidity and especially in the fact that it is based on ideal and traditions, about government and otherwise, held in common by the nations composing it. The United Nations is an over-all attempt to take in nations having every kind of ideal and tradition, some of them contradictory. The North Atlantic Alliance is the formalizing of an already existing and long-recognized community of ideals and interests. As one illustration, some approximation of unity between Canada and the United States has long been an aspiration. In the North Atlantic Alliance they are formally brought closer together than ever before.

Truman Permits Self To Be Cornered On "Red Herring"

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—President Truman allowed himself to be cornered on the "red herring" question at his press conference. He had fenced with the correspondents on their queries about the latest developments in the "spy" case and had answered satisfactorily all the points raised until someone taunted him with the inquiry as to whether he still felt that the whole thing was a "red herring."

Mr. Truman, with characteristic tenacity, said, of course, that the members of the House un-American Activities Committee were just seeking headlines and that he still felt as he did during the campaign about the "red herring." He then went on to refer to the House Un-American Activities Committee as a dead committee and implied that the New Congress should abolish it.

Unfortunate impression may be derived from these off-the-cuff answers to the queries from the press. They might be construed by some people here and abroad to mean that the President condones a loose system which permits so many documents from the State Department files to come into the possession of unauthorized persons. It might also appear as if Mr. Truman is quite casual about the sensational disclosures and is attempting to minimize their significance.

Truman Appears Cornered

There is no political campaign on now—nor any presidential election for four years. Just why the House un-American Activities Committee would be endeavoring to drag a "red herring" across the trail of current events to divert attention from anything is a little difficult to understand. Mr. Truman is right when he says that members of Congress are headline hunters but he must be charitable in that respect, for when he was at the head of the Truman investigating committee he didn't object to the headlines he got. And, incidentally, the President made quite a number of headlines this week when he reiterated his "red herring" charge.

The clash between the Department of Justice and the House un-American Activities Committee is perhaps a natural one. The department looks at violations of the law from a technical angle. It cannot ask for indictments except for specific violations and can do nothing about events which are barred from prosecution because the criminal statutes require that cases must be filed within a certain number of years after crimes are committed.

The House un-American Activities Committee, on the other hand, looks at the public interest from a broad policy standpoint. Thus it investigates to learn whether any new legislation is needed or whether administrative officers are performing their duties efficiently and faithfully. It does not have to follow the complicated procedures of the courts.

This check which the founding fathers provided, whereby congressional committees may look into the facts of executive agencies, has been of immense value to the cause of honest government. It is something which executive agencies feel is a sort of nuisance—they frankly don't like it. But always the judges of whether the inquiries are justified are the American people.

Mr. Truman apparently wants the House un-American Activities Committee to be discontinued. But this is not a special committee—it is a standing committee now of the House of Representatives. It has received a substantial majority each year on every issue that has arisen concerning its continuance. It has been in existence more years under Democratic than Republican control of Congress. Nearly all the southern Democrats will vote with the Republicans to continue the crusade against communism. Mr. Truman is not likely to get his wish—if he really wants the committee abolished.

Could Stand Improvement

The committee could stand a good deal of improvement as to methods and techniques of presenting evidence to the public. Undoubtedly innocent persons have been hurt by the loose procedures. Public opinion has manifested itself on this point, and the corrective influence is already at work.

Mr. Truman, on the other hand, cannot afford to make an isue of the work of the House un-American Activities Committee and try to squelch such a legislative inquiry. It may seriously be doubted whether his chance remark was meant to be taken seriously.

For Mr. Truman cannot afford to lose the approval of the people. Nothing would contribute so rapidly to the deterioration of the next Truman Administration as his loss of control of Congress or a loss of the confidence of a majority. Once Congress gets the idea that public support has left Mr. Truman, it will be hard sledding for his measures. It is regrettable, therefore, that the President became enmeshed in the "red herring" question once more and that he didn't turn it aside and merely declare that he, like all other citizens, would await the disclosures by congressional committees and the courts before passing judgement on what is obviously a rather entangled spy story.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE total steel output for 1948 is expected to be about 88,000,000 tons, by more than 3,100,000 tons larger than 1947. It is estimated that this output is greater by 40 percent than the steel production of 1939.

The United States has added more than 14,000,000 tons of raw steel capacity and has increased its blast furnace capacity by about 19 percent in 1948 over 1938. Altogether the increase of capacity has been phenomenal. Since the end of the war, programs for the improvement and expansion of this industry amount to $1,700,000,000, many of which have already been completed. These include the development of steel capacity in such states as California, Oregon, Utah and Washington, where, during the past ten years, the figures are almost beyond belief; capacity increase, 272 percent during the past 10 years. Their combined blast furnace capacity has increased 815 percent.

Steel is also being produced in Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Maryland, Tennessee and Virginia where capacity has increased by 36 percent. In Texas, the increase is nearly 100 percent.

We usually think of steel being made in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois. These figures indicate a wide decentralization, with plants spreading to many parts of the country. Some of these plants are, of course, products of war acceleration. But what needs to be pointed out is that the industry itself has expended $1,700,000,000 on its expansion and improvement program, which is moving forward. Much, if not most, of this money has come out of so-called profits.

I say, "so-called profits," because the question arises whether replacement, repair, expansion and improvement are not ordinary business costs, a capital investment, which should be withdrawn from any calculation of profits and on which taxes should not be paid. Treasury rulings on this subject have generally been detrimental to the development of enterprise.

The Treasury is out to raise as much money as it can and perhaps needs; it is not always guided by the soundest economic procedures.

For instance, the railroads were penalized during the war by being required to expend within the year reserves they set up for the rebuilding, rehabilitation and repair of their services. During the profitable years, they were unable to expend such reserves because the materials were not obtainable. When the materials became more readily obtainable, the funds has been taxed away and the earnings were poorer.

In some instances, the earnings were away down. It is this confusion over the definition of the term "profits" that makes for a retardation of industrial growth.

At any rate, American industry has, as is evidenced by these steel facts, been able and willing to pour profits back into its growth and development.

The President makes the point that industry is unjustified in its current fears. Those fears are a direct product of his campaign speeches, which while they got him votes on Election Day, also encouraged the assumption that he will load on to the backs of industry a tax burden which is bound to arrest this program of improvement and expansion. If the available money is to go into taxes, it will not go into building, development, growth, expansion. Either part of the so-called profits goes into these beneficial activities or it goes into taxes. There is not enough to go into both places should the tax rates be severely increased.

The socialists do not care anything about this argument. They would, in fact, prefer to increase taxes and thereby force industry into a profitless existence, so that it becomes dependent upon government.

Their hope is that industry will eventually be nationalized altogether, if not directly, then by indebtedness to government lending agencies. Industry naturally fears, and the private investor expresses that fear, that the load of additional taxes, indicated in the President's campaign speeches, gives more comfort to the socialist than encouragement to private industry.

It is interesting that in 1947 the world production of steel was estimated at 150,000,000 tons of which the United States provided about 55 percent. In that year, it was estimated that Soviet Russia produced 22,600,000 tons. For 1948, England ought to produce more than 13,000,000 tons. We are still far ahead of the world because of the efforts of private industry and private investment.

MIRROR Of Your MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Do brilliant people love more deeply than dull ones?

Answer: Not always, of course; the person who shows the most obvious brilliance often is too self-absorbed to love at all. But love is, as Shakespeare put it, "of imagination all compact," so that men and women of superior intelligence may both "see" more in the people they love and set up a richer, if more complex relationship with them. The man to whom his wife is just "a good old gal" may be truer to her than a poet would be, but he won't appreciate her beauty or her talents as well, or get as much thrill from being married to her.

Can the spread of mental illness be blocked?

Answer: We can work toward that goal, at any rate, says Dr. Samuel H. Kraines of the University of Illinois. "Preventive psychiatry" should try both to make people better able to endure strain, and to reduce the amount of strain they have to endure. This may be done by educating parents, removing unhealthy social and economic pressures, and providing facilities for nipping mental illness in the bud by early treatment. The ultimate purpose of psychiatry is not merely to cure sick minds but to cultivate "positive mental health."

Will confused dreams "make you nervous"?

Answer: No, but they may make you realize the existence of emotional disturbances which you've managed to repress when awake, though they do not always show what these are. For the difference between sleep and waking is that while you sleep your "self-control" relaxes and lets feelings which you have refused to recognize break through enough to mar your slumbers. This may make you "wake up tired," but it still acts as a safety-valve which on the whole relieves your inner tensions more than it intensifies them.

Joe Louis Gets 6-2 Verdict Over Conn

Billy Given Boxing Lesson In Chicago

CHICAGO, Dec. 10. (AP)—Deadpan Joe Louis administered a neat but none too impressive boxing lesson to Pittsburgh's Billy Conn in their six-round exhibition in the International Amphitheater tonight.

Before a disappointing gathering of 6,517 fans, who paid a net of $23,054 for the exhibition, Louis, world's heavyweight champion, received a 6 to 2 newspaper decision over the one-time challenger, whom Louis had twice previously knocked out in title battles.

One of the eight ballots cast in the newspaper writers' decision favored Conn, while another was for a draw.

Conn certainly made good his boast that he would do his level best against Louis, but his best was not good enough. However, he more than made up for the no-hitter he pitched against the Brown Bomber the last time they met when Louis knocked him out for the second time June 19,1946.

Louis did not get warmed up to his task until the third round when he opened up for the first time. He began spearing Conn with left jabs and hooks and connected solidly with a hard left to the body. If they had not been wearing 14-ounce gloves, Conn might have gone crashing to the floor. Instead Louis walked away giving the impression that he was pulling his punches.

WOLFPACK IS WINNER OVER WEST VIRGINIA MOUNTAINEERS, 56-36

RALEIGH, N. C., Dec. 10—(AP)—North Carolina State's Wolfpack maintained intact a string of 24 straight victories on its home floor by whipping West Virginia 56-36 tonight.

Dual Toastmasters Are Named For Allegany's Grid Banquet

Cumberland Attorneys To Preside Wednesday

It's going to be "double or nothing" when the A. H. S. M. M. Q. B. C. U. holds a banquet on Wednesday, December 15, at the Cumberland Country Club in honor of Coach Bob Pence and the Allegany High School football team, co-champions of Cumberland for the 1948 season.

Tommy Mont

The committee in charge feels that since co-captains were all the rage in 1948, Allegany had "touchdown twins" in Earl "Lefty" Bruce and Wesley Abrams. Bruce was twice selected for the Player-of-the-Week Award, Fort Hill an Allegany had similar records (nine wins and one tie game) and two teams shared the city title, it is fitting and proper that two toastmasters preside at next week's affair. Hence C. William Gilchrist and David Kauffman, A.H.S. grads and well known local attorneys, will do the honors as a grand climax to a "season of duals."

175 To Attend Affair

Tickets are reported to be going like hot cakes on a frosty morning and there is every indication that the limit of 175 reservations will be reached within the next few days, according to spokesmen for the sponsoring organization — Allegany High School Monday Morning Quarterback Club, Unincorporated.

Tommy Mont, one of the boys who "growed up" at Allegany and later won fame as a college and professional football player with the University of Maryland and the Washington Redskins, will be the guest speaker.

Here as some of the highlights in Mont's career:

Joined the Allegany team as freshman in 1936.

Quarterbacked the 1939 team that won eight and lost two.

Won First K. of C. Award

Won the first K. of C. (Frank McMullen) Sportsmanship Award.

Played on the 1940 AHS basketball team that won the W.M.I. League, city and state titles.

Served as president of his class for two years.

As sophomore at the University of Maryland in 1941 was regular quarterback of one of the Terps' greatest teams which lost only one game to Duke. Ranked third nationally in pass completions and was given All-America honorable mention. Voted outstanding player in the area by the Touchdown Club of Washington, D. C.

In 1943 as infantry officer he quarterbacked the Fort Benning team that won the Southern Army championship. Coached and quarterbacked the 7th Army team that won the championship in Europe. Was selected as quarterback on the All-European team.

Held Rank of Captain

Following the war he was player-coach of the All-European All-Star team in three exhibition games. Came out of the service with the rank of captain with the 3rd Infantry Regiment, the oldest unit in the Army.

Returned to Maryland in 1946 to play football and lacrosse. Received honorable mention for All-America football team. Got his degree at College Park in 1947.

Coached lacrosse freshman team at University of Maryland.

Originally the property of the New York Giants of the National Professional Football League, Tommy was traded to the Washington Redskins for Frank Filchock.

After playing three games for the 'Skins in 1947, Mont was sent to Wilmington of the American Association. Was named quarterback on the league's all-star team. Played three more games for Redskins and did an outstanding job on defense against the Giants.

Alternated With Baugh

This spring while on the West Coast he was voted the most improved player on the Redskins' squad. In a pre-season game against the Los Angeles Rams he scored one touchdown and passed for two others.

Played defensive quarterback and alternated with Sammy Baugh on offense during the past NFL season.

Tommy is married, has one son and lives at College Park, Md.

Beall High's Girls Cop Overtime Game

Coach Agnes Howat's Beall High School girls' basketball team defeated the Friendsville High School sextet last night at Friendsville by the score of 23 to 21 in an overtime contest.

The score was knotted at 19-19 at the end of the regular game and Beall won out in the three-minute extra period.

Miss Hanna paced the Beall scorers with 15 points while A. Sisler led Friendsville with 13. Lineups:

Attempt To Fix Pro Cage Games Aired By Fulks

"Small Fry" Gambler Held In $1,500 Bail

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 10 (AP)—Joe Fulks accused a poolroom operator today of trying to fix games in the Basketball Association of America.

Fulks, a towering six foot five, stood up before Magistrate Fred Schwarz, Jr., and pointed to 33-year-old Morris (Moxie) Fleishman as the man Fulks said offered him "easy money to throw games."

Schwarz held Fleishman in $1,500 bail for court.

Fulks, sharpshooting star of the Philadelphia Warriors professional basketball team, declared that he rejected the bribe offer.

George F. Richardson, assistant superintendent of police, told Schwarz at the hearing he has "positive evidence" that Fleishman is a "small fry" gambler fronting for "racketeers who are getting into both professional and amateur sports in this city."

Challenges Penal Code

Bernard L. Lemisch, council for Fleishman, heatedly asserted that Fleishman broke no law. He challenged the section of the Pennsylvania penal code invoked in the case.

Fleishman was held on a law which makes anyone guilty of a misdemeanor who "offers or gives to an agent, employe or servant of another x x x any valuable thing without the knowledge and consent of the employer x x x as an inducement, bribe or reward for doing or omitting to do any act."

Lemisch argued the law does not apply to professional basketball players. Maximum penalty upon conviction is a year in jail and a $500 fine.

Fulks said he filed the warrant against Fleishman at the suggestion of Warrior Coach Eddie Gottlieb and Peter Tyrell, general manager of the arena, which owns the Warriors.

In New York, Maurice Podoloff, president of the BAA, said he issued a directive two years ago telling athletes what to do in case they were approached by gamblers.

Said Podoloff:

"If all athletes would act as Fulks did and report immediately to their coaches, perhaps we can stamp out this menace to amateur and professional sports."

Fulks told Schwarz that Fleishman approached him shortly before Thanksgiving and said:

Told Of "Easy Money"

"Other people are making easy money by off-setting (throwing games) why don't you make some easy money while you are able. You can't go on playing professional basketball all your life."

Fulks, a native of Kuttawa, Ky., and holder of many scoring records in the BAA, said that Fleishman made no definite offer of any sum of money nor did he ask Fulks to throw any particular game.

Records Are Set For Deer Season In Two Counties

162 Slain In Allegany, Season Will End Today

New records for deer slain in a single season were established yesterday in Washington and Allegany counties.

Thirteen kills were reported in Allegany, soaring the total to 162 for five days. The previous record of 149 was set during the six-day season in 1947.

Seven bucks were killed yesterday in Washington County, increasing the total to 79 for five days and bettering the record of 76 for six days last year.

Maryland's six day season will close at sundown today.

Charles L. Snyder, 73-year-old nimrod of Oldtown, was among yesterday's successful hunters. He bagged a 4-point, 128-pound buck near Town Creek and told Warden Jack Shewbridge: "That's the first deer I ever killed."

Six were checked at Lewis' Store, Oldtown, by Shewbridge, six were checked at Shipway's Inn by Graydon Dunlap and the Maryland State Police reported two deer were brought to the LaVale Barracks.

Garrett County's total kills mounted to 349 for the first four days. The turnout of hunters was reported small yesterday in that section due to inclement weather.

By C. V. BURNS

Major John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh reaches his majority as a basketball coach tonight.

The Waterbury (Conn.) Wonder, who is serving his tenth year as mayor at Riehl Avenue, starts his 21st season as basketball mentor at Fort Hill as he sends his Sentinels against the Piedmont High Lions in Piedmont.

Greetings from the home folk will be in order next Tuesday night when the Hilltoppers play host to Davis High School.

The "Connecticut Yankee" took over the coaching reins at Pennsylvania Avenue High School in 1929 and over the years he has coached many classy teams. "Bobby" introduced football at the South End School in 1932 and tutored grid teams for five years, including the first team at Fort Hill in 1936. He also has directed all of the baseball teams representing Fort Hill.

Only one of Cavanaugh's teams finished under the .500 mark in games won and lost over a 20-year period.

His 1939 quint holds the all-time city record with a win and lost percentage of .969 for 31 victories and one defeat.

We've known the popular Irishman ever since he docked here. Who doesn't?

Just stop to talk with him on the street and he begins waving his arms in response to—"Hiya Bobby" or "Hello Coach."

Many a time we've laughed ourselves right under the desk at some of the Major's wisecracks. And we've seen his players fall right off the bench when he executed one of his puns (without coffee).

"Bobby" has done a great job as coach and here's hoping he continues at his present post for many more years.

By winning their first four games the current edition of the Cumberland Dukes got away to a much better start than the 1946-47 and the 1947-48 local pro quints.

Two years ago when professional basketball was revived, The Amvets dropped seven of their first eight games. They came back later, reeled off 14 consecutive wins and finished the season with a 16-10 record.

Last season the Dukes lost their first four games and their season's record was 12-20.

Since the pro sport staged a comeback local teams have racked up 32 victories against 30 setbacks in a little more than two seasons.

• — • — •

We note that several teams in the Basketball Association of America have almost reached or exceeded the 100 points per game total this season.

Cumberland had two of those wild affairs two years ago when the Amvets swamped the Kokomo Clowns, 910 to 60, and the Oklahoma Indians, 99-47.

Wheeling and Cumberland will be tangling for the 9th time in a pro basketball game tomorrow night.

The series stands 5 to 3 in the West Virginians' favor.

In 1946 the Wheeling Valans won one game 71-70 and the Amvets took the other, 78-61.

Last year the Wheeling Puritans took four out of six from the Dukes, winning 66-57, 55-48, 58-56 and 71-64. The locals scored 62-56 and 67-49 wins.

This season the Wheeling team is known as the Blues.

So far they've given three league teams the blues.

Leon Daughtry, the highly touted Washington, D. C., boxer, who is scheduled to meet "Skeets" Starkey here Monday night, is 18 years old and a senior at Armstrong High School in the capital city, according to Herbert Harris, his manager.

The negro lad has engaged in 30 matches, won 26 and lost 4, and registered 20 knockouts.

Daughtry fought in the Golden Gloves tournaments in New York in 1946 and 1947.

"I'm sure Cumberland fans will like Leon's style of fighting, that's why I am anxious to show him there," Harris informed the writer.

Daughtry stopped Starkey in the Olympic trials at Philadelphia last spring and if he can duplicate the performance here the fans will see something rare as "Skeets" has never been stopped in a total of 24 matches in Cumberland. Eighteen were wins and six defeats.

Jimmie Catanese returns to the ring on Monday night after a 90-days' layoff.

When he faces Samuel Kelsey he will be engaging in his 40th bout since he left the armed forces. He's won 18 and lost 21 and in some matches he has been outweighed as much as 14 pounds.

Jimmie has never given a bad performance here.

He's figured in more out-of-town bouts than any local amateur—a total of 15—and he's had few setups.

Referee Spares Joe By Stopping Match

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, Dec. 10. (AP)—Ezzard Charles of Cincinnati cut big Joe Baksi of Kulpmont, Pa., to ribbons in a furious scrap at Madison Square Garden tonight and forced Referee Ruby Goldstein to stop it in the 11th round to spare Baksi further punishment.

Charles, a lean, sharp-punching negro who craves a shot at Joe Louis' heavyweight crown, had Baksi bleeding from every pore when Goldstein called a halt. He was giving Baksi a brutal beating. The end came at 2:33 of the 11th.

11,194 See Battle

A crowd of 11,194, saw Charles spot Baksi a wagonload of weight—178 pounds to 210½—and then cut him down to size. On the Associated Press score sheet Baksi won only two rounds, the fifth and sixth, when he rallied with a body attack.

The knockout was the first ever suffered by Saksi in eight years of fighting, and it removed him from consideration as an opponent for Louis.

Charles, who entered the ring a 5-to-13 favorite, boosted his stock as a challenger, even though he failed to put Baksi on the canvas. He proved that he at least could hurt a big man. Baksi made no protest when Goldstein pulled the wasp-waisted negro off him.

Up to the time it ended, the fight was about as good as has been seen between heavyweights around here in recent years. Baksi, though outclassed, never ceased to try and he was swinging his awkward punches at Charles' middle, even when he could scarcely see through the blood.

Results Of Prelims

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (INS)—The preliminaries to the Baksi-Charles heavyweight fight tonight resulted as fololws:

Caesar Brion, 190½, South America, scored a technical knockout over Gene Felton, 191, Los Angeles, in the sixth round.

Ben Skelton, 162, Pittsburgh, got the decision over Tom McKeagney, 167½, Boston, six rounds.

Roland La Starza, 186, New York, scored a technical knockout over Gene Gosney, 211½, Seminole, Okla., seventh round.

Tom Giorgio, 186, Paterson, N. J., defeated Dominick Perro, 173, New York.

Buffalo, Baltimore Will Play For Title

BALTIMORE, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Baltimore Colts and Buffalo Bills worked within punting distance of each other today but both coaches declared "secret" the preparations for their clash Sunday for the eastern title in the All-America Football Conference.

Coach Cecil Isbell herded his Colts into Babe Ruth Stadium and locked the gates while Coach Lowell "Red" Dawson was quietly putting his Bills through the paces at Johns Hopkins University.

The teams will play to a finish Sunday. That is, in case of a tie at the end of the regulation four quarters they'll go right on playing until somebody scores to win.

The Loyal Order of Moose basketball team defeated the B. P. O. Elks by the score of 64-42 last night at SS. Peter and Paul gym.

"Snap" Morris and Don Lilya scored 16 points each to lead the Moose attack with Hollen contributed 10 tallies. Bob and Bill Spangler led the Elks with 11 and 10 points.

Joe Louis Gets 6-2 Verdict Over Conn

Billy Given Boxing Lesson In Chicago

CHICAGO, Dec. 10. (AP)—Deadpan Joe Louis administered a neat but none too impressive boxing lesson to Pittsburgh's Billy Conn in their six-round exhibition in the International Amphitheater tonight.

Before a disappointing gathering of 6,517 fans, who paid a net of $23,054 for the exhibition, Louis, world's heavyweight champion, received a 6 to 2 newspaper decision over the one-time challenger, whom Louis had twice previously knocked out in title battles.

One of the eight ballots cast in the newspaper writers' decision favored Conn, while another was for a draw.

Conn certainly made good his boast that he would do his level best against Louis, but his best was not good enough. However, he more than made up for the no-hitter he pitched against the Brown Bomber the last time they met when Louis knocked him out for the second time June 19,1946.

Louis did not get warmed up to his task until the third round when he opened up for the first time. He began spearing Conn with left jabs and hooks and connected solidly with a hard left to the body. If they had not been wearing 14-ounce gloves, Conn might have gone crashing to the floor. Instead Louis walked away giving the impression that he was pulling his punches.

WOLFPACK IS WINNER OVER WEST VIRGINIA MOUNTAINEERS, 56-36

RALEIGH, N. C., Dec. 10—(AP)—North Carolina State's Wolfpack maintained intact a string of 24 straight victories on its home floor by whipping West Virginia 56-36 tonight.

Coach Everett Case's cage wizards had too much speed and scoring punch for the nationally ranked Mountaineers from West Virginia.

State spread its point-making around. Forward Dick Dickey was high man with 13, and forward Warren Cartier and guard Sam Ranzino were one point behind with 12 each. Ranzino sank all his in the second half.

The capacity crowd of 3,300 in Memorial Auditorium saw State gain ample revenge for the 68-64 reversal it suffered at West Virginia last year.

Dual Toastmasters Are Named For Allegany's Grid Banquet

Cumberland Attorneys To Preside Wednesday

It's going to be "double or nothing" when the A. H. S. M. M. Q. B. C. U. holds a banquet on Wednesday, December 15, at the Cumberland Country Club in honor of Coach Bob Pence and the Allegany High School football team, co-champions of Cumberland for the 1948 season.

Tommy Mont

The committee in charge feels that since co-captains were all the rage in 1948, Allegany had "touchdown twins" in Earl "Lefty" Bruce and Wesley Abrams. Bruce was twice selected for the Player-of-the-Week Award, Fort Hill an Allegany had similar records (nine wins and one tie game) and two teams shared the city title, it is fitting and proper that two toastmasters preside at next week's affair. Hence C. William Gilchrist and David Kauffman, A.H.S. grads and well known local attorneys, will do the honors as a grand climax to a "season of duals."

175 To Attend Affair

Tickets are reported to be going like hot cakes on a frosty morning and there is every indication that the limit of 175 reservations will be reached within the next few days, according to spokesmen for the sponsoring organization — Allegany High School Monday Morning Quarterback Club, Unincorporated.

Tommy Mont, one of the boys who "growed up" at Allegany and later won fame as a college and professional football player with the University of Maryland and the Washington Redskins, will be the guest speaker.

Here as some of the highlights in Mont's career:

Joined the Allegany team as freshman in 1936.

Quarterbacked the 1939 team that won eight and lost two.

Won First K. of C. Award

Won the first K. of C. (Frank McMullen) Sportsmanship Award.

Played on the 1940 AHS basketball team that won the W.M.I. League, city and state titles.

Served as president of his class for two years.

As sophomore at the University of Maryland in 1941 was regular quarterback of one of the Terps' greatest teams which lost only one game to Duke. Ranked third nationally in pass completions and was given All-America honorable mention. Voted outstanding player in the area by the Touchdown Club of Washington, D. C.

In 1943 as infantry officer he quarterbacked the Fort Benning team that won the Southern Army championship. Coached and quarterbacked the 7th Army team that won the championship in Europe. Was selected as quarterback on the All-European team.

Held Rank of Captain

Following the war he was player-coach of the All-European All-Star team in three exhibition games. Came out of the service with the rank of captain with the 3rd Infantry Regiment, the oldest unit in the Army.

Returned to Maryland in 1946 to play football and lacrosse. Received honorable mention for All-America football team. Got his degree at College Park in 1947.

Coached lacrosse freshman team at University of Maryland.

Originally the property of the New York Giants of the National Professional Football League, Tommy was traded to the Washington Redskins for Frank Filchock.

After playing three games for the 'Skins in 1947, Mont was sent to Wilmington of the American Association. Was named quarterback on the league's all-star team. Played three more games for Redskins and did an outstanding job on defense against the Giants.

Alternated With Baugh

This spring while on the West Coast he was voted the most improved player on the Redskins' squad. In a pre-season game against the Los Angeles Rams he scored one touchdown and passed for two others.

Played defensive quarterback and alternated with Sammy Baugh on offense during the past NFL season.

Tommy is married, has one son and lives at College Park, Md.

Attempt To Fix Pro Cage Games Aired By Fulks

"Small Fry" Gambler Held In $1,500 Bail

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 10 (AP)—Joe Fulks accused a poolroom operator today of trying to fix games in the Basketball Association of America.

Fulks, a towering six foot five, stood up before Magistrate Fred Schwarz, Jr., and pointed to 33-year-old Morris (Moxie) Fleishman as the man Fulks said offered him "easy money to throw games."

Schwarz held Fleishman in $1,500 bail for court.

Fulks, sharpshooting star of the Philadelphia Warriors professional basketball team, declared that he rejected the bribe offer.

George F. Richardson, assistant superintendent of police, told Schwarz at the hearing he has "positive evidence" that Fleishman is a "small fry" gambler fronting for "racketeers who are getting into both professional and amateur sports in this city."

Challenges Penal Code

Bernard L. Lemisch, council for Fleishman, heatedly asserted that Fleishman broke no law. He challenged the section of the Pennsylvania penal code invoked in the case.

Fleishman was held on a law which makes anyone guilty of a misdemeanor who "offers or gives to an agent, employe or servant of another x x x any valuable thing without the knowledge and consent of the employer x x x as an inducement, bribe or reward for doing or omitting to do any act."

Lemisch argued the law does not apply to professional basketball players. Maximum penalty upon conviction is a year in jail and a $500 fine.

Fulks said he filed the warrant against Fleishman at the suggestion of Warrior Coach Eddie Gottlieb and Peter Tyrell, general manager of the arena, which owns the Warriors.

In New York, Maurice Podoloff, president of the BAA, said he issued a directive two years ago telling athletes what to do in case they were approached by gamblers.

Said Podoloff:

"If all athletes would act as Fulks did and report immediately to their coaches, perhaps we can stamp out this menace to amateur and professional sports."

Fulks told Schwarz that Fleishman approached him shortly before Thanksgiving and said:

Told Of "Easy Money"

"Other people are making easy money by off-setting (throwing games) why don't you make some easy money while you are able. You can't go on playing professional basketball all your life."

Fulks, a native of Kuttawa, Ky., and holder of many scoring records in the BAA, said that Fleishman made no definite offer of any sum of money nor did he ask Fulks to throw any particular game.

Records Are Set For Deer Season In Two Counties

162 Slain In Allegany, Season Will End Today

New records for deer slain in a single season were established yesterday in Washington and Allegany counties.

Six were checked at Lewis' Store, Oldtown, by Shewbridge, six were checked at Shipway's Inn by Graydon Dunlap and the Maryland State Police reported two deer were brought to the LaVale Barracks.

Major Starts 21st Year
Pros Clash For 9th Time
Daughtry Is K.O. Artist
Catanese In 40th Match

By C. V. BURNS

Major John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh reaches his majority as a basketball coach tonight.

The Waterbury (Conn.) Wonder, who is serving his tenth year as mayor at Riehl Avenue, starts his 21st season as basketball mentor at Fort Hill as he sends his Sentinels against the Piedmont High Lions in Piedmont.

Greetings from the home folk will be in order next Tuesday night when the Hilltoppers play host to Davis High School.

The "Connecticut Yankee" took over the coaching reins at Pennsylvania Avenue High School in 1929 and over the years he has coached many classy teams. "Bobby" introduced football at the South End School in 1932 and tutored grid teams for five years, including the first team at Fort Hill in 1936. He also has directed all of the baseball teams representing Fort Hill.

Only one of Cavanaugh's teams finished under the .500 mark in games won and lost over a 20-year period.

His 1939 quint holds the all-time city record with a win and lost percentage of .969 for 31 victories and one defeat.

We've known the popular Irishman ever since he docked here. Who doesn't?

Just stop to talk with him on the street and he begins waving his arms in response to—"Hiya Bobby" or "Hello Coach."

Many a time we've laughed ourselves right under the desk at some of the Major's wisecracks. And we've seen his players fall right off the bench when he executed one of his puns (without coffee).

"Bobby" has done a great job as coach and here's hoping he continues at his present post for many more years.

By winning their first four games the current edition of the Cumberland Dukes got away to a much better start than the 1946-47 and the 1947-48 local pro quints.

Two years ago when professional basketball was revived, The Amvets dropped seven of their first eight games. They came back later, reeled off 14 consecutive wins and finished the season with a 16-10 record.

Last season the Dukes lost their first four games and their season's record was 12-20.

Since the pro sport staged a comeback local teams have racked up 32 victories against 30 setbacks in a little more than two seasons.

We note that several teams in the Basketball Association of America have almost reached or exceeded the 100 points per game total this season.

Cumberland had two of those wild affairs two years ago when the Amvets swamped the Kokomo Clowns, 910 to 60, and the Oklahoma Indians, 99-47.

Wheeling and Cumberland will be tangling for the 9th time in a pro basketball game tomorrow night.

The series stands 5 to 3 in the West Virginians' favor.

In 1946 the Wheeling Valans won one game 71-70 and the Amvets took the other, 78-61.

Last year the Wheeling Puritans took four out of six from the Dukes, winning 66-57, 55-48, 58-56 and 71-64. The locals scored 62-56 and 67-49 wins.

This season the Wheeling team is known as the Blues.

So far they've given three league teams the blues.

Leon Daughtry, the highly touted Washington, D. C., boxer, who is scheduled to meet "Skeets" Starkey here Monday night, is 18 years old and a senior at Armstrong High School in the capital city, according to Herbert Harris, his manager.

The negro lad has engaged in 30 matches, won 26 and lost 4, and registered 20 knockouts.

Daughtry fought in the Golden Gloves tournaments in New York in 1946 and 1947.

"I'm sure Cumberland fans will like Leon's style of fighting, that's why I am anxious to show him there," Harris informed the writer.

Daughtry stopped Starkey in the Olympic trials at Philadelphia last spring and if he can duplicate the performance here the fans will see something rare as "Skeets" has never been stopped in a total of 24 matches in Cumberland. Eighteen were wins and six defeats.

Jimmie Catanese returns to the ring on Monday night after a 90-days' layoff.

When he faces Samuel Kelsey he will be engaging in his 40th bout since he left the armed forces. He's won 18 and lost 21 and in some matches he has been outweighed as much as 14 pounds.

Jimmie has never given a bad performance here.

He's figured in more out-of-town bouts than any local amateur—a total of 15—and he's had few setups.

Referee Spares Joe By Stopping Match

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, Dec. 10. (AP)—Ezzard Charles of Cincinnati cut big Joe Baksi of Kulpmont, Pa., to ribbons in a furious scrap at Madison Square Garden tonight and forced Referee Ruby Goldstein to stop it in the 11th round to spare Baksi further punishment.

Charles, a lean, sharp-punching negro who craves a shot at Joe Louis' heavyweight crown, had Baksi bleeding from every pore when Goldstein called a halt. He was giving Baksi a brutal beating. The end came at 2:33 of the 11th.

11,194 See Battle

A crowd of 11,194, saw Charles spot Baksi a wagonload of weight—178 pounds to 210½—and then cut him down to size. On the Associated Press score sheet Baksi won only two rounds, the fifth and sixth, when he rallied with a body attack.

The knockout was the first ever suffered by Saksi in eight years of fighting, and it removed him from consideration as an opponent for Louis.

Charles, who entered the ring a 5-to-13 favorite, boosted his stock as a challenger, even though he failed to put Baksi on the canvas. He proved that he at least could hurt a big man. Baksi made no protest when Goldstein pulled the wasp-waisted negro off him.

Up to the time it ended, the fight was about as good as has been seen between heavyweights around here in recent years. Baksi, though outclassed, never ceased to try and he was swinging his awkward punches at Charles' middle, even when he could scarcely see through the blood.

Results Of Prelims

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (INS)—The preliminaries to the Baksi-Charles heavyweight fight tonight resulted as fololws:

Caesar Brion, 190½, South America, scored a technical knockout over Gene Felton, 191, Los Angeles, in the sixth round.

Ben Skelton, 162, Pittsburgh, got the decision over Tom McKeagney, 167½, Boston, six rounds.

Roland La Starza, 186, New York, scored a technical knockout over Gene Gosney, 211½, Seminole, Okla., seventh round.

Tom Giorgio, 186, Paterson, N. J., defeated Dominick Perro, 173, New York.

Buffalo, Baltimore Will Play For Title

BALTIMORE, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Baltimore Colts and Buffalo Bills worked within punting distance of each other today but both coaches declared "secret" the preparations for their clash Sunday for the eastern title in the All-America Football Conference.

Coach Cecil Isbell herded his Colts into Babe Ruth Stadium and locked the gates while Coach Lowell "Red" Dawson was quietly putting his Bills through the paces at Johns Hopkins University.

The teams will play to a finish Sunday. That is, in case of a tie at the end of the regulation four quarters they'll go right on playing until somebody scores to win.

Johnny Mullaney will make his debut as basketball coach at LaSalle High School when the Explorers launch their 1948-49 campaign against St. John's High School of Frederick, Md., Sunday at 3 p. m., on SS. Peter and Paul gym.

Mullaney needs little introduction to basketball fans of the district for he was pivot man on some of LaSalle's outstanding teams of the past and later played with the Cumberland Caseys, who represented the city in the independent cage ranks for eight consecutive years.

The 1948-49 edition of LaSalle team swill sport new blue and gold uniforms with jackets.

Fifteen Members On Squad

Members of the LaSalle squad and their numbers are:

Richard Leo 12, Francis Kitzmiller 13, Charles Sitter 14, James Close 15, Robert Wood 21, Philip Christ 22, Terrence Burke 23, Hugh Miller 24, Ronald Ingram 25, Louis Arnone 31, Norman Sell 32, Donald Farrell 33, Thomas Mullaney 34, William Paupe 35 and James Crowe 42. Four of the boys on the squad are six-footers.

Robert Wood, 17, senior, has been named captain of the LaSalle quint by Coach Mullaney. He will play a guard position in the opening contest.

Wood came to LaSalle from SS. Peter and Paul grammar school where he played basketball on the 7th and 8th grade teams. He has played on basketball teams at LaSalle since his freshman year and was a pitcher on the Explorers' baseball teams. Bob was also a member of the local American Legion Junior Baseball team that went to the state finals in his sophomore year.

Tomorrow's game is LaSalle's only one here before the New Year. Beall and Berlin (Pa.) will be played away from home next Tuesday and Friday. Altoona Catholic High's Marauders will play the Explorers here on Sunday, January 2.

Clifton Van Roby and Herman Kogel will officiate.

Fort Hill at Piedmont

Fort Hill's Explorers will pry off the lid tonight when they meet Coach "Huck" Miers' Piedmont High School Lions at Piedmont, W. Va.

The Sentinels bagged the WMI League, city and Maryland Class "A" titles last year. A playoff was necessary between Fort Hill and AHS to determine the city and WMI loop championships.

Fort Hill figured in 31 contests last season, including state games, winning 26 and losing 5.

The Hilltoppers will play two games at home before Christmas, meeting the Davis (W. Va.) High School Wildcats next Tuesday and Piedmont in a return game on Friday.

Tonight's main event at Piedmont will get under way at 9 o'clock.

Cavanaugh Names Players

Coach Cavanaugh last night announced that his starting lineup will be selected from Eugene Mason, John Alderton and Charles Wagley, forwards; Vernon Hoggard, center, and Charles Lattimer, Glen Burke and Jimmy Eckard, guards. Other players on the squad who will make the trip are Bill Bratt, Roy Manges, Paul McGregor, George Wolfe, Glenn Wertz and Jim Hicks.

Fort Hill lost Mil Dean, Jim Manges, Gary Moler, Clint Cage and Murray Hardinger of the 1947-48 championship team through graduation in June.

Fred "Tack" Clark and Bob Varney will officiate.

Piedmont and Fort Hill Reserves will play in the preliminary game at 7:45 o'clock. The Sentinels' starting lineup will include Eddie Landis and Schley Lyons, forwards; Lynn Beightol, center, and Ronnie Rowe and Robert Gordon, guards, with Wilbur King, Don Brake, Bob Giles, Bill Eckard and Carroll Andrews held in reserve.

MAKES DEBUT—John Mullaney will make his bow as coach of LaSalle's basketball team when the Explorers play St. John's High of Frederick here tomorrow. In 1927 he alternated with Art Kamens at center on LaSalle's championship team in the W.M.I. League and was regular center for the Explorers in 1928 and 1929. After graduation he played for five seasons with the Cumberland Caseys, local independent quint.

Driver Jailed After Collision

Inability to pay a $101.45 fine on a drunken driving charge gave a 30-day jail sentence to Dennis Pershing Wolford, 30, Cresaptown, yesterday. He had been involved in a three-car collision in which two persons were injured early Thursday night on Greene Street.

Wolford, who sustained a nose laceration when the vehicle he was operating crashed against two parked machines, was also given a suspended fine of $11.45 for reckless driving after testifying he was blinded by the lights of an approaching car. He pleaded not guilty to both charges.

Riding with the defendant was Tyrus Smith, 28, Cresaptown, who suffered severe lacerations and a punctured nose artery when his face struck the rear mirror. He was released from Allegany Hospital last night.

Wolford denied he was intoxicated but told Magistrate Peter J. Carpenti he "had three bottles of beer" before his car struck the vehicle owned by William H. and Hazel B. Stephens, 508 Greene Street, which was parked in front of 534 Greene Street.

Slight Flaw Will Delay Telescope Commissioning

PALOMAR OBSERVATORY, Cal., Dec. 10—(INS)—Scientists preparing the 200-inch Hale telescope for exploration of celestial reaches never before observed by man disclosed today that a slight flaw in the instrument has been discovered.

Dr. Ira S. Bowen, director of the Palomar Observatory, said:

"An inaccuracy was found in the outer edges of the mirror of about 20 millionths of an inch."

Discovery of the flaw will delay the commissioning of the great telescope.

Fire Hall Building To Begin Soon

E. M. McKenzie, chairman of the Cresaptown Volunteer Fire Department building committee, has announced the beginning within a few days of actual construction work on the new building planned by the organization to house its truck and other equipment.

Work on the foundation for the building, 40 by 50 feet, got under way about November 1 and has been completed.

LaSalle Opens Cage Season With Frederick Tomorrow

Piedmont Host To Fort Hill Quint Tonight

St. John's, Explorers Clash Here At 3 P. M.

Johnny Mullaney will make his debut as basketball coach at LaSalle High School when the Explorers launch their 1948-49 campaign against St. John's High School of Frederick, Md., Sunday at 3 p. m., on SS. Peter and Paul gym.

Mullaney needs little introduction to basketball fans of the district for he was pivot man on some of LaSalle's outstanding teams of the past and later played with the Cumberland Caseys, who represented the city in the independent cage ranks for eight consecutive years.

The 1948-49 edition of LaSalle team swill sport new blue and gold uniforms with jackets.

Fifteen Members On Squad

Members of the LaSalle squad and their numbers are:

Richard Leo 12, Francis Kitzmiller 13, Charles Sitter 14, James Close 15, Robert Wood 21, Philip Christ 22, Terrence Burke 23, Hugh Miller 24, Ronald Ingram 25, Louis Arnone 31, Norman Sell 32, Donald Farrell 33, Thomas Mullaney 34, William Paupe 35 and James Crowe 42. Four of the boys on the squad are six-footers.

Robert Wood, 17, senior, has been named captain of the LaSalle quint by Coach Mullaney. He will play a guard position in the opening contest.

Wood came to LaSalle from SS. Peter and Paul grammar school where he played basketball on the 7th and 8th grade teams. He has played on basketball teams at LaSalle since his freshman year and was a pitcher on the Explorers' baseball teams. Bob was also a member of the local American Legion Junior Baseball team that went to the state finals in his sophomore year.

Tomorrow's game is LaSalle's only one here before the New Year. Beall and Berlin (Pa.) will be played away from home next Tuesday and Friday. Altoona Catholic High's Marauders will play the Explorers here on Sunday, January 2.

Clifton Van Roby and Herman Kogel will officiate.

Fort Hill at Piedmont

Fort Hill's Explorers will pry off the lid tonight when they meet Coach "Huck" Miers' Piedmont High School Lions at Piedmont, W. Va.

The Sentinels bagged the WMI League, city and Maryland Class "A" titles last year. A playoff was necessary between Fort Hill and AHS to determine the city and WMI loop championships.

Fort Hill figured in 31 contests last season, including state games, winning 26 and losing 5.

The Hilltoppers will play two games at home before Christmas, meeting the Davis (W. Va.) High School Wildcats next Tuesday and Piedmont in a return game on Friday.

Tonight's main event at Piedmont will get under way at 9 o'clock.

Cavanaugh Names Players

Coach Cavanaugh last night announced that his starting lineup will be selected from Eugene Mason, John Alderton and Charles Wagley, forwards; Vernon Hoggard, center, and Charles Lattimer, Glen Burke and Jimmy Eckard, guards. Other players on the squad who will make the trip are Bill Bratt, Roy Manges, Paul McGregor, George Wolfe, Glenn Wertz and Jim Hicks.

Fort Hill lost Mil Dean, Jim Manges, Gary Moler, Clint Cage and Murray Hardinger of the 1947-48 championship team through graduation in June.

Fred "Tack" Clark and Bob Varney will officiate.

Piedmont and Fort Hill Reserves will play in the preliminary game at 7:45 o'clock. The Sentinels' starting lineup will include Eddie Landis and Schley Lyons, forwards; Lynn Beightol, center, and Ronnie Rowe and Robert Gordon, guards, with Wilbur King, Don Brake, Bob Giles, Bill Eckard and Carroll Andrews held in reserve.

MAKES DEBUT—John Mullaney will make his bow as coach of LaSalle's basketball team when the Explorers play St. John's High of Frederick here tomorrow. In 1927 he alternated with Art Kamens at center on LaSalle's championship team in the W.M.I. League and was regular center for the Explorers in 1928 and 1929. After graduation he played for five seasons with the Cumberland Caseys, local independent quint.

Driver Jailed After Collision

Inability to pay a $101.45 fine on a drunken driving charge gave a 30-day jail sentence to Dennis Pershing Wolford, 30, Cresaptown, yesterday. He had been involved in a three-car collision in which two persons were injured early Thursday night on Greene Street.

Wolford, who sustained a nose laceration when the vehicle he was operating crashed against two parked machines, was also given a suspended fine of $11.45 for reckless driving after testifying he was blinded by the lights of an approaching car. He pleaded not guilty to both charges.

Riding with the defendant was Tyrus Smith, 28, Cresaptown, who suffered severe lacerations and a punctured nose artery when his face struck the rear mirror. He was released from Allegany Hospital last night.

Wolford denied he was intoxicated but told Magistrate Peter J. Carpenti he "had three bottles of beer" before his car struck the vehicle owned by William H. and Hazel B. Stephens, 508 Greene Street, which was parked in front of 534 Greene Street.

Slight Flaw Will Delay Telescope Commissioning

"An inaccuracy was found in the outer edges of the mirror of about 20 millionths of an inch."

Discovery of the flaw will delay the commissioning of the great telescope.

Prior to approval of hte gates, Ralph Pritts, Council member, explained how the gates operated. B. and O. officials issued an invitation to members of the Council, along with Mayor Joseph Hinebaugh, to go to Paw Paw, W. Va., in the near future to inspect one in operation there.

The gates, electrically operated, will cost in the neighborhood of $5,000 to install, but B. and O. officials said installation would not take place for about six months.

Garrett County Deer Kill Nears Record Of 1946

OAKLAND—A total of 340 deer were reported slain by hunters during the first three days of the season in this county and sportsmen were still out in large numbers to do their best to add to this total.

The record of 517, set in 1946, was not expected to be surpassed, but wardens were expressing the opinion that last year's record of 467 probably would be topped.

Most of the deer being brought in were of moderate weight and the two heaviest were reported by the Deep Creek station, 158 and 159 pounds respectively. Most of the deer were being checked in at 100 to 125 pounds.

One woman hunter was among those reporting success this year. She was Hattie Shaffer, of Hutton, and she obtained a 6-point, 90-pounder.

Swallow Falls, Snaggy, Roman Nose, Backbone, Marsh Hill, Briar Ridge, Herrington, Red Oak and Kempton sections were among the places producing the biggest number of bucks in this immediate area.

The complete list obtained by game wardens showed 171 the first day, 121 the second and 57 Wednesday. They were divided among the five stations as follows: Oakland, 61, 57 and 30; Grantsville, 47, 14 and 8; Friendsville, 14, 4 and 1; Swanton, 7, 8 and 6; Deep Creek, 30, 30 and 9, and Westernport 12, 8 and 3. Oakland Council Approves Gates On Second Street

OAKLAND—Approval of safety gates to be erected by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad at the Second Street crossing was given by the Mayor and Town Council this week.

The placing of the gates had been recommended by the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce after a meeting with B. and O. officials.

The approval of the Council will necessitate a change in the town ordinance governing the statement that a watchman must be maintained there. The Council ordered the city attorney to make necessary changes in the ordinance, to be presented for adoption.

Prior to approval of hte gates, Ralph Pritts, Council member, explained how the gates operated. B. and O. officials issued an invitation to members of the Council, along with Mayor Joseph Hinebaugh, to go to Paw Paw, W. Va., in the near future to inspect one in operation there.

The gates, electrically operated, will cost in the neighborhood of $5,000 to install, but B. and O. officials said installation would not take place for about six months.

The Council appropriated $500 to help defray expenses of the centennial celebration in 1949, and also appropriated $200 to be given to the Chamber of Commerce for Christmas decorations in the business section.

Rathbun Heads Garrett Historical Society

OAKLAND—At a meeting of the Garrett County Historical Society last Thursday evening Franklin E. Rathbun was named president, to succeed Bernard I. Gonder, Sr. Others named included Miss Viola Broadwater, Grantsville, first vice president; Miss Claudine M. Friend, Friendsville, second vice president, George K. Littman, treasurer. There was no election of a secretary as the president will appoint in this instance.

A change in the constitution was approved, raising membership fees from $1 to $2 for the regular membership, and from $10 to $20 for life membership, to take effect June 30, 1949.

Oakland Women's Club Has Christmas Party

OAKLAND—Mrs. Russell Brown was soloist at the Christmas program of the Business and Professional Women's club at the William-James hotel. Miss Marcella Kerins acompanied Mrs. Brown at the piano and played other Christmas music.

An exchange of gifts took place after the dinner. Each member brought food to be distributed to the needy of the community.

The program was in charge of the social committee composed of Mrs. B. Beeson Snyder, chairman; Mrs. F. H. Feld, Mrs. Playford Ryan, Mrs. John Carter, Mrs. Prentiss Porter, Mrs. William McRobie, Mrs. Olin Hardesty and Mrs. Helen Thayer.

Garrett County Deer Kill Nears Record Of 1946

OAKLAND—A total of 340 deer were reported slain by hunters during the first three days of the season in this county and sportsmen were still out in large numbers to do their best to add to this total.

The record of 517, set in 1946, was not expected to be surpassed, but wardens were expressing the opinion that last year's record of 467 probably would be topped.

Most of the deer being brought in were of moderate weight and the two heaviest were reported by the Deep Creek station, 158 and 159 pounds respectively. Most of the deer were being checked in at 100 to 125 pounds.

One woman hunter was among those reporting success this year. She was Hattie Shaffer, of Hutton, and she obtained a 6-point, 90-pounder.

Swallow Falls, Snaggy, Roman Nose, Backbone, Marsh Hill, Briar Ridge, Herrington, Red Oak and Kempton sections were among the places producing the biggest number of bucks in this immediate area.

The complete list obtained by game wardens showed 171 the first day, 121 the second and 57 Wednesday. They were divided among the five stations as follows: Oakland, 61, 57 and 30; Grantsville, 47, 14 and 8; Friendsville, 14, 4 and 1; Swanton, 7, 8 and 6; Deep Creek, 30, 30 and 9, and Westernport 12, 8 and 3. The latter list was only those killed in Garrett County.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 10—(INS)—Gloria De Haven is a happy girl these days with her career looking up and her husband, John Payne, absolutely devoted to her.

Jean Arthur

She is making her scenes in "And Baby Makes Three" with Donald O'Connor at Universal-International, just as quickly as she can, so she can return to her home lot, MGM, to co-star with Van Johnson in "Scene of the Crime." This is Dore Schary's first picture since rejoining MGM.

Gloria, who is such a pretty girl—and talented, too, is happy over her new contract with Metro because she's been promised that she will be co-starred with some of their most important male favorites. In fact, Dore is looking for a story now for her and Bob Taylor.

"Bad Girl," which put Sally Eilers in the star class and gave both Sally and Jimmy Dunn a great start toward movie fame, is being remade by 20th Century-Fox (the old Fox company made the original).

While this is just a guess, I have an idea that, after A. I. Bezzerides gets it ready for producer Robert Bassler, Jeanne Crain will be the girl chosen to play Sally's role.

Jeanne expects her second child the first week in January. She will be able to return to work just about the time "Bad Girl" is ready for the screen.

Heading back to 20th for "X Marks The Spot" is George Raft, who will co-star with that other movie meanie, Richard Widmark. While Richard and George both specialize in underworld roles, there is nothing similar in their technique—so there is plenty of room in one script for Widmark's high-pitched laughs and George's steely glances.

Freddie Kohlmar, who will produce, tells me that this original story is more of a satire on the late, unlamented Chicago gangsters than a shoot-it-out-to-kill opus. In the days when they terrorized law-abiding citizens they were anything but amusing.

Chatter in Hollywood: "Can't you do something about stopping those rumors that are so false?" Frank Ross asked me.

"Jean Arthur and I haven't separated—neither has she disappeared. She is living in New York in 35th street and studying. I don't know how I can stop all this talk," Frank said.

I had heard earlier that a detective agency had been employed to try to find Jean—all of which Frank says is "preposterous and ridiculous."

Seymour Nebenzal told me an almost unbelievable reason why he cannot put Peter Lorre, who created the role in Europe, into the remake of the Sensational "M."

Remember what a chiller that was with Loore tearing you out of your chair as the rapist?

"His was one of the great performances of the screen," Nebenzal told me, "but since that time he has played so many roles with a comedy twist that I am afraid he couldn't scare the daylights out of audiences anymore — and that is what we have to have."

John Ireland is the "scare" boy he has his eye on temporarily. The picture starts January 21 with John Brahm directing, and Mel Dinelli writing the screenplay.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

I have an idea Greer Garson has already set her wedding date to Buddy Fogelson. May I remind you that I printed the first inkling of their serious intentions?

Wallace Beery has not left MGM. In fact, he is discussing a new contract. There is also another offer in the offing.

Michael Curtiz and Warners are in the midst of discussing a new contract. Mike has had several other big offers.

Liz Scott, who has made one movie after another, leaves for New York the 19th, to spend Christmas and the holidays with her family.

Aileen McMahon, who has been in New York on the stage, and is, for my money, one of the best character actresses on the screen, is back at the Sam Goldwyn for "Roseanna McCoy."

That's all today.

JUST BETWEEN US

By NANCY MOTTRAM

If Old Argument Not Settled It May Destroy Friendships

(Q) "Dear Nancy: Eight months ago, my best friend and I had an argument, and haven't been speaking since. Now, after all this time, I want to break the ice. I realize I was in the wrong, and I want to be the one to apologize. Some of our friends tell me it would do no good, but how can I find out if this is true or not? I'd like some advice as to what to do about it?"

Nancy Mottram

(A) It's not safe to let ill feelings last, because sometimes they can't ever be erased. But at least, you can make a try, and you'll never know for sure if she'll agree to forgive and forget until you ask her yourself. Perhaps your friends are right, but don't take their word as absolute fact. You're willing to apologize and admit that it was your fault, so before your courage deserts you, go to her and tell her your side. Then both of you can make an effort to get that old friendship in force again.

(Q) "Dear Nancy: A while ago, I began to like a fellow who lives very near my home, and though I asked him to a dance and a party given by my friends, he hasn't called or asked me out once. He accepted both my invitations and we had a wonderful time, but I haven't seen or heard from him since. Another party is coming up and I'd like to invite him again, but I don't know if I should. What do you think?"

(A) It puts you in an odd position when you have to do the asking for the dates all the time. He may have intended to call you and just never got around to it, but it's more possible that although he'll go with you when you ask him to one of the crowd's affairs, he'll never make an effort to see you otherwise. Think of someone else to ask to this next party. If he does have any intention of seeing you, that might set him wondering and you'd be getting a phone call soon afterwards. But if not, you'd be wise to switch dates. You'll know then that he's a lost cause, and there's no sense in spending your time waiting and hoping.

(Q) "Dear Nancy: I told a friend of mine something I wanted kept secret, and only yesterday, another buddy of mine began kidding me about this thing I'd told her in confidence. There's only one way it could be known, and it's pretty obvious. I don't want my personal problems all over school, but now that it's general knowledge, what should I do. And what can I say to her?"

(A) You know by now that you just can't truse that particular "pal." So, from this day on, watch what you say around her. You'll be safe if you don't mention anything you wouldn't want the whole student body to know. As for what has already become public property, ignore it. Laugh it off, and if the conversation lights on that certain subject, act as if it were unimportant, as far as you're concerned. When they find they can't annoy you and that they're wasting their time in trying, they'll turn their chatter to something else.

Miss Mottram cannot answer all letters personally, but the most important ones will be answered in her column.

Seymour Nebenzal told me an almost unbelievable reason why he cannot put Peter Lorre, who created the role in Europe, into the remake of the Sensational "M."

Remember what a chiller that was with Loore tearing you out of your chair as the rapist?

"His was one of the great performances of the screen," Nebenzal told me, "but since that time he has played so many roles with a comedy twist that I am afraid he couldn't scare the daylights out of audiences anymore — and that is what we have to have."

John Ireland is the "scare" boy he has his eye on temporarily. The picture starts January 21 with John Brahm directing, and Mel Dinelli writing the screenplay.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

I have an idea Greer Garson has already set her wedding date to Buddy Fogelson. May I remind you that I printed the first inkling of their serious intentions?

Wallace Beery has not left MGM. In fact, he is discussing a new contract. There is also another offer in the offing.

Michael Curtiz and Warners are in the midst of discussing a new contract. Mike has had several other big offers.

Liz Scott, who has made one movie after another, leaves for New York the 19th, to spend Christmas and the holidays with her family.

Aileen McMahon, who has been in New York on the stage, and is, for my money, one of the best character actresses on the screen, is back at the Sam Goldwyn for "Roseanna McCoy."

That's all today.

JUST BETWEEN US

By NANCY MOTTRAM

If Old Argument Not Settled It May Destroy Friendships

(Q) "Dear Nancy: Eight months ago, my best friend and I had an argument, and haven't been speaking since. Now, after all this time, I want to break the ice. I realize I was in the wrong, and I want to be the one to apologize. Some of our friends tell me it would do no good, but how can I find out if this is true or not? I'd like some advice as to what to do about it?"

Nancy Mottram

(A) It's not safe to let ill feelings last, because sometimes they can't ever be erased. But at least, you can make a try, and you'll never know for sure if she'll agree to forgive and forget until you ask her yourself. Perhaps your friends are right, but don't take their word as absolute fact. You're willing to apologize and admit that it was your fault, so before your courage deserts you, go to her and tell her your side. Then both of you can make an effort to get that old friendship in force again.

(Q) "Dear Nancy: A while ago, I began to like a fellow who lives very near my home, and though I asked him to a dance and a party given by my friends, he hasn't called or asked me out once. He accepted both my invitations and we had a wonderful time, but I haven't seen or heard from him since. Another party is coming up and I'd like to invite him again, but I don't know if I should. What do you think?"

(A) It puts you in an odd position when you have to do the asking for the dates all the time. He may have intended to call you and just never got around to it, but it's more possible that although he'll go with you when you ask him to one of the crowd's affairs, he'll never make an effort to see you otherwise. Think of someone else to ask to this next party. If he does have any intention of seeing you, that might set him wondering and you'd be getting a phone call soon afterwards. But if not, you'd be wise to switch dates. You'll know then that he's a lost cause, and there's no sense in spending your time waiting and hoping.

(Q) "Dear Nancy: I told a friend of mine something I wanted kept secret, and only yesterday, another buddy of mine began kidding me about this thing I'd told her in confidence. There's only one way it could be known, and it's pretty obvious. I don't want my personal problems all over school, but now that it's general knowledge, what should I do. And what can I say to her?"

(A) You know by now that you just can't truse that particular "pal." So, from this day on, watch what you say around her. You'll be safe if you don't mention anything you wouldn't want the whole student body to know. As for what has already become public property, ignore it. Laugh it off, and if the conversation lights on that certain subject, act as if it were unimportant, as far as you're concerned. When they find they can't annoy you and that they're wasting their time in trying, they'll turn their chatter to something else.

Miss Mottram cannot answer all letters personally, but the most important ones will be answered in her column.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A doctor in a small Polish town, trying desperately to collect enough fees to balance his wife's extravagance, was called to treat the sick daughter of a poor scholar. "Name any fee, and I'll raise it for you," begged the scholar. "Only save my daughter."

"It's a difficult case. What if I don't save her?" asked the doctor.

"Whether you cure her or kill her, I'll pay," promised the scholar.

Unfortunately, the daughter died despite the doctor's best efforts, and he submitted a bill for a thousand dollars. The scholar cried this was exorbitant, and the case went to the local judge for arbitration. The judge considered all the evidence and then turned to the doctor. "As I understand it, sir," he said, "you were to be paid whether you cured this poor girl or killed her. Did you cure her?" "No," the doctor admitted. "Did you kill her then?" "Certainly not," roared the doctor. "Very well, then," decreed the judge, "the case is dismissed, and the doctor deserves nothing at all."

Renowned Statue Here Wednesday

The statue of Our Lady of Fatima will be crowned at a ceremony at St. Patrick's Catholic Church next Wednesday at 8 p. m. according to the Very Rev. J. Lawrence Kilkenny, pastor.

The showing of the statue here will be the only appearance in Western Maryland. It will arrive by car at 6 p. m. and will remain in the rectory until 8 p. m. when it will be carried in a procession of altar boys, visiting clergy and parishioners.

Chief Justice Taney General Assembly of the Fourth Degree of the Knights of Columbus will be the guard of honor for the occasion.

The statue will be enthroned in the sacristy and crowned by Rt. Rev. Msgr. William C. McGrath, P. A., of the Scarboro Foreign Mission Society, who has accompanied the statue in all its travels in the United States.

Following the enthronement, Father Kilkenny will give a short welcome talk. The rosary, with special ejaculations, will be recited. Following the singing of a verse of a hymn, a sermon, "The Message of Fatima", will be delivered by Msgr. McGrath. The Act of Consecration and Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament will follow. Veneration of the statue will complete the service.

Confessions will be heard earlier Wednesday evening and a mass at 7 a. m. Thursday will complete the devotions. The statue will then be taken to Pittsburgh for similar services.

The statue is one of two replicas of the original of Our Lady of Fatima. The other is now touring Europe. Both were hand-carved from cedarwood by Thedim, famous Portuguese sculptor, who designed the original statue.

Father Kilkenny said today that all Western Maryland parishes are expected to send delegations to the Wednesday evening service which will be open to the general public.

Smith Appointed County Engineer

John J. Smith, Mt. Savage, was named county engineer at a salary of $350 a month by a two to one vote of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday. Smith has been acting county engineer for the past 14 months.

Commissioners Charles N. Wilkinson and William H. Lemmert voted for Smith's appointment upon the motion by Lemmert, and Commissioner James Holmes voted "no".

Lemmert said that when he attended the meeting of the Western Shore County Commissioners Association in Federick on Wednesday he learned from questioning officials of 14 counties that their county engineers in most cases were practical engineers who rose from the ranks.

"About two-thirds of the county engineers in Maryland are from this group", Lemmert said.

He then made the motion to name Smith to the post.

Commissioner Wilkinson then stated: "In view of the fact that I made the motion previously (at the session of Tuesday, November 30), I'll second the motion.

Commissioner Holmes said: "Who will okay plats for new additions". He added that "We should advertise for a registered engineer".

Holmes went on to state that he did not believe Smith qualified under the requirement for ten to 12 years experience in a supervisory capacity.

"Four years ago he was only a truck driver for the county roads", Holmes asserted.

Lemmert countered with the statement that Smith "had done a fine job on county roads this year". He pointed out also that the State Roads Commission has accepted the practical engineers of other counties.

Smith will assume his post as engineer on January 1.

Jaycees To Sponsor Yule Lighting Contest

A contest for the most effective use of lights in decorating residences for Christmas will be sponsored December 24 through January 1 by the Junior Association of Commerce.

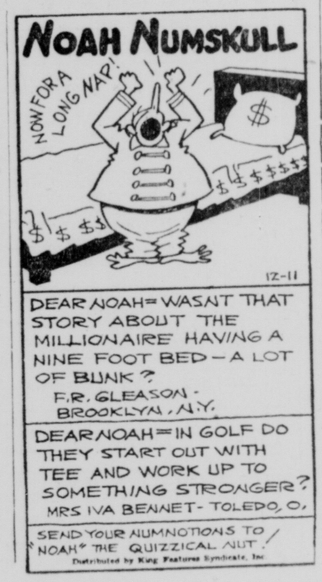

Those desiring to participate in the contest should telephone the Jaycee office, Cumberland 29, and request judges to visit the display.

Heading the Christmas Activities Committee is Chauncey M. Sanner. Other members are C. Edgar Collier, Harold Fraley, Arthur F. Friedland, S. Russ Minter, Simon Rosenbaum, and Arthur S. Wenborne.

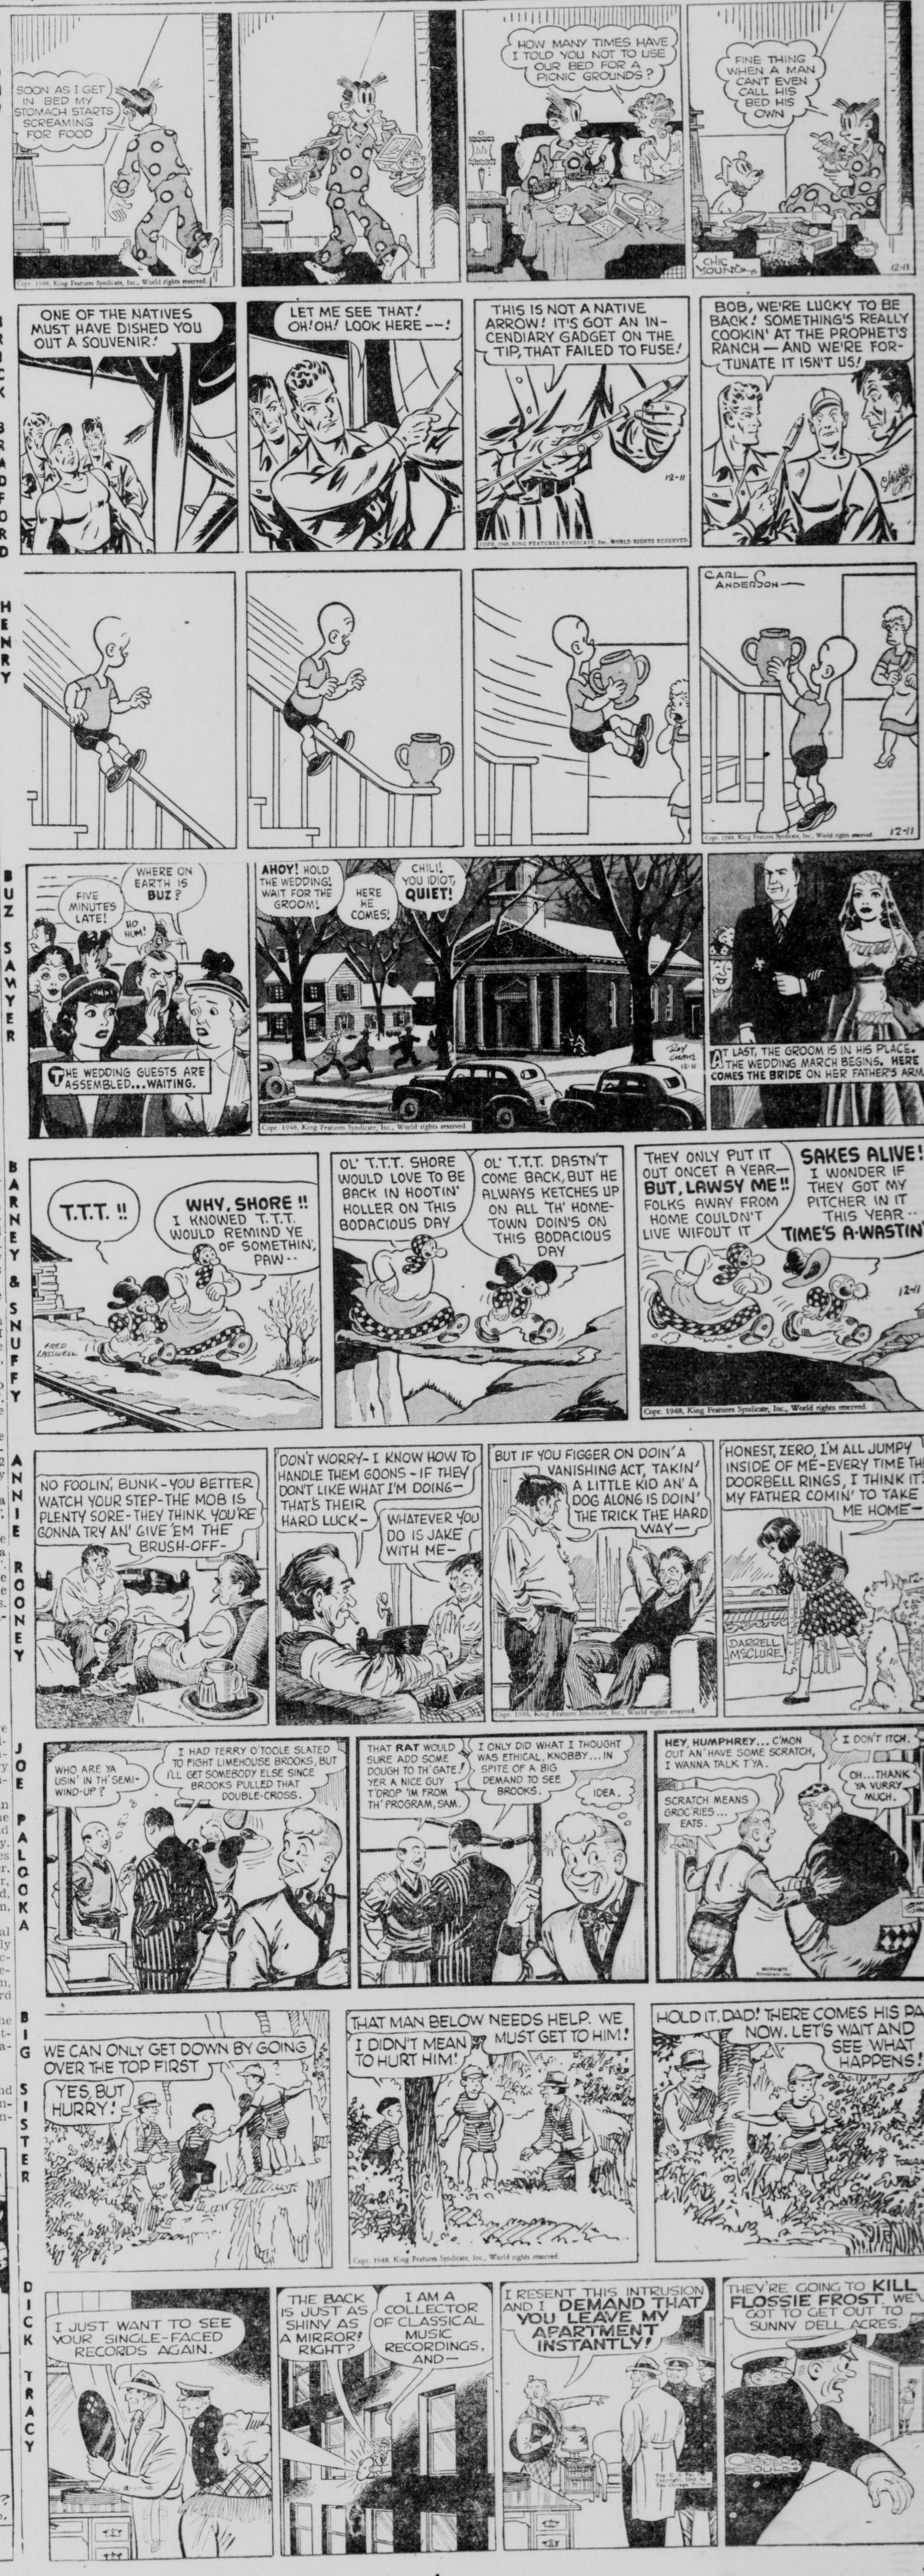

Prizes are being domated by local merchants and will be equitably distributed among the various sectinos of the city as well as in Allegany Grove, LaVale, Bowling Green, Potomac Park, and the Bedford Road section.

In announcing the contest the Jaycees noted that supplies of lighting equipment and bulbs are relatively plentiful this year.

It is said that the Chinese and Hindus knew about gunpowder centuries before the record of its invention in 1620.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A doctor in a small Polish town, trying desperately to collect enough fees to balance his wife's extravagance, was called to treat the sick daughter of a poor scholar. "Name any fee, and I'll raise it for you," begged the scholar. "Only save my daughter."

"It's a difficult case. What if I don't save her?" asked the doctor.

"Whether you cure her or kill her, I'll pay," promised the scholar.

Unfortunately, the daughter died despite the doctor's best efforts, and he submitted a bill for a thousand dollars. The scholar cried this was exorbitant, and the case went to the local judge for arbitration. The judge considered all the evidence and then turned to the doctor. "As I understand it, sir," he said, "you were to be paid whether you cured this poor girl or killed her. Did you cure her?" "No," the doctor admitted. "Did you kill her then?" "Certainly not," roared the doctor. "Very well, then," decreed the judge, "the case is dismissed, and the doctor deserves nothing at all."

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X B
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Renowned Statue Here Wednesday

The statue of Our Lady of Fatima will be crowned at a ceremony at St. Patrick's Catholic Church next Wednesday at 8 p. m. according to the Very Rev. J. Lawrence Kilkenny, pastor.

The showing of the statue here will be the only appearance in Western Maryland. It will arrive by car at 6 p. m. and will remain in the rectory until 8 p. m. when it will be carried in a procession of altar boys, visiting clergy and parishioners.

Chief Justice Taney General Assembly of the Fourth Degree of the Knights of Columbus will be the guard of honor for the occasion.

The statue will be enthroned in the sacristy and crowned by Rt. Rev. Msgr. William C. McGrath, P. A., of the Scarboro Foreign Mission Society, who has accompanied the statue in all its travels in the United States.

Following the enthronement, Father Kilkenny will give a short welcome talk. The rosary, with special ejaculations, will be recited. Following the singing of a verse of a hymn, a sermon, "The Message of Fatima", will be delivered by Msgr. McGrath. The Act of Consecration and Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament will follow. Veneration of the statue will complete the service.

Confessions will be heard earlier Wednesday evening and a mass at 7 a. m. Thursday will complete the devotions. The statue will then be taken to Pittsburgh for similar services.

The statue is one of two replicas of the original of Our Lady of Fatima. The other is now touring Europe. Both were hand-carved from cedarwood by Thedim, famous Portuguese sculptor, who designed the original statue.

Father Kilkenny said today that all Western Maryland parishes are expected to send delegations to the Wednesday evening service which will be open to the general public.

Smith Appointed County Engineer

John J. Smith, Mt. Savage, was named county engineer at a salary of $350 a month by a two to one vote of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday. Smith has been acting county engineer for the past 14 months.

Commissioners Charles N. Wilkinson and William H. Lemmert voted for Smith's appointment upon the motion by Lemmert, and Commissioner James Holmes voted "no".

Lemmert said that when he attended the meeting of the Western Shore County Commissioners Association in Federick on Wednesday he learned from questioning officials of 14 counties that their county engineers in most cases were practical engineers who rose from the ranks.

"About two-thirds of the county engineers in Maryland are from this group", Lemmert said.

He then made the motion to name Smith to the post.

Commissioner Wilkinson then stated: "In view of the fact that I made the motion previously (at the session of Tuesday, November 30), I'll second the motion.

Commissioner Holmes said: "Who will okay plats for new additions". He added that "We should advertise for a registered engineer".

Holmes went on to state that he did not believe Smith qualified under the requirement for ten to 12 years experience in a supervisory capacity.

"Four years ago he was only a truck driver for the county roads", Holmes asserted.

Lemmert countered with the statement that Smith "had done a fine job on county roads this year". He pointed out also that the State Roads Commission has accepted the practical engineers of other counties.

Smith will assume his post as engineer on January 1.

Jaycees To Sponsor Yule Lighting Contest

A contest for the most effective use of lights in decorating residences for Christmas will be sponsored December 24 through January 1 by the Junior Association of Commerce.

Those desiring to participate in the contest should telephone the Jaycee office, Cumberland 29, and request judges to visit the display.

Heading the Christmas Activities Committee is Chauncey M. Sanner. Other members are C. Edgar Collier, Harold Fraley, Arthur F. Friedland, S. Russ Minter, Simon Rosenbaum, and Arthur S. Wenborne.

Prizes are being domated by local merchants and will be equitably distributed among the various sectinos of the city as well as in Allegany Grove, LaVale, Bowling Green, Potomac Park, and the Bedford Road section.

In announcing the contest the Jaycees noted that supplies of lighting equipment and bulbs are relatively plentiful this year.

It is said that the Chinese and Hindus knew about gunpowder centuries before the record of its invention in 1620.

In Memoriam

We have only your memory my dear,
The rest of our lives through
But your dearness will linger forever

Market Pulls Out Of Three-Day Decline, Pulls Ahead Slightly

NEW YORK, Dec. 10—(AP)—Pulling out of a three-day decline, the stock market today moved ahead by a small margin.

A late rally turned the tide and wiped out small but fairly widespread early losses.

Gains were not impressive. Mostly they were fractions to around a point with a few pushing beyond that range in response to special individual circumstances.

The comparatively low volume of 1,040,000 shares was the lightest full day in nearly two weeks.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained .3 of a point at 64.4. The industrial component of the average made the best showing with a rise of .5 of a point. Rails and utilities each gained .2 of a point.

Of the 1,022 issues appearing on the quotation tape, 401 advanced and 361 declined. There were 52 new lows for this year and five new highs.

Higher were U. S. Steel 71⅝, Santa Fe 103, Great Northern preferred 42½, Nickel Plate 71½, Socony Vacuum 17, Pacific Western 41⅝, Chrysler 53¼, Montgomery Ward 57⅞, International Harvester 28¼, Douglas 52⅝, Lockheed 18, Kennecott 56⅞, American Can 82, DuPont 172, Philip Morris 38¾, and Farnsworth Television and Radio 7¼.

Lower were Barsdall Oil at 44, Standard Oil (NJ) at 73¼, Firestone 44¼, Consolidated Natural Gas 40¾, Anaconda 33½, Westinghouse 24½, and Owens Illinois 48½.

Declines among the rails were fairly numerous in the bond market, but only a handful amounted to as much as a point.

VETERANS OPPOSE SUNDAY BURIAL BAN

MEYERSDALE, Pa.—A reported ban on Sunday burials at Union Cemetery met with vigorous opposition at the Wednesday night meeting of Charles E. Kelly Post No. 112, American Legion.

By unanimous vote, the members decided to contact the Cemetery Association for clarification with regard to future veteran burials.

Post officials said the situation came to light recently when the bereaved family of a serviceman killed overseas was denied Sunday burial for him.

Post Commander Baer named Tom Shipley, James Hartle, Jack Commons and Jack Brown as an investigating committee.

Officials pointed out that families of returning war dead have no way of setting the date on which the body will arrive in the community.

Supporting the Legion in opposing the reported ban is John C. Tressler Post No. 3504, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Keyser Needy Will Get Food Baskets

KEYSER—All churches, Sunday school classes, civic, fraternal and business organizations and citizens are being contacted by letter from Mayor John C. Freeland for contributions for baskets of food to be distributed to needy families in Keyser and vicinity at Christmas.

The City Office, Davis Street, will be used as a clearing house in order that duplications may be avoided, Mayor Freeland said.

Forty-six baskets of food were distributed to families last year, benefiting 78 adults and 67 children.

The names of needy persons may be given at the City Office. Citizens desiring may have their grocer prepare and deliver a basket to a family of their choice. In that case the name of the family should be given to the City Office.

Mayor Freeland suggests that the basket contain one chicken, one bunch celery, two cans milk, one pound coffee, one pound nuts, one and one-half pounds hard candy, two loaves bread, one pound butter, one-half dozen oranges and one peck potatoes. The basket will cost about $6.59.

CHRISTMAS PLAY IS GIVEN BY PUPILS

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—A Christmas play, "Uncle Mel's Merry Christmas," presented by the pupils of the seventh grade, featured the December meeting of the Piedmont Parent-Teacher Association at Piedmont High School Thursday evening.

Those taking part in the play were Marlin Hawkins, Sylvia Lynn Bess, Frankie Lupis, Kemper Cline, Louise Amtower, Joyce Hartman and Delores Morrison. Carol Ann McConnell was stage manager and Mary Lou Hood was prompter. Christmas music was played by the high school orchestra.

By-laws were revised by the group.

Mrs. Arthur Hartman, president, appointed Mrs. Raymond C. Hudson, Mrs. Carl Bosley and Miss Sue Gleason to secure a chest of drawers for the first aid room in the high school.

Refreshments were served by the mothers of the third grade.

The next meeting will be January 13.

Market Pulls Out Of Three-Day Decline, Pulls Ahead Slightly

NEW YORK, Dec. 10—(AP)—Pulling out of a three-day decline, the stock market today moved ahead by a small margin.

A late rally turned the tide and wiped out small but fairly widespread early losses.

Gains were not impressive. Mostly they were fractions to around a point with a few pushing beyond that range in response to special individual circumstances.

The comparatively low volume of 1,040,000 shares was the lightest full day in nearly two weeks.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained .3 of a point at 64.4. The industrial component of the average made the best showing with a rise of .5 of a point. Rails and utilities each gained .2 of a point.

Of the 1,022 issues appearing on the quotation tape, 401 advanced and 361 declined. There were 52 new lows for this year and five new highs.

Higher were U. S. Steel 71⅝, Santa Fe 103, Great Northern preferred 42½, Nickel Plate 71½, Socony Vacuum 17, Pacific Western 41⅝, Chrysler 53¼, Montgomery Ward 57⅝, International Harvester 28¼, Douglas 52⅝, Lockheed 18, Kennecott 56⅞, American Can 82, DuPont 172, Philip Morris 38¾, and Farnsworth Television and Radio 7¼.

Lower were Barsdall Oil at 44, Standard Oil (NJ) at 73¼, Firestone 44¼, Consolidated Natural Gas 40¾, Anaconda 33½, Westinghouse 24½, and Owens Illinois 48½.

Declines among the rails were fairly numerous in the bond market, but only a handful amounted to as much as a point.

VETERANS OPPOSE SUNDAY BURIAL BAN

MEYERSDALE, Pa.—A reported ban on Sunday burials at Union Cemetery met with vigorous opposition at the Wednesday night meeting of Charles E. Kelly Post No. 112, American Legion.

By unanimous vote, the members decided to contact the Cemetery Association for clarification with regard to future veteran burials.

Post officials said the situation came to light recently when the bereaved family of a serviceman killed overseas was denied Sunday burial for him.

Post Commander Baer named Tom Shipley, James Hartle, Jack Commons and Jack Brown as an investigating committee.

Officials pointed out that families of returning war dead have no way of setting the date on which the body will arrive in the community.

Supporting the Legion in opposing the reported ban is John C. Tressler Post No. 3504, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Keyser Needy Will Get Food Baskets

The names of needy persons may be given at the City Office. Citizens desiring may have their grocer prepare and deliver a basket to a family of their choice. In that case the name of the family should be given to the City Office.

Mayor Freeland suggests that the basket contain one chicken, one bunch celery, two cans milk, one pound coffee, one pound nuts, one and one-half pounds hard candy, two loaves bread, one pound butter, one-half dozen oranges and one peck potatoes. The basket will cost about $6.50.

New Year Will See Many Firms Change Locations

Old Citizens Bank Building In Picture

Cumberland's business district is expected to see several firms relocate early in the new year with two and possibly three being directly affected by the location of a new clothing store in the old Citizens National Bank building, corner of Baltimore and Centre Streets.

The two firms definitely scheduled to move from the bank building are the Cumberland Liquor Store and the Darling Shop, which once fought an eviction suit for its present location and won. The uncertain firm is the Ormond Hosiery Company, also located in the bank building.

There were reliable reports that three other business firms will change locations early in 1949 and a fourth will probably be taken-in by one of the stores moving out of the bank building.

The new company which several sources said is scheduled to take over the Baltimore-Centre Street site was identified as the Holley Shops, owned and operated by a clothing store chain. Its headquarters is in New York City.

Gets New Location

The Cumberland Liquor Store, owned and operated by Louis Seder, who made his debut in Cumberland retail business in 1935 when he opened the Cumberland Drug Company, is to be located at 37 North Centre Street, former site of the Lear and Oliver Ice Cream parlor.

The Darling Shop, according to a reliable source, will move in with the Taylor Shop, Baltimore Street, and will combine the two firms under the name of the Darling Shop, which will "definitely" continue in business on Baltimore Street.

The third change, which remains in doubt is the relocation of the Ormond Hosiery Shop. First reports indicated that the store would be moved to the Wilson building on North Centre Street which is presently undergoing remodeling. The move was reported "in doubt" last night.

New Candy Store Site

The Wilson building is slated to be the new location of the Martha Washington Candy Store now on North Liberty Street. The second floor of the Wilson Building is to be occupied by the Prudential Insurance Company of America, presently located in the Clark-Keating Building, Baltimore Street.

While most of the changes are expected to occur in the later part of January, the Martha Washington Candy Store is expected to continue its present Liberty Street location beyond that period.

All of the firms are scheduled to continue at present locations until January 29. The Holley company is scheduled to take over the bank building on or about that date with the present occupants scheduled to open at the new locations on February 1.

Build New Quarters

The last local firm scheduled to change locations is the Danzic Optical Company presently located on North Centre Street. That firm will move to South Centre Street into a building the company is erecting.

Relocation of present firms on the ground floor of the bank building has been under question for at least the past year when the firms were given notices. Since then the stores have been operating on a month to month basis.

Also involved in the bank transaction is the Winter Dance Studio, located on the third floor and the Wright Richards Engineering firm located on the second floor. There was no indication last night if the two firms would change locations immediately.

Peoples Bank Stockholders Favor Merger

Liberty Trust To Meet On Monday

At a special meeting yesterday afternoon of the stockholders of the Peoples Bank, the proposed merger with the Liberty Trust Company was approved, according to Irving Rosenbaum, president of the former institution.

Stockholders of the Liberty Trust Company will meet Monday at 1 p. m. to vote on the merger plan.

If it is approved, the merger will be the first of its kind in Cumberland since 1920, when the Liberty Trust Company was formed by the merger of four banks.

The propsed plan calls for the merged institution to be known as the Liberty Trust Company. It would be operated under the charter of that bank.

The present location of Peoples Bank on North Liberty Street would be operated as a branch pending proposed improvements and enlargement of the banking room now occupied by the Liberty Trust Company to house operations of the merged institution.

Upon approval of the merger, Charles A. Piper will continue as president and present directors of both institutions will serve as directors.

Training Center Plans Huge Yule Greeting

Lights On Next Week

The U. S. Naval and Marine Training Center is making full use of its vantage point on McKaig's Hill to send greetings to Cumberland on its first Christmas.

Under the general direction of Lt. Anthony A. Braccia, the roof of the armory is being turned into a huge Christmas card.

The signal mast will be strung with lights to give the effect of a large Christmas tree. Across the roof will ride Santa Claus, his sleigh and six reindeer.

The group, about six feet high and 30 feet long will be illuminated with lights set in outline from around the figures.

On the left side of the Marine entrance and the right side of the Navy door will be 14-foot Christmas trees strung with lights.

Started Last Month

Conceived shortly after Thanksgiving, the project has taken many hours and will take more before its operation early next week. The materials were assembled a week ago Wednesday and work has been going on at the center almost every evening since.

The Santa display, donated by William K. Brady, a local business man, is now in the Center carpentry shop having a 35-foot steel frame constructed to protect it from the high winds on the roof. In charge of this phase of operation is Chief L. E. Norris.

A key man in Operation Yuletide has been Electrician's Mate Roy Yutzy who has done most of the gathering of materials and leg work connected with the project.

The wiring is being done under the supervision of a member of the Training Center regular staff, Chief Joseph Duffield who is familiar with the wiring set up of the armory.

Use Recreation Fund

Lt. Braccia said money for the display came from the Naval Reserve's welfare and recreation fund raised with dances this past Navy Day and the year before.

Chiefs Joe Duffield, and Robert Horstman, Electronics Mate Kenneth Shelley and Radioman Second Class Richard Llewellyn of the regular staffs are supervising the work which is being done by 10 or 15 members of the Reserve unit.

Lt. Braccia pointed out the usefulness of the project to unit members, many of whom are receiving practical training in electronics and the use of Training Center machines which they had not had before.

Commended by Braccia for outstanding service on the building of the outsize Christmas card are unit members, Donald Wagoner, CMM; William Fairall, EM-2; Kenneth Engle, EM-1; Robert Robeson, Fireman-1; Laurence Barwald, MM-1, Charles E. Weisenmiller, Seaman-1, and Bennet Lincoln, EM-2.

Filter Data Sought For Park Pool

Data on diatomaceous earth filters for pool recirculating systems will be requested from various sources, including Army Engineers and the United States Public Health Service, according to Mayor Thomas S. Post.

Cities where such filters are used will also be asked to submit data, the mayor said.

The information is sought in connection with bids which the city has received for a recirculating system at the Constitution Park swimming and wading pools.

Permit Granted For Warehouse Addition

Abe Feldstein, 130 Wineow Street, secured a permit in the city engineer's office yesterday to build an addition to a warehouse located at the rear of 555 North Mechanic Street.

The one-story addition will measure 30 by 30 feet, with a concrete block foundation, walls of concrete block with steel beams and a composition roof. Work is estimated to cost $2,500.

Deer Hunters Can't Enter Woods After Kill

If you've shot your buck you'd better stay out of the woods.

Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, said that once a hunter has shot his legal limit of one buck deer he cannot hunt or attempt to hunt during the season which ends this afternoon.

Two hunters were fined $50 each in Garrett County, he added, for taking part in hunts after they had killed their bucks.

Weather

Better get out those overshoes and fur-lined gloves for your Christmas shopping excursion today. The weather man says it will be cloudy and cold, with the possibility of some snow this afternoon or tonight. The best the temperature could do yesterday was 36 degrees, which isn't warm in any man's language. It did manage to struggle up to 27 late last night from the low reading of 24 degrees, though.

Dairy Operation Problems Aired

Fourteen dairy plant managers of Allegany and Garrett Counties attended the first of a series of conferences on problems of operation yesterday afternoon in the office of Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer.

Additional testing of incoming milk to the plants and milk sold at retail was discussed, as well as sanitary programs at dairy farms and milk plants.

Tuberculin tests of dairy herds and regular checking of milk products for quality also featured the discussion.

J. Byron Dowling, state sanitarian; W. H. Shockley, Albert Smouse, W. R. E. King and Walter "Pat" Kline, of the Allegany County Health Department, and Alonzo Fike, Oakland, Garrett County sanitarian, attended the meeting.

Opinion Filed In Dispute Over Mechanic's Lien

In an opinion filed yesterday in the case of Eleanor Eyerman against Marshall B. Burch and Myrle C. Burch, trading as Burch Brothers Contracting Company, Associate Judge Oliver H. Bruce indicated he would dismiss a mechanic's lien filed by the defendants against a building on the plaintiff's land.

The opinion, in summarizing testimony in the case, reports the bill of complaint filed by the plaintiff stated she had leased some land on Greene Street to Richard O. Upole with the provision that Upole could remove any improvements from the land within 30 days from the end of the lease, or later, provided written consent to the removal were given before termination of the lease.

Upole contracted with Burch Brothers for construction of a building, it was stated, and the defendants placed the building on the lot Upole had leased.

Later, the contracting firm filed a lien against the building. The bill of complaint stated no notice of intention to file a lien was given within 60 days from the time the last materials for the structure had been furnished or from the time the building was completed. The bill asked the Court to dismiss the lien on these grounds.

Judge Bruce stated in his opinion that a 60-days notice of intention to file a mechanic's lien is required by state law, and added he would dismiss the lien.

Carbon Monoxide Is Blamed For Mine Deaths

Carbon monoxide poisoning was responsible for the death of five men in a coal mine tragedy near Kitzmiller November 4, the State Department of Mines reported yesterday.

The blood of all the victims showed traces of carbon monoxide and death was undoubtedly due to the inhalation of that gas, the report said.

The bodies of the men, Martin, Clarence and Herman Keller, Kitzmiller; Charles F. Keifer, Mt. Storm, and Robert Jackson, were found about 200 feet from the entrance of the George Nethken Mine, near Kitzmiller, after flames from a fan house fire spread through the mine.

The bureau said the men might have saved themselves had they been able to get an empty pit car to a hill about 250 feet from the mouth of the mine and coasted to the mouth or could have bratticed themselves in with brattice cloth.

Fort Hill Students Complete "Cathedral Window" Project

Twenty-one windows on the third floor of Fort Hill High School, overlooking the driveway entrance, have been painted to simulate cathedral windows, according to Miss Lola Burrall, art teacher.

Students in Art Department classes in grade seven through 12 took part in the work, which began three weeks ago and was completed yesterday.

Poster paint, which can be washed off easily, was used in decorating the windows with Nativity scenes.

Miss Burrall said designs were largely supplied by students of the sophomore class. Approximately 80 students took part in the work, under the supervision of Miss Burrall and Theodore Foote, also an art teacher.

Lights in the 21 rooms were turned on last night to emphasize the cathedral window effect achieved by the painted windows, for the benefit of those attending the presentation of "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay" at the school.

The lights will be turned on again Christmas Eve, Miss Burall said.

She added that the window painting project this year was on a much larger scale than in previous years. The display will continue throughout the Christmas season.

Snow Covers Garrett Roads, Flurries Here

Mercury Skids To Season's Lowest

Frequent snow flurries melted long before they hit the ground here yesterday, but served as a warning to motorists traveling into Garrett County where roads were reported covered and police were advising the use of chains. Temperatures fell to season lows.

Grass plots and open fields were white west of Frostburg, but the real snow storm began west of Grantsville and continued into Oakland and other western sections of Garrett County. Depth reports throughout averaged two inches.

Deal, Pa., the Tri-State area's ice box, shivered in 18 degrees weather at 9 o'clock last night and railroad workers passing through the community said the ground was covered with a half-inch of snow.

Thomas, W. Va., a close contender for the Tri-State's most frigid area reported that the mercury skidded to 18 degrees later in the night and declared frequent snow squalls throughout the day covered the ground with between a half and three quarters of an inch of snow.

In Cumberland the Christmas Shopping public shivered along the streets and tried to hurry away from a threatening snow storm that never got beyond the flurry stage. The mercury hovered below the 36 degree mark.

At 10 p. m. it had plummeted to 27 degrees and the weatherman's forecast said it would go even lower before morning. While the snow flurries ceased shortly before 6 p. m. the sky continued cloudy and more of the same was promised for today.

In Oakland the snow fall which reached a depth of two inches began early in the morning and continued throughout the day. Residents said the fall was light but persistent.

Maryland State Police said roads were "slick" in Garrett County and advised all motorists to use chains.

$10,000 Suit Is Filed By Father Of Crash Victim

Two Local Men Face Manslaughter Counts

A fatal accident near Parsons, W. Va., Thursday afternoon, resulted yesterday in a $10,000 damage suit being filed against the Community Baking Company, Cumberland, alleging the baking company truck was at fault.

The suit was filed in Tucker County Circuit Court by Joseph DiBacco, Thomas, father of the victim, Arthur DiBacco, who was killed instantly when a lumber truck operated by him was involved in an accident with a Community Baking truck.

Tucker County Sheriff D. E. Crosten confirmed the suit and said he served papers on Gorden S. Leatherman, secretary and assistant treasurer of the company. Witness warrants were also served on William A. Laing and William B. Hughes, who were injured in the accident.

Both Cumberland men, according to Tucker County authorities, were riding in the Community Baking Company truck. Company officials said Laing is the bread salesman, but authorities described Hughes as driver of the truck.

Both men were charged with manslaughter by automobile yesterday and while still patients in Tucker County Hospital, Parsons, waived preliminary hearings and were ordered to appear in Tucker Circuit Court at the December term.

Laing, Sheriff Crosten said, posted $1,000 cash bond and will be permitted to return home when discharged from the hospital. Hughes, however, has not posted bond, will be taken into custody when released from the hospital.

Attaches described the conditions of both men as good and indicated they will be discharged today. Community Baking Company officials said Hughes was riding in the truck without consent or knowledge.

Authorities said DiBacco died instantly when the two trucks collided on Route 219, 200 feet west of the intersection of State Route 72.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph DiBacco, Thomas, and three sisters, Mrs. Adeline Quattro, Miss Lucille DiBacco, and Miss Susie DiBacco, all of Detroit.

A solemn requiem mass will be conducted Monday at 10 a. m. in St. Thomas Catholic Church with Father Francis A. Spillar officiating. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

Marine Reserve Gets Training Opportunity

About 20 per cent of Company D, Marine Corps Reserve, has enrolled in the Marine Corps Institute according to Capt. John T. Fey, commanding officer.

Unit Education Officer First Lt. John R. Manley is urging 100 per cent enrollment because free enrollment in the institute is one of the big advantages of belonging to the Reserve Corps.

Military proficiency in the Corps largely depends upon the knowledge of individuals and their ability to apply that knowledge effectively, Capt. Fey said. The Marine Corps Institute as the oldest service school of its type has provided that service for over 28 years.

More than 20 high school, college and technical courses are offered by the school. Capt. Fey emphasized the opportunity given to work toward high school graduation, to earn college credits or to perfect skill in a craft or trade. All this is possible at no expense to the member either for books or instruction, he added, and each man enro- d has a competent instructor assigned to him.

Estate Plans May Require Revision Naughton Asserts

Lower Earnings Pose New Problem

Do not make the mistake of assuming that estate plans made today will remain satisfactory in the future without change, Joseph M. Naughton, president of the Second National Bank, warned yesterday in an address before the Cumberland Life Underwriters Association.

In his address on the role of life insurance in estates at a luncheon meeting of the association, Naughton also stressed that the tax angle should never dominate one's thinking when making recommendations for an estate plan.

There were two distinct approaches to the problem of estate planning 25 years ago — that of the bank trust department and of the life insurance companies, he pointed out.

Any selfishness which once characterized their viewpoints has disappeared, he explained, for the main concern of both parties now seems to be, "What is the best way to aid the client in conserving his property?"

In some cases, life insurance options are the best answer while in others they prove too inflexible so that there is really no competition between life underwriters and the trust officers of banks, he asserted.

Face New Problem

All interested in conserving property now have to face a new problem, that of lower earnings on both property and securities so that small estates now need more careful planning than ever before.

During the past 20 years, he said, the "You can't take it with you" has become so prevalent that the person who builds a large estate for the future security of his family is "practically immoral" in the eyes of the revenue planners.

Actually, 99 per cent of the fathers working today must build their estates chiefly of life insurance if it is to do the job they want for their survivors, Naughton asserted.

The Revenue Act of 1948, he said, practically doubled the prospect list of life underwriters and the same act made women, because of the community property idea, users of life insurance more than ever before.

Planning Is Needed

Estates in Cumberland, Naughton said, consist to an unusual degree of real estate rather than securities or merchandise so that small estates in this area are served well by life insurance as a source of cash when tax colections must be paid during the settlement of an estate.

Even though state and federal governments are prone to collect tax in a controversial question during the settlement of an estate and refund later when required by decisions, it is a mistake for anyone planning an estate to think only of the tax problem to the neglect of more important angles, he concluded.

Naughton was introduced to the 45 life underwriters attending the luncheon meeting by O. C. Hileman, vice president of the association.

Meyersdale Man Drops Dead

A 69-year-old Meyersdale, Pa., coal miner collapsed suddenly at his home at about 6:58 yesterday morning.

Dr. A. M. Uphouse, Somerset County coroner, said the man, Albert J. Baer, RFD 3, died of a heart condition. He was reported about to go to light the fires in area schools when he fell dead. Although he had heart trouble in the past according to Dr. Uphouse, he had not been under a doctor's care for sometime.

Born in Somerset County, he was a son of the late Ishmael and Hannah Althouse Baer. He was the father of F. Dale Baer, Meyersdale correspondent for the Cumberland News.

Besides his wife, the Mrs. Margarette Lee Baer, Mr. Baer is survived by the following other children Mrs. Burford Johnson, Akron, Ohio; Robert B. Baer, USN, San Francisco, Cal.; Glenn Baer, Turtle Creek, Pa., Miss Pauline Baer, at home, and Mrs. James Bice, Cumberland; one half sister, Mrs. Daisy Henry, and six grandchildren.

A funeral service will be held Monday afternoon at the Konhaus Funeral Home. Rev. H. K. Hilner, pastor of the Meyersdale Lutheran Church, of which Mr. Baer was a member, will officiate and burial will be in Union Cemetery there.

Westernport Girl Is State Winner In Jaycee Contest

Nancy Eaton Is Notified By Wire

Nancy Eaton, senior class honor student at Bruce High School Westernport, has been named the Maryland state winner in an "I Speak for Democracy" contest.

This was announced yesterday in Baltimore by Paul J. Williamson, chairman of the Americanism committee of the Maryland Junior Association of Commerce.

The Jaycees sponsored the contest in conjunction with National Radio Week.

A recording of Miss Eaton's speech will be entered in the national finals, to be held in Washington later this month. Four national winners will receive $500 college scholarships.

Williamson sent telegrams to Charles S. Catherman, Jr., president of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, and to Miss Eaton regarding her selection.

Transcribed speeches made by county contestants were used in the judging.

Runners-up in the state contest were Jerome Passagno, a student at Mt. Joseph's in Baltimore, and Raymond L. McKane, Hagerstown, a student at St. Mary's School there.

Miss Eaton is the daughter of Mrs. Gladys Miller Eaton and the grand-daughter of Mrs. Fanny Miller, who reside at Hammond Street, Westernport.

She is associate editor of "The Spotlight," student publication, and a member of the Tri-Hi-Y organization at the school.

Miss Eaton was an honor student while attending junior high school at Point Pleasant, W. Va. Her freshman year was spent at Hempstead, Long Island, High School, after which she came to Bruce in 1946 as a sophomore. She has been on the honor roll at Bruce each year since that time.

Although she is undecided as to which college she would like to enter upon graduation from Bruce, Miss Eaton said last night she plans to major in business administration or political science.

Buz Sawyer To Be Married, But Days Of Adventure Are Not Over

Comic-strip fans, who over the years have come to expect that their pen-and-ink heroes may skirt dangerously close to death, marriage or divorce but never will plunge into any of those inky pits, are due for a big surprise on Monday, December 13.

On that date, the energetic Buz Sawyer, Roy Crane's famous cartoon character, is due to marry his oldtime sweetheart, Christy Jamison—and what's more, he's going to do it. None of this last-minute running out at the altar for Buz.

Crane's decision to marry off Buz was made after readers flooded him with letters, pro and con, when it appeared that a wedding might be in the offing. It IS an unusual step for a comicstrip hero to take, but it is not unique. Blondie's marriage to Dagwood Bumstead, for example, was one predecessor.

Crane, while he emphasizes the adventurous and exciting side of life in "Buz," prefers to keep it as close to realism as possible. "Humans do get married," he said, "and children are born and families get older. I think Buz's marriage will broaden the strip's possibilities. With a wife to support, who knows what jobs and tasks he may take on to win the family bread?"

The marriage is to take place in the town of Willow-Springs—which is stateless, so far as readers are aware. For a long while, it appeared as if there would be too many obstacles in its way, such as the time recently when Sultry, the Maharani of Batu, turned up unexpectedly and did everything but shanghai Buz out of the arms of Christy.

But we have Roy Crane's word for it—all's well that ends well. December 13 is the witching day . . . and no fooling.

Postoffice Open All Day Saturdays Until Christmas

Overseas Parcel Rates Changed

Today and next Saturday, the Cumberland Post Office will be open until 6 p. m. for the selling of stamps and acceptance of parcel post packages, Acting Postmaster William C. McDermott announced today.

Substation A, Virginia and Third Avenue, will follow the same schedule. Ordinarily the postoffice closes at noon on Saturdays.

A special plea came from rural route carriers asking their patrons not to expect them to buy their stamps for them. A practice has been growing of putting letters in mail boxes with money rather than stamps.

Not only is this against regulations, McDermott said, but it seriously handicaps carriers in their duties. The pennies make larger loads for them to carry and they haye not the time to put stamps on the load of mail they must handle.

Overseas Rates Changed

The Postmaster also announced changes in the rates on USA gift parcels sent to Europe which will be effective December 15.

Parcels for delivery in Great Britain and Northern Ireland and Italy including the Republic of San Marino and the Vatican City State, will now be sent for six cents a pound. The former fee was 10 cents.

McDermott explained that agreements between th forign administrations concerned and the Economic Cooperation Administration to waive terminal credits usually charged to the Postoffice Department made the reduction possible.

However, rates for parcel post packages sent to the Soviet zone of Germany including the entire city of Berlin with the exception of those going to American, French and British sectors of the city will be increased from 14 to 17 cents a pound.

In the non-Soviet sectors of Berlin, the charges will be increased from 10 to 13 cents.

Rates in the American, French and British zones of Western Germany will remain 10 cents, McDermott added.

Walsh said a substantial part of the money would be used to defray funeral and other expenses. He added the $1,200 was all of Msgr. Quinn's assets that could be located.

New Year Will See Many Firms Change Locations

Old Citizens Bank Building In Picture

Cumberland's business district is expected to see several firms relocate early in the new year with two and possibly three being directly affected by the location of a new clothing store in the old Citizens National Bank building, corner of Baltimore and Centre Streets.

The two firms definitely scheduled to move from the bank building are the Cumberland Liquor Store and the Darling Shop, which once fought an eviction suit for its present location and won. The uncertain firm is the Ormond Hosiery Company, also located in the bank building.

There were reliable reports that three other business firms will change locations early in 1949 and a fourth will probably be taken-in by one of the stores moving out of the bank building.

The new company which several sources said is scheduled to take over the Baltimore-Centre Street site was identified as the Holley Shops, owned and operated by a clothing store chain. Its headquarters is in New York City.

Gets New Location

The Cumberland Liquor Store, owned and operated by Louis Seder, who made his debut in Cumberland retail business in 1935 when he opened the Cumberland Drug Company, is to be located at 37 North Centre Street, former site of the Lear and Oliver Ice Cream parlor.

The Darling Shop, according to a reliable source, will move in with the Taylor Shop, Baltimore Street, and will combine the two firms under the nsme of the Darling Shop, which will "definitely" continue in business on Baltimore Street.

The third change, which remains in doubt is the relocation of the Ormond Hosiery Shop. First reports indicated that the store would be moved to the Wilson building on North Centre Street which is presently undergoing remodeling. The move was reported "in doubt" last night.

New Candy Store Site

The Wilson building is slated to be the new location of the Martha Washington Candy Store now on North Liberty Street. The second floor of the Wilson Building is to be occupied by the Prudential Insurance Company of America, presently located in the Clark-Keating Building, Baltimore Street.

While most of the changes are expected to occur in the later part of January, the Martha Washington Candy Store is expected to continue its present Liberty Street location beyond that period.

All of the firms are scheduled to continue at present locations until January 29. The Holley company is scheduled to take over the bank building on or about that date with the present occupants scheduled to open at the new locations on February 1.

Build New Quarters

The last local firm scheduled to change locations is the Danzic Optical Company presently located on North Centre Street. That firm will move to South Centre Street into a building the company is erecting.

Relocation of present firms on the ground floor of the bank building has been under question for at least the past year when the firms were given notices. Since then the stores have been operating on a month to month basis.

Also involved in the bank transaction is the Winter Dance Studio, located on the third floor and the Wright Richards Engineering firm located on the second floor. There was no indication last night if the two firms would change locations immediately.

Peoples Bank Stockholders Favor Merger

Liberty Trust To Meet On Monday

At a special meeting yesterday afternoon of the stockholders of the Peoples Bank, the proposed merger with the Liberty Trust Company was approved, according to Irving Rosenbaum, president of the former institution.

Stockholders of the Liberty Trust Company will meet Monday at 1 p. m. to vote on the merger plan.

If it is approved, the merger will be the first of its kind in Cumberland since 1920, when the Liberty Trust Company was formed by the merger of four banks.

The propsed plan calls for the merged institution to be known as the Liberty Trust Company. It would be operated under the charter of that bank.

The present location of Peoples Bank on North Liberty Street would be operated as a branch pending proposed improvements and enlargement of the banking room now occupied by the Liberty Trust Company to house operations of the merged institution.

Upon approval of the merger, Charles A. Piper will continue as president and present directors of both institutions will serve as directors.

Training Center Plans Huge Yule Greeting

Lights On Next Week

The U. S. Naval and Marine Training Center is making full use of its vantage point on McKaig's Hill to send greetings to Cumberland on its first Christmas.

Under the general direction of Lt. Anthony A. Braccia, the roof of the armory is being turned into a huge Christmas card.

The signal mast will be strung with lights to give the effect of a large Christmas tree. Across the roof will ride Santa Claus, his sleigh and six reindeer.

The group, about six feet high and 30 feet long will be illuminated with lights set in outline from around the figures.

On the left side of the Marine entrance and the right side of the Navy door will be 14-foot Christmas trees strung with lights.

Started Last Month

Conceived shortly after Thanksgiving, the project has taken many hours and will take more before its operation early next week. The materials were assembled a week ago Wednesday and work has been going on at the center almost every evening since.

The Santa display, donated by William K. Brady, a local business man, is now in the Center carpentry shop having a 35-foot steel frame constructed to protect it from the high winds on the roof. In charge of this phase of operation is Chief L. E. Norris.

A key man in Operation Yuletide has been Electrician's Mate Roy Yutzy who has done most of the gathering of materials and leg work connected with the project.

The wiring is being done under the supervision of a member of the Training Center regular staff, Chief Joseph Duffield who is familiar with the wiring set up of the armory.

Use Recreation Fund

Lt. Braccia said money for the display came from the Naval Reserve's welfare and recreation fund raised with dances this past Navy Day and the year before.

Chiefs Joe Duffield, and Robert Horstman, Electronics Mate Kenneth Shelley and Radioman Second Class Richard Llewellyn of the regular staffs are supervising the work which is being done by 10 or 15 members of the Reserve unit.

Lt. Braccia pointed out the usefulness of the project to unit members, many of whom are receiving practical training in electronics and the use of Training Center machines which they had not had before.

Commended by Braccia for outstanding service on the building of the outsize Christmas card are unit members, Donald Wagoner, CMM; William Fairall, EM-2; Kenneth Engle, EM-1; Robert Robeson, Fireman-1; Laurence Barwald, MM-1, Charles E. Weisenmiller, Seaman-1, and Bennet Lincoln, EM-2.

Filter Data Sought For Park Pool

Data on diatomaceous earth filters for pool recirculating systems will be requested from various sources, including Army Engineers and the United States Public Health Service, according to Mayor Thomas S. Post.

The information is sought in connection with bids which the city has received for a recirculating system at the Constitution Park swimming and wading pools.

Deer Hunters Can't Enter Woods After Kill

If you've shot your buck you'd better stay out of the woods.

Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, said that once a hunter has shot his legal limit of one buck deer he cannot hunt or attempt to hunt during the season which ends this afternoon.

Two hunters were fined $50 each in Garrett County, he added, for taking part in hunts after they had killed their bucks.

Weather

Better get out those overshoes and fur-lined gloves for your Christmas shopping excursion today. The weather man says it will be cloudy and cold, with the possibility of some snow this afternoon or tonight. The best the temperature could do yesterday was 36 degrees, which isn't warm in any man's language. It did manage to struggle up to 27 late last night from the low reading of 24 degrees, though.

Fourteen dairy plant managers of Allegany and Garrett Counties attended the first of a series of conferences on problems of operation yesterday afternoon in the office of Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer.

Additional testing of incoming milk to the plants and milk sold at retail was discussed, as well as sanitary programs at dairy farms and milk plants.

Tuberculin tests of dairy herds and regular checking of milk products for quality also featured the discussion.

Opinion Filed In Dispute Over Mechanic's Lien

In an opinion filed yesterday in the case of Eleanor Eyerman against Marshall B. Burch and Myrle C. Burch, trading as Burch Brothers Contracting Company, Associate Judge Oliver H. Bruce indicated he would dismiss a mechanic's lien filed by the defendants against a building on the plaintiff's land.

The opinion, in summarizing testimony in the case, reports the bill of complaint filed by the plaintiff stated she had leased some land on Greene Street to Richard O. Upole with the provision that Upole could remove any improvements from the land within 30 days from the end of the lease, or later, provided written consent to the removal were given before termination of the lease.

Upole contracted with Burch Brothers for construction of a building, it was stated, and the defendants placed the building on the lot Upole had leased.

Later, the contracting firm filed a lien against the building. The bill of complaint stated no notice of intention to file a lien was given within 60 days from the time the last materials for the structure had been furnished or from the time the building was completed. The bill asked the Court to dismiss the lien on these grounds.

Judge Bruce stated in his opinion that a 60-days notice of intention to file a mechanic's lien is required by state law, and added he would dismiss the lien.

Carbon Monoxide Is Blamed For Mine Deaths

Carbon monoxide poisoning was responsible for the death of five men in a coal mine tragedy near Kitzmiller November 4, the State Department of Mines reported yesterday.

The blood of all the victims showed traces of carbon monoxide and death was undoubtedly due to the inhalation of that gas, the report said.

The bodies of the men, Martin, Clarence and Herman Keller, Kitzmiller; Charles F. Keifer, Mt. Storm, and Robert Jackson, were found about 200 feet from the entrance of the George Nethken Mine, near Kitzmiller, after flames from a fan house fire spread through the mine.

The bureau said the men might have saved themselves had they been able to get an empty pit car to a hill about 250 feet from the mouth of the mine and coasted to the mouth or could have brattised themselves in with brattice cloth.

Fort Hill Students Complete "Cathedral Window" Project

Twenty-one windows on the third floor of Fort Hill High School, overlooking the driveway entrance, have been painted to simulate cathedral windows, according to Miss Lola Burrall, art teacher.

Students in Art Department classes in grade seven through 12 took part in the work, which began three weeks ago and was completed yesterday.

Poster paint, which can be washed off easily, was used in decorating the windows with Nativity scenes.

Miss Burrall said designs were largely supplied by students of the sophomore class. Approximately 80 students took part in the work, under the supervision of Miss Burrall and Theodore Foote, also an art teacher.

Lights in the 21 rooms were turned on last night to emphasize the cathedral window effect achieved by the painted windows, for the benefit of those attending the presentation of "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay" at the school.

The lights will be turned on again Christmas Eve, Miss Burall said.

She added that the window painting project this year was on a much larger scale than in previous years. The display will continue throughout the Christmas season.

Snow Covers Garrett Roads, Flurries Here

Mercury Skids To Season's Lowest

Frequent snow flurries melted long before they hit the ground here yesterday, but served as a warning to motorists traveling into Garrett County where roads were reported covered and police were advising the use of chains. Temperatures fell to season lows.

Grass plots and open fields were white west of Frostburg, but the real snow storm began west of Grantsville and continued into Oakland and other western sections of Garrett County. Depth reports throughout averaged two inches.

Deal, Pa., the Tri-State area's ice box, shivered in 18 degrees weather at 9 o'clock last night and railroad workers passing through the community said the ground was covered with a half-inch of snow.

Thomas, W. Va., a close contender for the Tri-State's most frigid area reported that the mercury skidded to 18 degrees later in the night and declared frequent snow squalls throughout the day covered the ground with between a half and three quarters of an inch of snow.

In Cumberland the Christmas Shopping public shivered along the streets and tried to hurry away from a threatening snow storm that never got beyond the flurry stage. The mercury hovered below the 36 degree mark.

At 10 p. m. it had plummeted to 27 degrees and the weatherman's forecast said it would go even lower before morning. While the snow flurries ceased shortly before 6 p. m. the sky continued cloudy and more of the same was promised for today.

In Oakland the snow fall which reached a depth of two inches began early in the morning and continued throughout the day. Residents said the fall was light but persistent.

Maryland State Police said roads were "slick" in Garrett County and advised all motorists to use chains.

$10,000 Suit Is Filed By Father Of Crash Victim

Two Local Men Face Manslaughter Counts

A fatal accident near Parsons, W. Va., Thursday afternoon, resulted yesterday in a $10,000 damage suit being filed against the Community Baking Company, Cumberland, alleging the baking company truck was at fault.

The suit was filed in Tucker County Circuit Court by Joseph DiBacco, Thomas, father of the victim, Arthur DiBacco, who was killed instantly when a lumber truck operated by him was involved in an accident with a Community Baking truck.

Tucker County Sheriff D. E. Crosten confirmed the suit and said he served papers on Gorden S. Leatherman, secretary and assistant treasurer of the company. Witness warrants were also served on William A. Laing and William B. Hughes, who were injured in the accident.

Both Cumberland men, according to Tucker County authorities, were riding in the Community Baking Company truck. Company officials said Laing is the bread salesman, but authorities described Hughes as driver of the truck.

Both men were charged with manslaughter by automobile yesterday and while still patients in Tucker County Hospital, Parsons, waived preliminary hearings and were ordered to appear in Tucker Circuit Court at the December term.

Laing, Sheriff Crosten said, posted $1,000 cash bond and will be permitted to return home when discharged from the hospital. Hughes, however, has not posted bond, will be taken into custody when released from the hospital.

Attaches described the conditions of both men as good and indicated they will be discharged today. Community Baking Company officials said Hughes was riding in the truck without consent or knowledge.

Authorities said DiBacco died instantly when the two trucks collided on Route 219, 200 feet west of the intersection of State Route 72.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph DiBacco, Thomas, and three sisters, Mrs. Adeline Quattro, Miss Lucille DiBacco, and Miss Susie DiBacco, all of Detroit.

A solemn requiem mass will be conducted Monday at 10 a. m. in St. Thomas Catholic Church with Father Francis A. Spillar officiating. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

Marine Reserve Gets Training Opportunity

About 20 per cent of Company D, Marine Corps Reserve, has enrolled in the Marine Corps Institute according to Capt. John T. Fey, commanding officer.

Unit Education Officer First Lt. John R. Manley is urging 100 per cent enrollment because free enrollment in the institute is one of the big advantages of belonging to the Reserve Corps.

Military proficiency in the Corps largely depends upon the knowledge of individuals and their ability to apply that knowledge effectively, Capt. Fey said. The Marine Corps Institute as the oldest service school of its type has provided that service for over 28 years.

More than 20 high school, college and technical courses are offered by the school. Capt. Fey emphasized the opportunity given to work toward high school graduation, to earn college credits or to perfect skill in a craft or trade. All this is possible at no expense to the member either for books or instruction, he added, and each man enro" d has a competent instructor assigned to him.

Estate Plans May Require Revision Naughton Asserts

Lower Earnings Pose New Problem

Do not make the mistake of assuming that estate plans made today will remain satisfactory in the future without change, Joseph M. Naughton, president of the Second National Bank, warned yesterday in an address before the Cumberland Life Underwriters Association.

In his address on the role of life insurance in estates at a luncheon meeting of the association, Naughton also stressed that the tax angle should never dominate one's thinking when making recommendations for an estate plan.

There were two distinct approaches to the problem of estate planning 25 years ago — that of the bank trust department and of the life insurance companies, he pointed out.

Any selfishness which once characterized their viewpoints has disappeared, he explained, for the main concern of both parties now seems to be, "What is the best way to aid the client in conserving his property?"

In some cases, life insurance options are the best answer while in others they prove too inflexible so that there is really no competition between life underwri" and the trust officers of banks, he asserted.

Face New Problem

All interested in conserving property now have to face a new problem, that of lower earnings on both property and securities so that small estates now need more careful planning than ever before.

During the past 20 years, he said, the "You can't take it with you" has become so prevalent that the person who builds a large estate for the future security of his family is "practically immoral" in the eyes of the revenue planners.

Actually, 99 per cent of the fathers working today must build their estates chiefly of life insurance if it is to do the job they want for their survivors, Naughton asserted.

The Revenue Act of 1948, he said, practically doubled the prospect list of life underwriters and the same act made women, because of the community property idea, users of life insurance more than ever before.

Planning Is Needed

Estates in Cumberland, Naughton said, consist to an unusual degree of real estate rather than securities or merchandise so that small estates in this area are served well by life insurance as a source of cash when tax colections must be paid during the settlement of an estate.

Even though state and federal governments are prone to collect tax in a controversial question during the settlement of an estate and refund later when required by decisions, it is a mistake for anyone planning an estate to think only of the tax problem to the neglect of more important angles, he concluded.

Naughton was introduced to the 45 life underwriters attending the luncheon meeting by O. C. Hileman, vice president of the association.

Westernport Girl Is State Winner In Jaycee Contest

Nancy Eaton Is Notified By Wire

Nancy Eaton, senior class honor student at Bruce High School Westernport, has been named the Maryland state winner in an "I Speak for Democracy" contest.

This was announced yesterday in Baltimore by Paul J. Williamson, chairman of the Americanism committee of the Maryland Junior Association of Commerce.

The Jaycees sponsored the contest in conjunction with National Radio Week.

A recording of Miss Eaton's speech will be entered in the national finals, to be held in Washington later this month. Four national winners will receive $500 college scholarships.

Williamson sent telegrams to Charles S. Catherman, Jr., president of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, and to Miss Eaton regarding her selection.

Transcribed speeches made by county contestants were used in the judging.

Runners-up in the state contest were Jerome Passagno, a student at Mt. Joseph's in Baltimore, and Raymond L. McKane, Hagerstown, a student at St. Mary's School there.

Miss Eaton is the daughter of Mrs. Gladys Miller Eaton and the grand-daughter of Mrs. Fanny Miller, who reside at Hammond Street, Westernport.

She is associate editor of "The Spotlight," student publication, and a member of the Tri-Hi-Y organization at the school.

Miss Eaton was an honor student while attending junior high school at Point Pleasant, W. Va. Her freshman year was spent at Hempstead, Long Island, High School, after which she came to Bruce in 1946 as a sophomore. She has been on the honor roll at Bruce each year since that time.

Although she is undecided as to which college she would like to enter upon graduation from Bruce, Miss Eaton said last night she plans to major in business administration or political science.

Buz Sawyer To Be Married, But Days Of Adventure Are Not Over

Comic-strip fans, who over the years have come to expect that their pen-and-ink heroes may skirt dangerously close to death, marriage or divorce but never will plunge into any of those inky pits, are due for a big surprise on Monday, December 13.

On that date, the energetic Buz Sawyer, Roy Crane's famous cartoon character, is due to marry his oldtime sweetheart, Christy Jamison—and what's more, he's going to do it. None of this last-minute running out at the altar for Buz.

Crane's decision to marry off Buz was made after readers flooded him with letters, pro and con, when it appeared that a wedding might be in the offing. It IS an unusual step for a comicstrip hero to take, but it is not unique. Blondie's marriage to Dagwood Bumstead, for example, was one predecessor.

Crane, while he emphasizes the adventurous and exciting side of life in "Buz," prefers to keep it as close to realism as possible. "Humans do get married," he said, "and children are born and families get older. I think Buz's marriage will broaden the strip's possibilities. With a wife to support, who knows what jobs and tasks he may take on to win the family bread?"

The marriage is to take place in the town of Willow-Springs—which is stateless, so far as readers are aware. For a long while, it appeared as if there would be too many obstacles in its way, such as the time recently when Sultry, the Maharani of Batu, turned up unexpectedly and did everything but shanghai Buz out of the arms of Christy.

But we have Roy Crane's word for it—all's well that ends well. December 13 is the witching day . . . and no fooling.

Postoffice Open All Day Saturdays Until Christmas

Overseas Parcel Rates Changed

Today and next Saturday, the Cumberland Post Office will be open until 6 p. m. for the selling of stamps and acceptance of parcel post packages, Acting Postmaster William C. McDermott announced today.

Substation A, Virginia and Third Avenue, will follow the same schedule. Ordinarily the postoffice closes at noon on Saturdays.

A special plea came from rural route carriers asking their patrons not to expect them to buy their stamps for them. A practice has been growing of putting letters in mail boxes with money rather than stamps.

Not only is this against regulations, McDermott said, but it seriously handicaps carriers in their duties. The pennies make larger loads for them to carry and they have not the time to put stamps on the load of mail they must handle.

Overseas Rates Changed

The Postmaster also announced changes in the rates on USA gift parcels sent to Europe which will be effective December 15.

Parcels for delivery in Great Britain and Northern Ireland and Italy including the Republic of San Marino and the Vatican City State, will now be sent for six cents a pound. The former fee was 10 cents.

McDermott explained that agreements between th forign administrations concerned and the Economic Cooperation Administration to waive terminal credits usually charged to the Postoffice Department made the reduction possible.

However, rates for parcel post packages sent to the Soviet zone of Germany including the entire city of Berlin with the exception of those going to American, French and British sectors of the city will be increased from 14 to 17 cents a pound.

In the non-Soviet sectors of Berlin, the charges will be increased from 10 to 13 cents.

Rates in the American, French and British zones of Western Germany will remain 10 cents, McDermott added.
